SAFE RETURN

President Ford kisses Betty Ford outside the White House Friday night after his safe return from California.

But President wants to continue his travels

Ford saw 'a hand, then a gun'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) —"I saw a hand coming up between several others in the front row and obviously there was a gun in that hand."

President Ford said Friday his point-blank confrontation with a would-be assassin will not deter him from continuing to make personal contact with the public as he travels around the nation.

"Let me add, with great emphasis, this incident, under no circumstances will prevent me or preclude me from contacting the American people as I travel from one state to another and from one community to another," the President said.

Talking with reporters after a young woman apparently tried to shoot him in the palm-shaded grounds around the California state capitol, Ford paid high tribute to the Secret Service for doing a "superb job" protecting him.

"I was very thankful to the Secret Service," the President said.

The young woman, identified as Lynette Alice Fromme, 26, a follower of convicted murderer Charles Manson, was seized immediately by Secret Serice agents and charged with attempted murder.

Ford walked away from the incident and into a 30-minute meeting about economic matters with Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. "I thought I'd better get on with my day's schedule," Ford said later.

He didn't mention the incident to Brown until their meeting broke up. Only when White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld began to brief Ford on the incident did Ford explain the circumstances of his arrival to the governor.

Gray Davis, Brown's chief of staff, said simply: "In retrospect, I'm very impressed with his (Ford's) attentiveness."

Ford and the governor talked mostly about the economy and jobs.

"There are a lot of crazy people in the country," Brown said afterward. "I'm just glad nothing came out of it (the gun incident)."

He said Ford told him he saw the gun just as a Secret Service agent grabbed the weapon from Miss Fromme.

He said the reaction of agents protecting him during his walk through the capitol grounds was "instantaneous and effective."

In Washington, First Lady Betty Ford said after hearing about the apparent assassination attempt, "It's something you just have to live with."

Agent's quick action detailed by Nessen

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Here is how Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen, speaking at a news conference, described the abortive assassination attempt Friday against President Ford:

"As the President was walking from the Senator Hotel to the State Capitol through the park along a walkway, there was a crowd gathered along the walkway to the President's left.

"Secret Service agent Larry Buendorf was walking directly behind the President. He saw the hand of a woman come up between two people in the crowd, and she was pushing her way through the crowd.

"She had a gun in her hand which appeared to be to agent Buendorf a .45-caliber automatic. The gun was about two feet from the President.

"Agent Buendorf reached and grabbed the gun with his right hand, grabbed her arm with his left hand, twisted and forced her arm down and twisted the gun out of her hand. And he took possession of the gun.

"At the same time, he turned her away from the President and forced her back into the crowd and forced her to the ground.

"In the process of this, agent Buendorf sustained a slight cut on his right hand between his thumb and his first finger. He cut this on the gun.

"He is not sure exactly how he cut it. He's not sure whether it was cut on the firing hammer, which would have prevented the gun from firing.

"At that point a police officer of the Sacramento City Police Department named Gaylin Peterson came to the assistance of agent Buendorf with handcuffs. Also, another Secret Service agent named Thomas McCarter came to assistance of agent Buendorf.

"The city policeman gave his handcuffs to agent Buendorf, who handcuffed the woman.

"Agent Buendorf turned over the woman to agent McCarter, and then returned to his duties of protecting the President.

SHOUTING AT POLICE

A woman identified as Lynette Fromme shouts at officers in Sacramento Friday shortly after she was taken into custody for allegedly pointing a gun at President Ford as he was on his way from his hotel to the State Capitol building.

Stephen Kay claims jailed woman carried out Manson's orders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of Charles Manson's prosecutors said Friday that he believes the convicted mass murderer masterminded the apparent assassination attempt on President Ford.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Kay said there "is no doubt in my mind" that Manson was behind the incident involving Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme in Sacramento.

Miss Fromme was seized by officers Friday as she pointed a loaded pistol at Ford. Authorities said the thin redhead, who joined the Manson clan in 1967, was charged with attempted murder of the President.

"The Manson girls just don't act on their own, they act at the behest of Charles Manson," Kay said. "I think Charles Manson had a hand in it. It's very easy to slip messages in and out of prison."

Kay said he thought a desire for publicity was behind Miss Fromme's apparent attempt on the life of the President.

"Knowing 'Squeaky' as I do, I think it will come out that it was done for publicity. I think the motivation is that they just wanted a forum for Charles Manson and his philosophy," he said, "and what better way to get publicity than to assassinate the President of the United States?"

Meanwhile, Vincent Bugliosi, another prosecutor in Manson's 1971 murder trial, said the incident followed the Manson family's pattern.

"This attempted murder is totally consistent with the past murders of the Manson family in that the past murders were designed to shock the world and nothing would have shocked the world more than the assassination of President Ford," Bugliosi said.

Irving Kanarek, who defended Manson during the trial, said he would have no comment on the apparent assassination attempt.

"I don't know anything," Kanarek said.

Bill to restore price controls on oil urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an effort to gain support for President Ford's energy policy, Senate Republicans introduced a bill Friday to restore oil-price controls through Oct. 15.

But the Democratic majority, increasingly confident of the votes to override a Ford veto and restore controls for six months, blocked immediate consideration of the GOP effort.

Thus, the new Republican bill, which is backed by the White House, will be eligible for debate on the Senate floor on Monday and Tuesday, providing a rallying point for the backers of Ford's energy program of raising prices to force conservation.

Ford has until Tuesday midnight to veto the Democratic back measure which would restore price controls through next March 1. With both sides predicting an extremely close margin, the Senate will vote Wednesday on overriding the veto. If the Senate goes against Ford, the House is considered certain to enact the bill despite the President's objections.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Thursday he thinks the veto will be overridden. White House aides reportedly have told Ford they think the veto wil be sustained.

The eight-month-old fight between Ford and Congress over energy policy has centered on the Democratic effort to extend oil-price controls through March 1.

Under the control program, the price of 60 per cent of U.S. produced oil was held to $5.25 a barrel. The remainder of American productions sells at or near the world-market level, established by the Middle Eastern nations, of $13.50.

But, in addition to holding down prices, the now-expired law ensured that energy shortages would be spread evenly across the nation and that the giant oil companies would not be allowed to swallow up independent sectors of the petroleum industry.

Burned X in skin for Manson

Miss Fromme once accused of murder

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Alice Fromme, seized by authorities Friday after she pointed a loaded pistol at President Ford, was one of the earliest members of what came to be known as the Charles Manson family.

She demonstrated her loyalty to Manson during the trial at which he was convicted of murder, branding her forehead with an X burned into the skin. Prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi wrote that this was one of the rituals for new members of the family "complete to tasting the blood as it ran down their faces."

The red-haired, freckle-faced Miss Fromme, now 26, said in an interview in July that Manson blamed former President Nixon for his fate and believed Ford was continuing Nixon's policies.

The daughter of an aeronautical engineer, Miss Fromme came from a well-to-do Southern California family. She has a lengthy record, and was once accused of murder, but has never been convicted of a major offense.

Miss Fromme, who attended and dropped out of El Camino Junior College in Torrance, Calif., testified at the Manson trial that her father kicked her out of the house when she was 17. In 1967, she joined what was to become the mass murderer's communal family. He gave her the name "Squeaky" because of her tiny voice.

She said she was sitting in the street crying when she met Manson. "A man walked up and said, 'Your father kicked you out today,' and that was Charlie."

Manson offered to take her with him, she recalled. "No one had ever treated me like that before, not pushed me around, so I just picked up all my things and went."

When seized Friday, she wore a long red dress and red turban. In the July interview, she said: "We're nuns now and we wear red robes. We're waiting for our Lord and there's only one thing to do before He comes off the cross and that's clean up the earth.

Violent acts plague Argentina, 8 killed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Ambushes, executions and bombings left at least eight persons dead Friday in a plague of violence across the country.

Five naked bodies riddled with machinegun bullets were found along the River Plate south of here in an area known locally as "the cemetery of the leftists."

Police said the dead were three women and two men. They said the women were a city transport board employe, a dentist and a student and the men were a student and a clerk at the city's public works office.

A caller to The Associated Press said they were members of the Socialist Workers Party, a Trotskyite group. He identified himself as a party spokesman and said the victims had been missing since late Thursday.

The right-wing Argentina Anti-Communist Alliance — AAA — blamed for more than 200 of the at least 600 political killings in the past 14 months, has used the area often for dumping victims. It was not known if the AAA was responsible this time, however.

Near Tucuman, 750 miles north of here, rural guerrillas ambushed a military patrol, killing a second lieutenant and a soldier, an army communique said. Several guerrillas may have been wounded, it added, but the band managed to flee.

Busing protestors riot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A child and 25 to 30 policemen were injured Friday night in a rock-throwing melee that accompanied the second day of court-ordered busing to integrate Louisville schools.

Several thousand antibusing demonstrators gathered after dark for the second night in the area near Valley High School and built a bonfire on the main highway, blocking traffic for miles.

About 40 Jefferson County policemen forced the protestors from the highway amid a shower of rocks and bottles. Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach, who appeared on television to call for "reason," said 25 to 30 police officers were injured.

The protestors carried signs and chanted slogans as they invited passing motorists to honk their horns if they agreed with their protest of busing.

"A man and his wife were coming through the crowd in a car and someone threw a brick and it hit the center post of the car and hit the child in the face," Jefferson County Police Chief Russell McDaniel said.

Despite Schabarum's objections

Uniform set of smog rules adopted by APC

By JON MORRIS

P-B Staff Writer

Despite opposition voiced by member Pete Schabarum, a uniform set of emergency smog regulations was adopted in Pomona Friday by the Southern California Air Pollution Control District's board of directors.

Increases in permit fees for Los Angeles County business firms who are potential polluters also were approved by the board.

The regulations for smog alerts are not new, but they do represent the first time uniform plans were approved for Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange and Riverside counties. They are a consolidation of former APCD regulations.

The newly-created board, which met in Pomona City Council chambers, includes supervisors from the four counties.

The regulations provide for possible shutdowns of industrial plants, slowdowns of motor vehicle travel and retail and service establishment closures.

Riverside County supervisor Alfred McCandless pointed out that according to language in the regulations, shutdowns may not arbitrarily occur. A scientific advisory committee would first be consulted.

Even with third-stage episodes, when ozone counts reach .50 ppm for one hour, "we are not obligated to mandate a full shutdown," said a

Gun incident reaction

Americans gentle, Kennedy claims

SEATTLE (AP) — Senator Edward M. Kennedy, two of whose brothers were gunned down by assassins, said Friday that despite "isolated incidences of violence, all of us must recognize that the American people are calm and gentle people, generous in their hospitality."

Reacting to the incident in which a young woman pointed a gun at President Ford, Kennedy said:

"The great majority of the American people want to see their president and talk with him." He said that whether to subject himself to the perils of public appearances is a "personal decision each president has to make."

Extra precautions were apparent during Kennedy's appearances here to dedicate a cancer treatment and research center, with an abundance of plainclothes detectives with walky-talkies and uniformed police hovering around the senator.

A Seattle Police Department spokesman said it was "safe to assume" that more police protection was afforded Kennedy than most other visiting senators might receive.

Thank God he's all right: Rockefeller

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "Thank God that he was all right," Vice President Nelson Rockefeller said Friday after he learned of an abortive assassination attempt against President Ford.

Rockefeller, here for a day of personal appearances, told a news conference, "It is a tragic situation that people resort to an attempt of that kind."

The Vice President said he learned of the incident right after a luncheon with the Rochester Chamber of Commerce which kicked off a savings bond campaign. Asked if he had been in contact with the President, Rockefeller said, "I'm in constant contact with Washington all the time," although he did not say that he had talked with the President.

Asked what the incident indicated about the mood of the country, Rockefeller replied, "Nothing."

The former New York governor then went on to answer questions about other subjects.

Shots end years of pain, debts for invalid couple

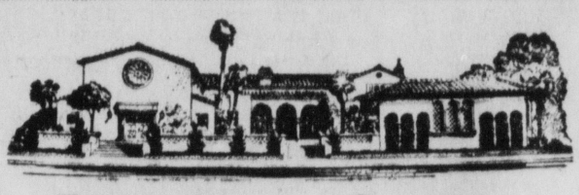

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nurse came, as she had day after day, to the modest home of the invalid couple—the wife, paralyzed for 25 years, the husband a bed-ridden cancer victim.

But this morning, notes at the front and back door warned: Don't come in. Call the police.

Inside, the years of pain and growing debts had been ended by two pistol shots, police said, from an antique revolver fired by Charles Hovenden, 69.

Officers found Hovenden slumped in his wheelchair beside the bed of his wife, Carolena, 68. Notes indicated that the couple had finally been overwhelmed by their pain and the burden of medical bills that Social Security and Medicare could no longer cover.

Sometime Monday, said police, Hovenden shot his wife in the head, then fired another bullet into his own head. They were discovered Tuesday morning.

Brown 'to move faster'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — "There are a lot of crazy people in the country," Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said today after a woman pointed a loaded gun at President Ford.

"I'm just glad nothing came out of it," the Democratic governor said.

A woman was subdued by a Secret Service agent after she pointed a .45-caliber automatic pistol at Ford as he was walking on a Capitol Park sidewalk on the way to a private meeting with Brown.

Brown said he and Ford discussed the incident and Ford told him that he saw the gun.

Asked how he felt as a public official after the incident, Brown said, "It just makes me move faster."

Commenting on Ford's anticrime address to a joint session of the California Legislature, Brown said the state is "in the forefront" of doing what Ford emphasized.

"We have bills that would do exactly what the President said," Brown told reporters on the floor of the Assembly chambers after Ford's 20-minute address.

"We're in the forefront here in California — mandatory sentencing for heroin sellers ... mandatory confinement for criminals who use guns

"I've been calling for clear, certain penalties for some time," Brown said.

Ford's earlier address to business leaders drew praise from the state Assembly's Republican leader, but a prominent Democrat described it as "a Reagan speech in Reagan country."

Mail rate set until December

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service has decided to maintain current rates throughout the Christmas mailing season, but plans to boost postage prices immediately thereafter, it was announced Friday.

The Postal Service, which is losing $8 million a day, will file a rate increase request "sometime in the next two weeks" to take effect after Christmas, said Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar.

Bailar did not say what increase in rates the Postal Service would seek, but it is expected that the cost of mailing a one-ounce first-class letter would increase from 10 to 13 cents.

It is expected that second-class postage — used to send periodicals — as well as other classifications, would also be raised.

If the Postal Rates Commission does not act on the rate increase request within 90 days, it would take effect on a temporary basis.

Bailar could have sought a pre-Christmas rate boost, but as one postal official said before the decision was made: "We would have to consider how the public would react to that."

Current postal rates were made permanent Thursday at a meeting of the Postal Service's Board of Governors — setting the stage for the post-holiday rate boost.

CAPTURED — Secret Service agents and a uniformed officer put a woman identified as Lynette Fromme into a police car after she allegedly pointed a gun at President Ford in Sacramento Friday.

'Greasepaint bandits' sought in robbery

Upland police say the so-called "greaspaint bandits" Thursday afternoon robbed Ole's Hardware Store at 350 S. Mountain Ave., in Upland, and may have robbed an Upland service station early Friday.

Since Aug. 27, two men that police are referring to as the greasepaint bandits are believed to have committed 10 or more armed robberies in the Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Upland areas.

In each of the robberies, one of the robbers entered each store or service station, always wearing either an army fatigue hat or jacket and grease marks on his face. The robbers' accomplice, reportedly seen in the store either before or during the robberies, is suspected of driving their getaway car.

Each time the robber has shopped for various items in the store, picking up miscellaneous goods, ranging from cigarettes to butane lighters, approaches the counter clerk and shows a robbery note and a small black handgun.

In Thursday's robbery at Ole's, police said the robber came to one of the check out counters with several items and showed a note and the handgun. He was wearing green army fatigues and had a red mark on the right side of his face. Clerks at the store told officers the robber escaped with another man, possibly in a dirty white foreign car.

Another robbery at Jimmy's Service Station, 185 N. Mountain Ave., Upland Friday netted a robber, somewhat similar in description, a small amount of cash. But Upland police said the robber was wearing a green on white print short sleeve shirt, brown corduroy pants and bore no grease marks on his face. The robber escaped with a Bank of America money bag containing a small amount of cash.

Wage credit for hiring welfare cases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's employment chief says employers who hire a welfare recipient can now claim up to 20 per cent of his wages as a credit against federal income taxes.

Martin Glick, director of the Employment Development Department, said Thursday, "This wage credit offers substantial tax savings to employers and, as such, is an incentive to cut our welfare costs."

The Federal Tax Rebate Act of 1975 allows an employer to take an income tax credit equal to one-fifth of wages paid to employes who are receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits when hired.

APC directors pass smog rules

spokesman for the district.

Schabarum, meanwhile, termed the regulations a result of "poorly conceived" federal legislation. "This is much ado about nothing."

He said $50 million worth of business would be lost if all firms in Los Angeles Cuonty were closed for a day. "The public won't be apprised of this until it happens."

During a public hearing on the regulations, several spokesmen for business enterprises urged the board to carefully consider the plans.

Walter Dabherdt of the Stanford Research Institute, presented a study completed for California Business Properties Association.

He said the study shows smog episode controls are more effective over longer periods. "We don't feel short-term curtailment plans will have much effect on oxidant levels."

Studies made from 1970 to 1974 prove "there is no accurate, objective forecast technique for oxidants on an 18 to 24-hour time schedule," he noted.

A meteorologist; Debherdt declared APCD techniques are subjective and have "poor verification. Forecasting criteria are questionable."

Dabherdt's results for the "Upland trajectory", (smog path) show if third stage alerts are implemented successfully, there would be only a 16 per cent reduction in oxidant levels. Less successfully, there would be a decrease of 7 per cent.

McCandless responded by saying, "I'm not an advocate of shutting down the world" because of small oxidant levels in the air. "However, I'd like to have a contingency plan."

Charles McKenney, a spokesman for Sears Roebuck stores, indicated the regulations would affect 30 Sears outlets in the Los Angeles area. The shutdown of stores would cause "irreparable damage," he said. "We wonder if the plans are fair."

Meanwhile, increases in permit fees approved for businesses who use potential pollutants will mean the APCD will recover 50 per cent of costs involved in processing permits. Before, only 25 to 30 per cent of the costs were recovered.

Dry cleaning firms, charging discrimination of small businesses, had their one-time fees reduced by the board, from an average of $200 to $300 down to $50.

A spokesman for the district said the new fee schedule will mean Los Angeles County will receive $900,000 annually in fee revenues. The county is now receiving $600,000.

Actress Sabrina Schiller, of Coalition for Clean Air, called for 100 per cent recovery by the county of processing charges. "Fees are not equitable," she added. "Industrial sources should pay for all costs."

Based on horsepower, a small dry cleaning firm is paying $25 per horsepower unit, and an oil refinery pays only 66 cents per horsepower for a catalytic cracking unit, said Miss Schiller.

A 36 per cent reduction in taxes for property owners would be realized if there was 100 per cent recovery, she concluded.

Slight drop in jobless rate noted

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate went down in Los Angeles County and the Riverside-San Bernardino area in August but remained the same in Orange County.

The state Department of Employment Development said today that the Los Angeles County unemployment rate in August was 9.9 per cent, down from 10.3 per cent in July.

The Orange County rate was 8.3 per cent in both July and August.

In the Riverside-San Bernardino area, the rate dropped from 11.9 per cent in July to 11.4 per cent in August.

Seasonal gain were largely the result of improvements in the construction industry, a spokesman said.

California's unemployment rate rose slightly to 10.2 per cent in August, even though the total number of people out of work dropped, state officials in Sacramento said Friday.

State Employment Director Martin Glick said the rate was one-tenth of one per cent higher than July, although the number of jobless dropped by 85,000 to 898,400.

He said that is because the rate was adjusted to allow for the seasonal rise in employment.

The record jobless rate in the state was 10.6 per cent in May. In June there were 1,021,200 unemployed Californians. The rate dropped to 9.9 per cent in June, and rose to 10.1 per cent in July.

The national unemployment rate held steady in August at 8.4 per cent.

"While California's unemployment rate is often compared with the national rate, the two rates are not precisely comparable," Glick said.

"The national rate is an average of all 50 states, which have a wide variety of economic conditions.

Two with show biz in blood open professional studio in Claremont

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

If things go the way they hope, two young Claremonters will some day be the people behind the people who make it big in show business.

They are Chuck Sloan and Pete Congo, owners and operators of Thee Studio Inc., 224 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Sloan, 23, and Congo, 30, by their own admission frustrated actors, have a custom-designed, expansively and expensively equipped recording studio.

It was conceived, they agree, to fill a need in this area. It opened June 1 and, according to Sloan and Congo, business is good and continuously growing.

"The first two weeks of August we brought in as much as our first two months of operation," said Sloan.

Some months back, Sloan, wanting to tape an original comedy routine, sought professional help. A friend, Robert Mathieson of Claremont who operated a studio, filled the bill.

Sloan bought out Mathieson and took another friend, Lewis Mark, as a partner. Eventually Mark moved on to Torrance. Sloan changed the name, and took on Congo, a friend from college.

They had met and worked together at Citurs College (theater and student government). Sloan went on to UC Santa Barbara and Congo, Cal State Long Beach, but their adventures into these halls of learning were unfulfilling.

"What they're teaching at the college level in the field of recording is not what's really going on," explained Sloan.

After one quarter, each of the men returned to Claremont.

Now, after investing $300,000 in equipment and the construction of the studio, they have an open field. Their minimum price is $60 and hour.

(Try this list of equipment for a mouthful: Spectra-Sonics 1040 24 in-out console, an MCI 16-track recording machine, Dolby noise reduction on all channels, JBL 4341 monitoring speakers and FMT reverberation units. Outboard equipment includes URFI limiter-compressors, Gotham digital delay line and mic-mix.)

While the bulk of their business comes from beginners — largely their college friends — they're attracting professionals who are learning by word-of-mouth of their capabilities.

Recently actress Elsa Lanchester visited Thee Studio to record a reading for Pelacon Records new album titled "The Turnabouts Players" for Odyssey by Forman Brown.

Two other professionals in the studio recently were Walter de La Brosse and Michael Fennally.

Sloan and Congo are attracting business, they claim, because of their equipment ("we can do phenomenal things with sound") and the design of the studio, because they have a good enginer, Rich Houston, 23, Montclair, and because they take time to become friends with everyone who comes in and find out what it is they really want to do.

"We like helping young musicians," said Sloan. "We like to work people-to-people. Most of our business is from referrals. We don't want anyone to think they can't work here, that we're too big."

During their busy days, Sloan and Congo snatch brief moments to talk about their acting aspirations.

"My idols are in musical comedy. That's what I'd really like to do," said Sloan. "Eventually, I'd like to get into acting."

"I'd like to lose about 30 pounds and then get into acting," said Congo. "I think partly from our frustrations comes our desire to help young musicians."

Federal school lunch project continues in Pomona district

Pomona Unified School District again this year will offer free and reduced-price breakfast, lunch and milk programs to pupils enrolled in district schools.

All are federally funded through the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk programs.

The district has adopted a family income criteria to determine eligibility for the free or reduced-price meals and milk.

The full price, for children from families with income above the eligibility margin, is 50 cents for hot lunch, 30 cents for breakfast and 7 cents for extra cartons of milk.

As in the past, the lunch program will be offered at all 31 schools in the district. The breakfast program will be available only at six elementary schools. They are Arroyo, Hamilton, Madison, North San Antonio, Kellogg and Washington.

Letters are being mailed to families of all children in the district explaining the program offered at their individual schools.

Application forms for free and reduced-price meals are included in the letters. Information provided on application forms is confidential and used only to determine eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

Under the criteria set by the district, children from a family of four living on $522 or less a month will be eligible for free meals. The same size family living on $731 or less a month will be eligible for reduced-price meals for its children.

Families not meeting this critiera, but with unusual expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education costs due to the mental or physical condition of a child or disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

In certain cases foster children also are eligible.

District policy requires that no child be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin in the operation of the programs.

Under provisions of the policy, the principal at each school has the responsibility of reviewing the applications and determine the eligibility of students.

If parents disagree they may appeal orally or in writing to Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services.

During 1974-75, some 72 per cent of the Type A hot meals served in Pomona's public schools were free while 56 per cent of the combined Type A and ala carte meals served were free.

Seven counts filed against rape suspect

A youthful suspect, arrested in the kidnaping, rape and robbery early Sunday of a 27-year-old woman bartender, has been arraigned on a seven-count complaint in Pomona Municipal Court.

He is Clarence Manule Burch, 19, 1199 Hillside Drive, Pomona, who was charged formally with kidnaping, rape, robbery, felonious assault and two other sex offenses. Commissioner Thomas Peterson scheduled Burch's preliminary hearing for Sept. 17 and ordered him held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

The victim, who suffered two black eyes and other facial injuries in the attack, told police she was kidnaped after her car ran out of gasoline at San Antonio and Towne avenues shortly after midnight. She said she accompanied her assailant on his motorcycle after he beat her up and threatened to kill her.

The woman said she was attacked first in the baseball dugout at Pomona High School and later on the grounds at Cal Poly. After the latter incident, the man drove off with all her clothing, she said.

Burch was arrested Sunday night at Towne and Lincoln avenues, Pomona, by officers who noted that both he and his motorcycle matched descriptions given by the victim.

Among numerous indignities to which the woman said she was forced to submit were several attempts to set her hair on fire. She quoted the man as saying during her three-hour captivity, "I have no conscience. I don't give a . . . . !"

S.B. County

Copters seen playing big role in crime fight

In the past year the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Regional Helicopter Patrol has been credited with aiding local law enforcement agencies in arresting 900 persons, saving at least 10 lives and reporting 170 fires, according to Sheriff Frank Bland.

Bland said the helicopter patrol has made a "significant" impact on the suppression of crime in the county covering more than 300 square miles.

According to a Sheriff's Department evaluation, the helicopter patrol became involved in over 36,800 activities in 3,121 flight hours. The types of activities cover a broad spectrum, from search, observation and capture of wanted felons to search and rescue of endangered citizens.

The 150-mile-per-hour helicopters responded to 486 armed robbery calls, 1,511 burglaries and 1,445 officer back-up situations.

Bland said, "Because of its quick response time to these types of activities, the helicopter was directly responsibile for over 900 arrests of criminal suspects and participated in the arrest of many others as an assisting unit.

"The helicopters were involved in over 200 search and rescue operations and were credited with saving at least 10 lives as a result of their efforts. In addition over 170 fires were reported by the helicopter crews during their normal patrol functions," said Bland.

Bland pointed out that in a recent public survey more than 95 per cent of the county's citizens wanted continuation of the helicopter patrols, with 97 per cent of all officers believing the helicopter patrol made their departments more effective in crime suppression and criminal apprehension.

A cost evaluation of the project showed that citizens within the 300 square mile project pay 58 cents per week to support the patrol. The total funds required to support the aerial patrol would pay for only two ground police units, with the two units being divided into the nine city police departments and four sheriff's substations including Ontario, Montclair and the West End substation in West End.

Walnut Valley Water District has broken ground for construction of an 8.1 - million - gallon reservoir in Diamond Bar.

It is named the Andrew J. Rodzinak Memorial Reservoir, in memory of Dr. Andrew J. Rodzinak, board president who died last March. It is situated at Pathfinder and Brea Canyon roads.

It is scheduled for completion the last half of fiscal 1975-76.

Liberal trend

Conservative group rates Lloyd, Cranston, Tunney

By ERIC RUFF
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Congressman Jim Lloyd and California Sen. Alan Cranston and John Tunney generally followed liberal trends when voting on key legislative issues, according to a report published by the American Conservative Union.

The ACU, a conservative watchdog organization, based its findings on the solons' voting records covering 15 key issues that arose before the August recess. Among the issues selected by the ACU were strip mining, funds for the B-1 bomber, food stamps, aid to South Vietnam and Consumer Protection Agency legislation.

Democrat Rep. Jim Lloyd voted conservatively on key legislative issues 30 per cent of the time, according to the ACU rating. The figure was below the overall average for the House, which stood at 41.8 per cent.

ACU said the House is about as conservative now as it was last year despite the fact that about 75 liberal freshman Democrats have joined its rolls.

The 41.8 per cent conservative rating of this year compared closely with the 41.9 per cent figure of 1974. Substantial change was noted by the ACU among House Republicans — conservatism rose from 61 per cent in 1974 to 71.2 per cent this year.

On the senior side of the hill, California Sens. Cranston and Tunney also showed liberal tendencies, the ACU said. Cranston voted conservatively 11 per cent of the time while Tunney's rating was a little higher at 18 per cent.

The liberal showing of the senators was in line with the overall ACU interpretation which said the Senate was continuing a trend to move to the left. The conservative rating of the average Senate member dropped from 39.8 per cent in 1974 to 35.8 per cent this year.

Ford to cut car equipment

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is removing up to $300 in standard equipment from its new 1976 cars this fall in an effort to lessen the psychological impact of price increases on car buyers, company officials said Wednesday.

The move, part of the auto industry's latest strategy of keeping the price of cars down without cutting into their profitability, was revealed during a national media preview of Ford's 1976 models. The new cars will go on sale in early October.

Judges act to let public know more about what they do

The 850-member Conference of California Judges wants the public to become better acquainted with the group's activities and work, says Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Wapner.

Wapner, president-elect of the voluntary organization, addressed a luncheon Wednesday hosted by the conference and attended by members of the press. The luncheon was at the Central Courthouse in Los Angeles.

Wapner, former presiding judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, pledged the assistance of the Berkeley-based group of municipal and superior court judges in helping newsmen report on the conference's activities.

Ninety per cent of judges of the state's courts of record belong to the 42-year-old organization, Wapner said. Its principal interest is the administration of justice, he said, and to further that aim the group has formed committees specializing in judicial education, judicial ethics and Project Benchmark.

Project Benchmark was described as a public information and education program about the courts and the judiciary. Now in its fourth year, Project Benchmark is funded by the conference and the Office of Criminal Justice Planning.

The project has published a series of seven 40- to 50-page softcover booklets for use in California schools. More than 800 junior and senior high school social studies programs use these materials in law-related courses, Wapner said.

To continue judicial education, the conference holds many professional seminars. There were 127 superior court judges and 137 municipal court judges attending conference-sponsored workshops this year.

In addition, 87 newly appointed judges attended a two-week program of courses aimed at preparing them further for their new jobs on the bench.

The conference also employs a legislative advocate whose job it is to promote or oppose proposed legislation in Sacramento.

Wapner said the use of the advocate (lobbyist) is the result of the group's decision to become more active in matters affecting the administration of justice — a departure from the judges' traditional reluctance to become involved in legislative matters.

The conference's annual meeting is scheduled for Sept. 21 to 24, in Beverly Hills.

Senate OKs inheritance tax changes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation that would eliminate inheritance taxes on small estates and raise levies on large ones has cleared the Senate.

The bill by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, would remove all taxes on estates worth less than $120,000 and increase taxes on estates worth more than that amount.

Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga, said the bill would eliminate the cost involved in computing taxes on smaller estates and provide needed tax reform.

New wave of women on offensive

REV. BETTY ROSENBERG
To take ordination vows

NEW YORK (AP) — A "second wave" of Episcopal women is going on the offensive for the priesthood. They say that their taking of ordination vows as priests this Sunday will stir both resentment and hope.

It "will bring joy and hope to many, anger and conflict to others," the five women scheduled to participate in the controversial rite in Washingtn, D.C., said in a joint statement.

But they added that to continue to accept practices denying women the priesthood because of their sex is "contrary to the gospel and destructive to our church."

The five, all of them with advanced educations and professional church experience, are to join the ranks of 11 other women irregularly ordained by three retired bishops in Philadelphia 13 months ago.

"I think of us as the second wave," says the Rev. Betty Rosenberg, 30, a native of Wilmington, Del., who holds a doctor of ministry degree and now serves as a deacon in Washington, D.C.

"Some of our sisters have walked this way before us, yet the path is still difficult."

Unlike the 11 ordained last year, four of the five this time have been recommended for priestly orders by their home vestries and diocesan standing committees. Lack of such recommendations is the previous case had caused wide criticism.

But the currently planned ordinations also aroused disapproval. "Tragic and saddening," said the Rev. Canon Charles H. Osborn, of Pelham Manor, N.Y., executive director of the American Church Union, the high-church Episcopal wing.

The ordaining bishop for the Washington event this Sunday is a retired prelate, the Rev. George W. Barrett, 67, former bishop of Rochester, N.Y., now of Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Successful revolutions tend to gather momentum and create greater demands for change until their objectives are achieved," says Bishop Barrett, who once headed special church studies on women in the ministry.

"I'm sure the coming ordinations are a sign of such acceleration."

However, Washington Bishop William F. Creighton has denied permission for the ceremony, even though he favors ordination of women, and plans to start ordaining them after the 1976 Episcopal convention, whether it approves or not.

His delay about it was protested by one of the five, the Rev. Alison Palmer, 44, a native of Medford, Mass., a career foreign service officer in the U.S. Department of State and a parish assistant in Washington.

In a letter, she told Bishop Creighton that if the 1976 convention rejects women's ordination, "then for you to proceed to ordain would be to slap delegates in the face." She said it would be better for him to go ahead now.

Another of the five, the Rev. Diane Tickell, 57, a deacon serving as a social service worker for the Anchorage Community Hospital in Alaska, says:

"If it will suddenly be 'right' in 1976 for me to be a priest, it is 'right' now. My sense of integrity requires at this point in time that I 'vote with my feet' and act on my own convictions."

Another of the five, the Rev. Phyllis Edwards, 48, of Evanston, Ill., director of Christian education at a parish there, figured in an earlier controversy in 1965 when the late Bishop James Pike gave her as a deacon regular pastoral duties.

The church did not until 1970 accept women deacons as being in the same ministry as male deacons, for whom it was a first step to full priesthood.

Another of the five, the Rev. Lee McGee, 33, a native of Baltimore with a master's degree in religion and now a chaplain at American University in Washington, says ordination "will be an asset" in her campus ministry.

"It is imperative for the church's sake," she adds, "that we be open to spiritual gifts in all persons in our Christian community."

Birds dying in oil slick

SAN MATEO (AP) — Sixty birds, including several brown pelicans, have died in a 13-mile long oil slick off the Northern California coast, authorities say.

The slick was threatening other ocean birds, and the humane society said 60 oil-coated birds had been rescued.

1,000 expected at barbecue

Some one thousand persons are expected to attend the 14th annual barbecue of the United Methodist Church of La Verne which starts at 5 o'clock this afternoon, chairman Glenn Hall estimates.

Nearly 100 member of the church are involved in preparations for the annual event, which this year will be dedicated to the memory of Oscar Marshall. Marshall started the barbecues in 1961 and provided the beef for free.

The menu will feature deep-pit barbecued beef, beans, chili sauce, cole slaw, tomatoes, bread, soft drinks and ice cream.

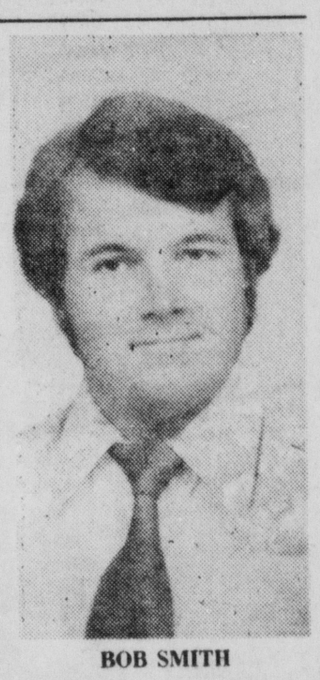

Recording artists Bob Morley and Steve Harris will furnish the entertainment. There will be pony wagon rides for the children.

Tickets are now on sale at the church. They also will be available at the barbecue at $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The barbecue will launch the fall activities of the congregation which start Sunday with church classes for all ages at 9:30 a.m.

The chancel choir will meet at 10:15 a.m. Sunday and the worship service starts at 10:45, when the Rev. J. Thomas Taylor will preach on "Gladness Service."

Junior high school fellowship will run from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and senior fellowship will be held from 6:30 to 8:30. An adult fellowship starts at 7 in the church lounge.

BOB SMITH

Youth post filled

Bob Smith has been named youth minister of the First Church of the Nazarene in Pomona.

He replaces the Rev. Ed West, who resigned to conduct evangelistic crusades.

Smith is a graduate of Ganesha High School, Pomona. He attended Pasadena College where he majored in theology and philosophy. He was vice president of the male choir at Pasadena College. He was formerly youth coordinator of the Burbank Church of the Nazarene

Contest winner to be given honors

Mrs. Luda Parker will be honored Sunday at the Towne Avenue Church of the Nazarene in Pomona as winner of the church's Sunday School Superintendent of the Week contest.

During the contest a different superintendent was appointed each week during August. Each contestant was free to use any idea he or she chose to increase attendance at the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school program.

Mrs. Parker will receive a gift. Others participating were Matthew Smith, Helen Nixon and Patti Smith.

At the church's 10:45 a.m. worship service, the Rev. Clyde W. Rather, pastor, will deliver a sermon entitled "God's Mighty Littles."

His sermon topic at the 7 p.m. worship service will be "Breaking Through to God."

4-foot parrot theft victim

SPRINGFIELD, Va. (AP) — Two birds were spirited away from a Springfield pet shop overnight.

Fairfax County police said the birds weren't your ordinary squawkers — one was a red parrot four feet tall and the other a white cockatoo.

Festival at Trinity

A Christian education festival will be featured during the 10 a.m. Sunday service at Trinity Lutheran Church of Montclair.

The children of the Sunday school will participate in special activities during the service. John Breitengross, Jerry Dahl Jr. and Fred Grefe, lay members of the congregation, will give Bible readings. The Rev. Maynard Saeger, pastor, will speak on "Christian Workers."

From noon to 3 p.m., the congregation will gather at Colony Park in Ontario for the annual church picnic, sponsored by the Sunday school. The affair is being directed by Bob June, superintendent of Christian education.

In the evening, the church youth will go to the Montclair Guest Home for a brief worship service before returning to the local church for Bible study.

MADLOCK IS MAD

Hooton develops into Dodger ace

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ATLANTA — Who would have thought Burt Hooton and Doug Rau would be carrying the Dodgers?

That is what is happening on this road trip.

Hooton, the refugee from the Chicago Cubs, won his ninth straight game and recorded his all time major league high 15th victory Friday night as the Dodgers beat the lowly Atlanta Braves, 5-2, before 2,725 fans.

The husky Texan (15-9) struck out eight and walked only one.

The Dodgers have won three games on this road trip, two by Hooton and one by Rau. Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith have been the losers.

But Hooton and Rau are still trying to prove they deserve a place in the Dodgers' pitching rotation.

"This is my first winning season," Hooton said quietly as he slumped on a stool in the dressing room. "But I think I'm showing the Dodgers I can be a pressure starter so that they won't be afraid in big games next year like in the World Series.

"Other pitchers have won 20 games," he continued, "and never pitched in a World Series. There have been a lot of great players at other positions that have never played in a World Series."

Maybe Hooton just has a better hypnotist than Braves' starter Mike Thompson (0-6). Hooton credits one visit to Los Angeles hypnotist Arthur Ellen with helping him correct a tendency to think negatively.

Thompson visited a hypnotist to help him gain better control of his pitches. Altough he walked only one Friday night, the walk and a wild pitch led to the first Dodger run.

But the Dodgers just had too much power in this sultry Georgia weather.

There were two-run homers by Lee Lacy in the sixth (his seventh) and Steve Yeager in the ninth (his 11th).

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Willie Crawford drew a two-out single, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Garvey's single.

The Braves came back to tie it on consecutive singles by Rod Gilbreath, Darrell Evans and Dave May.

Both teams scored again in the sixth. Davey Lopes tripled and scored on Lacy's blast. It was Lopes' 89th run scored and ninth triple.

Ralph Garr singled to lead off the Braves' sixth. Hooton got Gilbreath but fished up his only walk to Evans. May struck out, but Dusty Baker singled in the run.

The Dodgers were quiet until the ninth when Garvey beat out a bunt. Ken McMullen forced Garvey but scored on Yeager's blow.

McMullen had replaced Ron Cey in the seventh inning after Cey had aggravated a pulled muscle.

"I think he (Cey) probably will have to stay out a couple of days," said Manager Walt Alston.

"I'd like to see more of the kid (Jerry Royster) but I may use Mac . . . it depends on how San Francisco is going."

The Giants lost to the Reds and the Dodger lead over the third placers is back to 4½ games.

DODGER DATA — Rick Rhoden (1-2) and Carl Morton (16-15) pitch tonight (4:30 p.m. PDT). A larger turnout is anticipated since it is a special night honoring Phil Niekro. Special ceremonies will be held 45 minutes before game time with Niekro receiving a slew of gifts.

Yeager said in Friday's pregame show he feels the recent ineffectiveness of Messersmith may be caused by Andy following Mike Marshall's advice of throwing every day. As Yeager put it, the idea doesn't work for everybody.

The Braves' low attendance likely will result in a bill of more than $500,000 to Atlanta and Fulton County taxpayers for the 10th year in a row.

The money will have to be made off to pay revenue bonds of the $18 million stadium.

Chris Evert nears first Open crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Chris Evert got a good luck kiss from Jimmy Connors and a favorable call from a lineswoman Friday and moved within a single step of the U.S. Open championship she has never won.

Prim and pretty in a white frock with her blonde hair tied into a bun, the 20-year-old shot-making sphinx from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. cut down her frustrated friend and doubles partner, Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-4.

The match ended on a rancorous note with the 18-year-old Czech girl disputing a very important line call that went against her in the eighth game of the second set. When her protest went unheeded, she slammed down her racquet and tossed away the final nine points of the match.

"There was nothing I could do about it," Chris said afterwards. "It is not my jurisdiction. I don't think it will affect our friendship."

Chris qualified to meet her keenest and toughest rival, Evonne Goolagong of Australia, in today's final with $25,000 the first prize. The talented Miss Goolagong advanced with a 7-5, 6-1, victory over Virginia Wade, the British vicar's daughter, in a match that proved definitely anticlimactic before another sellout crowd at the West Side Tennis Club.

The women's final, providing a contrast of personalities and styles, will share today's center-court stage with the men's semifinals in which Chris' on-again, off-again boyfriend, Connors, is the sole defender of America's honor. Connors, seeded No. 1 in defense of the title he won on grass a year ago, goes against Sweden's wonder boy, 19-year-old Bjorn Borg, seeded No. 5, while a pair of left-handed Latin strongmen, second-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and Manuel Orantes of Spain, go at it in the other bracket.

The survivors will play Sunday, also for a $25,000 first prize.

Miss Evert and Miss Goolagong, the latter in private life Mrs. Roger Cawley, have met 20 times since they emerged in the early 1970s as the women superstars of the future. Chris has an over-all edge of 11-9, and is ahead this year 3-1, although Evonne has managed to win the blue ribbon tests.

It was Evonne who prevailed in three sets in their first meeting in 1972 in the Wimbledon semifinals, and it was she who wrecked Chris' dream in the semifinals here last year after Chris had won the French, Italian and Wimbledon crowns. The score then was 6-0, 6-7, 6-3.

Since then, the West Side surface has been converted to a grainy synthetic material similar to clay and given the game a complete face lifting. Clay is a game of steadiness and patience in contrast to the bam-bang-bash serve-and-volley tactics effective on grass.

On clay, Miss Evert is the indomitable warrior, unbeaten in 25 months on the slower surface, winner of 83 matches covering 17 tournaments. The last time she and Evonne met on clay—at Amelia Island this year—Chris won 6-1, 6-1.

Put a tennis racquet in Miss Evert's hands and she turns from a sweet, demure girl next door into a chilly destroyer. Showing little emotion, her face a mask of concentration, she unleashes shots with the consistency of a computer. She never gets flustered.

Miss Goolagong, on the other hand, is the blithe spirit, a bouncy, natural genius out of Australia's outback. She moves around a court with the grace of a fawn and makes every shot look easy.

"They should play music when Evonne is on the court," a woman spectator was heard to remark. "It is like watching a ballet."

The 24-year-old Miss Goolagong certainly would have achieved a greater status except for absence of a killing instinct. She is constantly falling back into what she calls a "walkabout," an Aboriginal phrase meaning loss of concentration.

Chris acknowledges that Evonne is the one player on the women's circuit she fears more than any other. "She is so loose and free-wheeling," says Chris. "She is so unpredictable."

Miss Navratilova, another with an overabundance of natural talent, is different. Chris admits she has Martina's number because Martina is so young and reckless.

So it was Friday.

Chris got the early jump with a service break in the first game and held on to take the set although the Czech girl had two break-points in the eighth game and another in the 10th, which she dissipated by trying to make too daring a shot. Twice she missed simple overheads which would have given her the vital break.

Martina went ahead 4-2 in the second set, breaking in the sixth game with a pair of drop shots that caught Chris flat-footed, but Miss Everet slammed back to rebreak in the seventh, Martina missing two easy volleys.

With the score 4-3 for Navratilova won the first point on Chris' serve and apparently went to love-30 when a soaring lob by Miss Evert appeared to fall beyond the baseline.

A plump lineswoman called the shot good, reducing the score to 15-15. Miss Navratilova protested vigorously and the crowd supported her with boos and whistles aimed at the official.

Martina, obviously upset, lost the point, slammed down her racquet and proceeded to lose nine straight point and the match.

Chris sat with Connors for 15 minutes before the match. Jimmy, whom she had been scheduled to marry last November, gave her a kiss before she went on the court. He also was there to greet her when the match ended.

Royals show some power

ANAHEIM (AP) — George Brett and Al Cowens singled home runs in the eighth inning, triggering the Kansas City Royals to a 5-2 decision over the California Angels Friday night.

Amos Otis beat out an infield single in the Kansas City eighth, stole second and scored the tying run on Brett's single.

Brett, who earlier knocked in the first Kansas City run in the third inning, took second on the throw home and eventually scored the tie-breaking run on Cowens' single to right.

Brett then delivered a two-run single in the ninth, giving him five hits and four RBI for the night.

Lee Stanton singled home a run in the sixth inning to provide the Angels with a 2-1 lead before the Royals rallied.

California scored its first in the fifth on Mike Miley's RBI single.

The Royals had the first opportunity to score when Cowens opened the second with a double to left. One out later he went to third on Figueroa's errant pickoff throw but he was stranded.

The Royals took the lead in the third when Frank White singled, stole second and rode home on Bret-t's two-out double to right center.

Dave Collins tripled with two out in the California third and Rivers opened the fourth with a three-bagger off the centerfield fence. But Bruce Bochte grounded to third and Steve Busby fanned Lee Stanton and rookie Danny Goodwin to get out of trouble.

The Angels drew even in the fifth when Dave Chalk legged out an infield hit, stole second and scored on Miley's single to right.

Brett opened the sixth with his third straight hit but couldn't advance.

California took the lead with an unearned run in the sixth. Rivers singled to short and took second when the ball rolled under shortstop Fred Patek's glove for an error. Bochte's ground ball got Rivers to third and he scored when Stanton pushed a single to right through the drawn-in Kansas City infield.

The RBI was the 75th of the year for Stanton, the team leader.

USC favored by skywriters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California's football team was picked Saturday by writers and broadcasters to return to the Rose Bowl with California a surprise second choice.

In a poll following the annual Pacific-8 Conference Skywriters tour, USC was listed No. 1 on 21 of the 28 ballots cast. On an 8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 scoring basis, the Trojans totaled 307 points to far outpoll California's Golden Bears.

The Bears were second with four first-place nods and 181 points. UCLA was third with 168 just ahead of Stanford, with 160. Washington, considered a darkhorse in the Pac-8 race, was fifth with 108.

Oregon State was sixth with 82 followed by Washington State, 66, and Oregon, 29.

Cal's fine halfback Chuck Muncie was rated by the writers as the best offensive back on the coast by 13 of the writers. Twelve named UCLA's quarterback John Sciarra and one ballot named both.

The one most impressive player by position, however, was USC defensive tackle Gary Jeter, a 6-foot-4, 250-pounder who received 23½ votes out of 27 cast. Danny Reece was top defensive back with 22 of 25 votes, and Cal's Steve Rivera received 21 of 28 votes as the top wide receiver.

The closest position to call was linebacker, where Geb Church of Stanford received six votes to five for UCLA's Dale Curry, four for Dan Lloyd of Washington and three for Bob Horn of Oregon State.

Marvin Powell of USC, a 6-5, 270-pounder, was rated the top offensive lineman with 19 of 24 votes.

Mayes logs fastest time

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Mitch Mayes of Palmdale, Calif., riding a Husqvarna, logged the fastest time Friday in trial runs for Sunday's World Championship Off-Road races.

Mayes covered the 3.3 mile obstacle course in 3 minutes, 26 seconds or 57.669 miles per hour. He is a former Baja 500 and Baja International winner.

Fastest four wheel time was recorded by Bobby Ferro of Sherman Oaks, Calif., the former Baja 500 and 1000 winner. He covered the course in 3:35 or 55.255 m.p.h.

The Championships will consist of one main event Saturday night and six on Sunday over a 3.3 mile obstacle course laid out around off-road racing areas near Riverside.

Stabler blitzes Dallas' defense

DALLAS (AP) — Ken Stabler found it difficult to work up a sweat against the Dallas Cowboys Friday night even if the temperature was 85 degrees and the humidity high.

Oakland's unbeaten, poised and near-perfect quarterback bombed Dallas dizzy with six of eight completions for 171 yards and two touchdowns to trigger a 31-20 National Football League exhibition rout of the Cowboys.

Stabler, who now has thrown seven touchdown passes in a 5-0 Oakland preseason, was a spectactor in the second half.

The Raider southpaw drew praise from Dallas Coach Tom Landry who said, "Stabler is a tremendous pinpoint passer and in all the films I've seen no one has been able to get to him. We certainly couldn't get to him ... he had all day to throw."

Landry added, "Oakland looks like they are ready to start the season right now. They are right up there with Pittsburgh, in my opinion."

Oakland Coach John Madden said, "this is the way Kenny has played all through the preaseason. He's just been tremendous."

Landry added with a laugh: "Usually teams are down 20-0 to Oakland and Stabler at halftime, but we improved on that ... we were only down 21-13."

Operating on a warm, humid night, Stabler gave a quick indication of things to come for the national television audience with a 49-yard first period bomb to Cliff Branch. It set up a two-yard scoring plunge by Clarence Davis.

Stabler hit the swift Branch with a 30-yard scoring dart at 10:38 of the second quarter and followed that performance with a tricky lob screen pass which Charlie Smith turned into a 53-yard touchdown pass-and-run.

The dazed Cowboys, trailing 21-0, rallied briefly behind quarterback Roger Staubach, who took his team on a 70-yard drive climaxed by Charles Young's one-yard scoring plunge. Staubach flipped a 16-yard toss to Young for a touchdown with just 67 seconds left in the half.

Larry Lawrence, a second-year player from Iowa, took over the helm in the second half. He directed Oakland on a 70-yard drive which George Blanda climaxed with a 40-yard field goal. Pete Banaszak scored a fourth period Raiders touchdown on a 10-yard run.

Staubach completed 10 of 24 passes for 156 yards before giving way to rookie Jim Zorn in the fourth period.

Rookie Cowboy fullback Scott Laidlow of Stanford scored his first NFL touchdown on a two-yard run with 66 seconds left to wrap up the scoring.

Oakland owned a 21-13 halftime lead after building up a 21-0 advantage and being on the verge of running Dallas out of Texas Stadium.

Stabler, who went into the contest hitting 64 per cent of his passes in the preseason, sparkled with his deadly left arm.

Gabriel, Olsen clash at Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The repair unit of the Gabriel-Olsen automobile agency has been alerted—the bosses collide tonight.

Once teammates, quarterback Roman Gabriel and defensive tackle Merlin Olsen now play for opposing teams. The quarterback throws for the Philadelphia Eagles; his business partner still anchors the defensive line for the Los Angeles Rams.

The pre-season National Football League clash between the two clubs starts at 7 p.m., PDT, in Memorial Coliseum.

"It will be kind of interesting," said the 265-pound Olsen. "Gabe's a hard man to sack. The fact that we're close friends off the field should make us even more competitive when we play against each other. There's no quarterback I'd rather sack."

Philadelphia and the Rams both have 3-1 records going into the next-to-last preseason weekend. Their series lapsed in 1965 with the Eagles leading 7-3-1 but the Rams will be favored this time.

Yet Merlin and his defensive cohorts must stop not only Gabriel but also James McAlister, a running back who starred at UCLA for two seasons.

McAlister played for the Southern California Sun in the World Football League last year. After his contract was broken, he went to Oakland and then was traded to Philadelphia. Bidding for a starting job, he has rushed 25 times for 142 yards.

Still the Los Angeles interest must center on the Gabriel-Olsen confrontation.

"After 10 years of rooming with a guy, you really get to know him," said Gabriel. "I don't think there's a better defensive tackle in football. Merlin might not be as quick as he once was since that knee operation, but he's still quick enough.

"If Merlin gets a shot at me, he'll take it. If a guy goes into a game thinking of Merlin as a 14-year pro veteran, he'll get his head knocked off. I guarantee it."

This will be the first time the two ex-roomies have played against each other since they were in all-star games following college.

"I remember in the Hula Bowl," Olsen said. "I nearly sacked him. The field was muddy and the guard against me slipped and fell down. I had Gabe all alone when he was setting up to pass. I must have laughed or something, but just as I got to him, I slipped and fell down.

"I did manage to have him by one leg, but I remember he was able to get the pass away. I don't recall whether it was complete or not."

When the Rams traded Gabriel to Philadelphia two years ago, they got some men who will be out to help the offensive in this meeting. Wide receiver Harold Jackson was a key to the trade, but the Rams also got short-yardage running back Tony Baker and the draft rights that allowed them to pick John Capelletti, the Heisman Trophy winner from Penn State, last year and both Dennis Harrah and Dan Nugent in this year's draft.

But of Gabriel, his business partner says, "I'll be trying to nail him whenever I get the chance. The only qualms I might have would be when he is in a helpless position. But that goes for any quarterback in the league."

Zorn makes Dallas debut

DALLAS — Rookie quarterback Jim Zorn made his debut for the Dallas Cowboys Friday night in the 31-20 loss to the Oakland Raiders.

Zorn, who set most of Cal Poly Pomona's offensive records during his two seasons with the Broncos, completed 6-of-10 passes for 65 yards in his second half action for Dallas.

The lefthanded Zorn came to Poly from Cerritos College and signed as a free agent with Dallas

SC should be a contender

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We're not going to be as good offensively or defensively," said John McKay as he assessed his 1975 University of Southern California football team which he termed still good enough to go to the Rose Bowl.

McKay, as usual smoking a cigar and quipping in between moments of candor, told touring Pacific-8 Skywriters that his squad was the youngest he'd ever fielded. He chalked that up to "a poor job of recruiting."

Between the funny lines, McKay defended quarterback Vince Evans, praised Marvin Powell and Gary Jeter as definite All-American candidates and said he was happier to have his current inexperienced squad which is loaded with talent than an experienced group of untalented players.

"The best kind of team you can have is one with experience and quality," he said. "The second best kind is one with quality but no experience, and I'd rather go with talented, inexperienced sophomores than a bunch of veterans who don't know how to play football."

He said overall this was his fastest team. He said that despite the paucity of veterans there were enough around to show the youngsters what to do. He said only one spot on the entire squad—tight end—was a problem and he had a solution for even that.

USC has just four offensive and four defensive starters back from last year's 10-1-1 team which was No. 2 in the nation. McKay said:

"Say there's a coach who has 34 lettermen back. Now, if his record last year was 2-9, then those 34 people helped him lose nine games, so how much better are they gonna be just because they're a year older? Just to have a lot of people back doesn't do it."

In Evans, he said, USC had a guy was "fast, a pretty darn good passer and the kind of guy who can go into pro ball and become a good passer. He can throw as hard and as far as anyone we've had..."

On his top players:

—"Jeter is one of the best defensive players we've got," he said of his 6-foot-4, 250-pound tackle. "He's big, strong, fast and he's got a 52-inch chest."

—"Ricky Bell is as fast as anyone we've had here, except for maybe O.J. Simpson, and he's by far the biggest tailback we've ever had."

—"Shelton Diggs is the biggest wide receiver we've ever had and he's tremendously fast . . . When he's running, he's so smooth you don't think he's going that fast. But just try to catch him." Diggs caught the two-point conversion pass Jan. 1 that beat Ohio State 18-17 in the Rose Bowl.

—"Dennis Thurman has a high athletic IQ. He'll call signals in the defensive backfield. He can read defenses better than most seniors." Thurman, a 6-0, 170-pounder, plays both first-string safety and flanker behind Diggs.

One problem area is tight end, a position McKay feels is critical to his I-formation offense. "We still have four suspects," he joked. "There's nothing worse than a tight end who doesn't block." He said if he doesn't find an adequate tight end, he may spread the line a bit and add a wide receiver.

Colleges open grid campaign

The college football season is just starting, but the coaches already are giving their crying towels a good workout.

"ECU proved last year they can play with us," warns Lou Holtz, whose 13th-ranked North Carolina State squad helps kick off the 1975 campaign today by entertaining East Carolina, a team the Wolfpack barely edged 24-20 a year ago.

"I expect another tough game," says Holtz. "It's a big intra-state rivalry and we expect ECU to be up. They run the Wishbone, which we seem to always have trouble with. They rushed for an awful lot of yards (318) against us last year and, since they've got most of their offensive people back, we obviously have a big job on our hands."

If Holtz' fears seem a bit exaggerated, Dick Bedesem, Villanova's new coach, appears to have good reasons for his lament as he takes his Wildcats, 3-8 last fall, to visit Maryland's defending Atlantic Coast Conference champs, No. 17 in the preseason Associated Press poll.

Although spiced with a number of interesting intersectional battles, along with four games in various conferences, the opening weekend's 23 games — seven this afternoon, 15 tonight, one Monday night — contain slim pickings for followers of the Top Twenty.

Besides N.C. State and Maryland, only two ranking teams will be in action. Sixth-ranked Penn State meets Temple Saturday night at Philadelphia's Franklin Field while Alabama, ranked No. 2 behind defending national champion Oklahoma, faces Missouri in a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 9 p.m., EDT) Monday in Birmingham.

Central Michigan, last year's College Division champs, and Fullerton State make their debuts in the University Division today along with Arkansas State, Ball State and Northeast Louisiana. Akansas State entertains Northwestern Louisiana. Ball State hosts Eastern Michigan and Northeast Louisiana is at home against Pacific.

A FACE FROM THE PAST — Former Yankee home run king Roger Maris, now out of baseball and owner of a beer distributorship in Gainsville, Fla., chats with newsman over the phone.

Memories haunt Maris

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Fourteen years after breaking Babe Ruth's single-season home run record, Roger Maris still has dreaded memories of his baseball glory days.

"Some athletes look for the bright lights, but it was never my kind of life," says Maris, who has found peace of mind as a beer distributor in this quiet North Central Florida city.

Maris — like the legendary Ruth — a New York Yankee right fielder, hit 61 home runs in 1961, teaming up with Hall of Fame member Mickey Mantle to produce a mighty one-two offensive punch. Mantle hit 54 home runs that year.

But Maris, now 41, was uncomfortable with the accompanying attention.

"I couldn't go to the bathroom without a reporter following me," he says. "I really found peace while games were going on, but I dreaded that final out when those same questions would be shot at me from a news corps which topped 100 at many points.

"I would have been happy to hit those 61 homers under some other name...and to leave the ballpark unnoticed.

"Maybe I was unfair to group everyone under a label of 'writers' when talking of my complaints," said Maris. "Many New York writers were good to me, especially the more veteran ones."

Maris says he's happier now.

"Honest to goodness, my greatest thrills in life are to work here at the plant and then go home to be with my family. I don't enjoy traveling too much. Pat and I have six kids and that takes most of my time."

Maris says his clashes with the press as a player could hurt any chance of being elected by the Baseball Writers Association of America into the Hall of Fame. Thus far, he hasn't drawn much support for the Hall.

"I'm not paying much attention to it, but if I were ever voted in, I would consider it a great honor," he said. "The Hall of Fame is something you think about from childhood if you play ball.

Irwindale hosting drag racing tonight

IRWINDALE — The highly popular AA/Funny Car driver Don "Snake" Prudhomme of Granada Hills will be making his return to Southern California tonight at Irwindale Raceway as the new 1975 National Champion based upon season points.

He, along with two-time National winner Marvin Graham of Oklahoma City, will be the top two racers for the "Back to School Bonanza".

Prudhomme will be locking up against a field of seven other AA/Funny Car drivers in Round Robin action scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Among his opposition will be Mike Halloran (Burbank), Jim Dunn (La Mirada), Jake Johnston (Fullerton) and schoolteacher Gary Densham.

In Top Fuel will be a showdown between Chryslers and Chevrolets to satisfy requests from the fans. Graham will captain the strong Chrysler Hemi team which boosts Rick Ramsey (Los Angeles), Bob Noice (Van Nuys), Dwight Salisbury (Van Nuys) and Don Ewald.

The Chevys feature Larry Dixon (Los Angeles), Stan Shiroma (Bellflower), Ray Stutz (Upland), Howard Haight (Pomona) and Rance McDanial (Fresno).

Wheelstander Richard Schroeder will also be giving a demonstration in his "Bad Bosa Nova". Filling out the program will be an eight-car Pro Gas field along with Bracket I.

Gates open at 3 p.m. and the racing gets underway at 7 p.m.

Racing officials selected

William Mills, Leon Lewis and Barry Whitehead, representing the California Horse Racing Board, will serve in the Stewards' stand during the 14-day meeting that opens Friday at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona.

The list of officials for the 1975 season at the half-mile oval was announced by Fair Association Secretary-Manager Phil D. Shepherd, and also includes John Hartley who will be manning the dual post of Director of Racing and Racing Secretary for the third straight season.

David Samuel returns as Assistant Director of Racing, and James Priddy has been appointed to serve as Assistant Racing Secretary. Racing Secretary for the Quarter and Appaloosa Horses will again be Ronald Hartley.

Richard Wheeler has been named to the post of Clerk of the Scales as he joins a racing officials' roster for the first time, and he will also serve as a placing judge. Priddy, Dean Scarborough and George Taniguchi will also be in the placing judges' stand, and the patrol judges' posts will be manned by Kermit Fields, Richard Valles and Robert Weeks. Valles also serves as paddock judge.

Sending the fields on their way will be starter George Kidd, and the list of officials also includes Marion Hodel, paymaster of purses; R. Scott Jackson and Jay D. Hoop veterinarians; Ray Christensen, timer; Harold F. Dwyer, manager of mutuels; Richard Riley, announcer; and Jeff Tufts, director of racing publicity.

NFL roundup

Vikings on tube

By the Associated Press

The Minnesota Vikings' show, a hit in its seasonal television debut, switches to a different time slot and a different day, but director Bud Grant hopes to keep the same format.

The Grant-coached Vikings, who handed the Miami Dolphins their first defeat last Monday night, take on the St. Louis Cardinals at Minnesota tonight.

ABC will televise the game starting at 7 p.m., EDT.

Fran Tarkenton, the star of the show against Miami when he completed 15 of 21 passes for 241 yards and two touchdowns in a 20-7 victory, again will head the Minnesota cast. Quarterback Jim Hart and running back Terry Metcalf are two of the guest stars from St. Louis who have been assigned big parts.

The next-to-last weekend of National Football League exhibition action was kicked off Friday night with Oakland playing at Dallas on national television.

In other games today, Cincinnati was at Detroit in the afternoon while in night games New Orleans is at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia at Los Angeles, Chicago at Miami, Green Bay at Kansas City and Atlanta plays Buffalo at Tampa, Fla.

Sunday it will be the New York Giants vs. Cleveland at Seattle, the New York Jets at Washington, Denver at San Francisco and San Diego at New England.

Baltimore is at Houston Monday night.

Pittsburgh, 2-3 and facing its first losing exhibition season since 1969, will be trying to get things together for the defense of the Super Bowl championship. Terry Bradshaw will start at quarterback for the Steelers, while backup quarterbacks Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam have recovered from injuries and should see some action.

Bobby Scott will start at quarterback for New Orleans, which has lost Archie Manning for from four to six weeks with a chipped bone in his left elbow.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel will be facing his old team when he leads the Eagles against Los Angeles, which has displayed a powerful running attack. Each team is 3-1.

Ken Anderson, who was rested in 30-20 loss to Philadelphia, is scheduled to start at quarterback for Cincinnati while Greg Landy returns as Detroit's No. 1 quarterback because of Bill Munson's shoulder injury.

Chicago will try to further hone a sharp defense and find an offense against the Dolphins, who also have been struggling offensively. The Bears have allowed just 39 points, fewest of the exhibition season, in winning two and losing two. But Chicago has scored only 45, also the league low.

Kansas City will be trying to settle its quarterback situation against Green Bay. Tony Adams completed six of 13 passes and Len Dawson four of eight in sharing duty in 14-6 loss to Los Angeles. Green Bay revealed its quarterback plans for the season Friday by cutting Jerry Tagge. That left John Hadl as starter and Jack Concannon and Carlos Brown as backups.

Fans in Tampa, which will have its own NFL franchise in 1976, will get to see O.J. Simpson run for Buffalo and could get to see rookie Steve Bartkowski start at quarterback for Atlanta.

Craig Morton will get the quarterback call in the first half and Carl Summerell will take over in the second half as the Giants try to win their fifth straight game against Cleveland. New York showed a solid defense in beating Pittsburgh 24-7.

Quarterback Joe Namath, who missed the last three Jets' games, is set to return against Washington, which will be seen on national television. Bill Kilmer had a big game for the Redskins in a 34-13 victory over Detroit, completing 24 of 32 passses for 370 yards and three touchdowns.

Steve Spurrier, Norm Snead and Tom Owen will continue their battle for San Francisco's No. 1 quarterback spot when the 49ers play Denver. Quarterback Charley Johnson is set to make his first start for the Broncos.

San Diego should be at least acclimated for game against New England at Foxboro, Mass. The Chargers spent last week at the Massachusetts Maritime academy after losing 14-9 to St. Louis.

Portland ready

By The Associated Press

The Birmingham Vulcans are strong rushers, but it's the Portland Thunder that's in a hurry to play tonight's World Football League game.

Thunder Coach Greg Barton is anxius to have his team avenge a 25-9 exhibition defeat by the Vulcans—a game Portland led 9-0.

"I honestly believe that if we had kept the starters in, we would have won the game," said Barton. "We manhandled them in the first half."

And the Vulcans manhandled the Thunder in the second half—a pattern that could reappear as Birmingham sets its sights on first place and Portland tries for its second victory in seven games.

Two other contests are scheduled for tonight with the Jacksonville Express, 2-2, facing the Shreveport Steamer, 2-3, and the Philadelphia Bell, 2-3, taking on the Charlotte Hornets, 2-2.

The Southern California Sun, 4-1, meet the San Antonio Wings, 4-2, and the Hawaiians, 2-2, play the Memphis Southmen, 3-1, in Sunday games.

Birmingham quarterback Matthew Reed will spend most of his evening handing off to Johnny Musso, Art Cantrelle and Joe Profit, who key a Vulcans' offense which runs 60 per cent of the time. Since the Thunder is seventh against the rush in the nine-team WFL, Coach Barton may have to wait longer for his revenge against Birmingham.

Portland sports the league's No. 2 quarterback in Don Horn, whose completion average is 61.5 per cent and whose offensive line has permitted only one quarterback sack in 138 passing tries this season. But the Vulcans are No. 1 in league pass defense.

Quarterback Tom Sherman, who has guided two consecutive Charlotte victories, leads the Hornets against the league's worst team in over-all defense. Bell quarterback Bob Davis completed four touchdown passes in last week's 58-39 loss to Southern California, but Saturday he'll face the league' third-best secondary.

The Sun will be going for its fourth straight victory and its first field goal of the season when it takes on the Wings Sunday. Despite a league-leading 34.6 points-per-game average, Southern California has yet to kick a placement.

The Sun, which boasts leading scorer Dave Williams—who caught four TD passes last week—had better attack through the air. San Antonio's rushing defense permits only 79.7 running yards per game.

No admission for CSLA FB

LOS ANGELES — For the first time in Cal State University, Los Angeles history, there will be no admission charged for football games, it was announced by Walt Williamson, acting athletic director.

"We hope this small incentive will bring out more people in the surrounding communities," said Williamson. "Our attendance has been lacking over the past few years and maybe this change will make a difference . . . you sure can't beat the price."

Prior to this season, admission rates were $2 for adults and $1 for students and faculty.

The Diablos open the season at home on Sept. 20 against Southern Utah State University.

Girl stars in youth football

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It's all part of the game, Diane Thompson says, for the boys to tackle her.

The 75-pound bundle of football dynamite is the only girl among 3,500 boys playing in the Pop Warner League in Charlotte.

This is her second season, and she's hoping for a repeat performance of her standout game last year when she chased down a boy carrying the ball, saved a touchdown and won the game.

Diane, 12, plays halfback in the Pee Wee division.

"I was concerned at the first practice last year, but not any more," said Coach Tom Little. "She has good speed, good agility and is a good football player for her age."

Little said the "only static I've had is from people whose sons she beat out for a starting position.

Walnut High boosters planing benefit events

The Walnut High Athletic Booster Club has scheduled two events for the month of September.

Next Saturday the Walnut Boosters will be holding a pancake breakfast to precede Walnut's football scrimmage with Bassett High. The breakfast will begin at 7 a.m. in front of the school snack bar and continue until 11 a.m.

A donation will be taken for the breakfast and will be used to help support the WHS athletic program.

On Sept. 21 the Boosters will be forming a bowling league at the Landmark Bowl in Pomona. There will be a short organizational meeting at 5:45 p.m. and bowling will start at 6:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in the breakfast or the bowling league can contact Phyllis Gardener at (714) 595-5370 for further information.

Cal Poly offense has a new look

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly opens its football season a week from tonight at Chico State and the offensive coaches are eagerly awaiting the opportunity to unveil the new look.

Gone are quarterback Jim Zorn, who broke almost all of the school's offensive records during his two-year career, and flashy receivers Andy Sanchez and Ernie Yarbrough.

Coach Andy Vinci knew they wouldn't be back but what he didn't know was he would also lose tailback Michael Harris, who quit school shortly before fall practice began.

So Vinci and his coaches have been busy finding replacements in the skill positions.

But even more effort has been spent building a stronger offensive line.

Because of more power up front plus the inexperience in the backfield, Vinci has adjusted his offense into more of a power attack featuring running over passing.

Even though there is a new group of running backs, backfield coach Rich Paulson believes it should be better than last year. And that is a lot for him to say since Paulson was the top rusher in 1974 with 561 in an injury-shortened campaign.

"Really, the backfield could be the most improved area on the team," Paulson said. "We have a lot more depth this season. It's a young and untested backfield."

Only junior Bernie Evans is back from last year's team.

Paulson named the probable starting lineup. It will consist of tailback Fred Sanders, a freshman from Pasadena's Muir High; fullback Brent Partridge, a product of Golden West College and diveback Aundre Holmes, a transfer from Drake University.

Reserves include fullbacks Tom Thigpen (Fullerton JC) and Ron Jones (Porterville JC); tailbacks Mark Sanders (Harbor) and Ken Robinson, a freshman from Brawley; and divebacks Kirk Reidinger (Santa Ana) and Evans.

Coach Erik Widmark, who handles the quarterbacks and receivers, is always a good one for titles.

He has named receivers Anthony Loville and Teddy Myles "The Spider and Fly" because of their speed.

"Neither Loville nor Myles have much game experience but they'll make up for it with their talent," Widmark said. "However, we're currently way behind in our passing game because we have spent so much time developing a power attack. It takes time to develop the necessary timing — of a new passing combination."

Widmark is excited about tight end Jay Johnson from San Diego Mesa College.

"He is one of the best tight ends Poly has had in years," he said. "We plan to pass the ball more to our tight end this season."

Leo Costa, who directed the attack at the College of Sequoias in Visalia the past two years, will start out as the number one quarterback after winning the job over sophomores Bart Moran and Sammy Ross.

"Costa can't run and he can't throw but he has shown the ability of taking a team down the field across the goal line," Vinci said.

"This guy is really tough," adds another assistant, Tom Hoffman. "He is a pro rodeo roper during the summer and his goal is to become a thrill seeker. He would like to climb the highest mountain or jump off the highest cliff."

Moran and Ross may have more natural talent but Vinci feels Costa is better equipped to handle the power attack.

Hoffman is in charge of the offensive line.

While Poly likes to brag a bit about the size of the line, Hoffman is glad his linemen are losing weight.

"It will help their quickness," he says.

Anchoring the line is senior center Steve Weiss, a three-year letterman from Gladstone High who is currently at 255 pounds.

The starting tackles are a pair of MSAC transfers in Dan Mitchell and Bobby Costeldia. Mitchell (6-5, 270) is a Glendora High product while Costeldia (6-5, 285) played his high school ball at Garey.

"Costeldia should be the best dive blocker in the league," Hoffman said. "If he continues to work hard and watch his weight, he can be a pro prospect."

At the guards are returnee Randy Taylor (6-2, 240) and Doug Fowler (6-5, 275), another Glendora product who has transferred from New Mexico.

Reserves on the line include George Papac (6-6, 280) from Boise State; Mike Walsh (5-10, 185) from Harbor; and freshmen Tom Mondok (6-5, 250) from Glendora and Mike Sooter (6-2, 225) from Sylmar.

The offense can't be complete without mentioning the kicking game.

Alister Crumlish, who kicked nine field goals (including a school record 47-yarder) and 19 of 20 extra points last year, is back but he has stiff competition from Armado Herrera, a walk-on transfer from MSAC.

"Our kicking is unbelieveable," Vinci said. "In competition the other day, both Crumlish and Herrera kicked 77 of 80 field goals."

Herrera can also punt as he is battling Kim Crockett of Pasadena City College for that honor.

Kachina (pronounced kah CHEE nuh) dolls are small wooden dolls made by the Hopi (HOH pee) Indians of the southwestern part of the United States.

The dolls are not toys. They are sacred objects carved and decorated to represent supernatural ancestral spirits of the Hopi people.

There are over 200 different types of Kachinas. Each doll is symbolic of a particular spirit and its role in Hopi life.

Decorations on the dolls of clouds, lightning, the sun and moon have special meanings.

Many are human forms with animal heads — eagles, bears, and so on.

At annual Kachina ceremonies, adults, dressed like the colorful Kachina dolls, hold dances to celebrate visits from the Kachina spirits, who bring the people's prayers to the Hopi gods.

After the ceremonies, the dolls are given to the Hopi children. From the dolls the children learn about tribal rites and of the ancient Kachina spirits.

World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Panel acts on tax shelters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee, after voting to knock down big real estate tax shelters, is set to plow into similar situations on the farm.

The committee plans to resume action with votes next week on farming tax-shelter investment operations.

The panel voted essentially to eliminate real estate tax-sheltering devices beginning next year.

Congressional tax experts say the shelters used by agricultural outsiders, such as business executives looking for a way to make tax-free money legally, are found in cattle feed, the cost of hens for shell eggs or in stud fees for horses.

Other farm shelters are in cattle, mink and hog breeding operations or in some orchards and Christmas tree areas, the experts say.

For instance, drawing on cases from Internal Revenue Service files, the experts said 10 cattle feeding and breeding tax shelters generated a net loss — the chief goal of the nonfarm investors involved — of $9.6 million

"The net loss passed through to all investors as a per cent of initial equity capital contribution ranged from a low of 96.4 per cent to a high of 238.3 per cent," the experts told the committee.

In the committee's first major move of the year in the tax shelter field, the panel voted 24 to 10 Thursday to get rid of most real estate shelters. It tentatively accepted a modified version of a basic proposal for a "limitation on artificial losses."

Congressional tax experts figure this plan could boost the federal government's revenue in the areas currently concerned in real estate tax shelters by roughly $1 billion annually in the early 1980s, with an initial pickup of about $250 million beginning next year.

Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., who recommended the basic plan, is pressing for the panel to develop a wide-ranging tax revision package this year.

Tax shelters are used by persons who put some money into a project with a goal of building up accounting losses which they can use to wipe out their income for tax purposes. The devices usually are used those with substantial incomes outside the areas involved in the shelter.

"In effect, the taxpayer is allowed to defer or postpone the payment of tax on current income, either by offsetting current income with loss deductions attributable to real estate or by receiving a tax-free cash flow from the real estate project, or both," the tax experts said.

TV police officer arrested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A star in a television police drama has been arrested and booked for investigation of drunken driving, authorities said today.

Robert Fairbairn, 28, who plays young police officer Chris Owens in "The Rookies," was stopped by Los Angeles police in suburban Brentwood Tuesday after he was alleged to have been speeding and crossing a center line.

Police said the actor failed a field sobriety test and was taken to West Los Angeles police jail.

He was released on $315 bail and was ordered to appear in West Los Angeles Municipal Court on or before Sept. 10.

War crimes check asked on Germans

BONN, West Germany (AP) — U.S. authorities have asked the West German government for background information on about 50 German immigrants suspected of having committed war crimes in World War II, the Foreign Ministry said.

The request was passed on to state authorities responsible in each case, a spokesman for the ministry told a newsman. She said because of the bulk of information wanted, it probably would be "some time" before the details would be available.

The U.S. investigation involves persons who either became U.S. citizens after the second World War or are permanent residents in the United States, the spokesman said. The American request for assistance in finding material about them was dated July 14.

Cost to U.S. in Mideast pact

$9 billion in aid for Arabs

WASHINGTON AP) — Israel, Egypt and some other Arab countries would get at least $9 billion in American aid over the next three years as part of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's bargaining for the new Middle East arreement.

The administration, congressional and diplomatic sources who provided the figure emphasized that this is a minimum sum and that it could run much higher as time passes.

Both Israel and Egypt demanded large amounts of assistance before agreeing to the interim settlement, under which the Jewish state surrendered some land on the Sinai Peninsula in exchange for political concessions by Cairo.

Kissinger has already begun lobbying for congressional approval of his economic promises, which breakdown this way:

Israel will get about $2.5 billion the first year, Egypt between $600 million and $800 million.

The second and third years will see Israel receiving a total of $3 billion. Aid to Egypt will be about $2 billion during the two remaining years.

Grants and loans to Syria and perhaps other Arab nations also will be included in the aid package. Only rough estimates have been made for this pending negotiations between Israel and Syria, but they are in the area of $100 million.

Sources said these working figures are minimums and additional costs will increase the total to at least $9 billion during the expected life of the agreement.

Under the program worked out for this year, Israel will receive about $1.6 billion in grants and loans to modernize and expand its armed forces and to build a new defense line in the Sinai.

The other $900 million, including $350 million to replace oil from fields returned to Egypt, will be for economic matters.

Egypt's share for this year will be entirely economic at this stage, with about two-thirds devoted to development assistance and the rest in wheat and other agricultural grants.

In the remaining two years, Israel's aid will be reduced to a total of $3 billion and with an increased share devoted to stabilizing the inflation-ridden Israeli economy.

On the other hand, the $2 billion allotted for Egypt in the last two years of the agreement will show a major share in military aid.

RTD fares up on park-rides

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Commuters will pay an extra 25 cents starting today on Southern California Rapid Transit District park-ride lines.

The new, one-way fare of 75 cents, however, will include parking costs, SCRTD officials said.

A transit district spokesman said monthly park-ride passes on most lines will be raised to $27 each, but this will pay for parking and unlimited riding.

A new way to bolster attendance

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — When Ted Anderson became program chairman for the Waterloo Jaycees, he was told to come up with something to bolster attendance. He hired a prostitute.

Anderson said his goal was to find something exciting that "would bring the people out."

The Jaycees and the University of Northern Iowa are sharing the cost of bringing Georgia Wilkins, a San Francisco prostitute, to Waterloo to make two public appearances.

"It was my idea to invite the Jaycee wives to this program to avoid any flack from them," Anderson added.

On Sept. 23, Miss Wilkins will participate in the first program of the school year in the UNI Controversial Speakers series.

The following night, she will address the Jaycees and their wives.

Miss Wilkins, a member of the national prostitutes' organization known as COYOTE, or "Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics," will be paid $200 for each speech. Her expenses will be covered by the two groups.

Keeping a car's engine in tune not only assures better performance, but also cuts down the pollution it emits.

Beer firm recalling half a million cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half-a-million cases of canned beer is being recalled by the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. from stores in 17 states because it "tastes funny," the Food and Drug Administration said Friday.

The beer poses no health problems, despite its "off taste," an FDA spokesman said.

The FDA said 515,852 cases of beer manufactured at the Schlitz Brewery in Winston-Salem, N.C., were being withdrawn from the market. The beer carried the lot numbers 11-F, 16-F and 19-F.

Each case contained 24 twelve-ounce cans.

The FDA said the beer was distributed in Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

The FDA also announced the recall of pies containing glass fragments and angiographic catheters which may not be sterile.

Table Talk Inc., of Worcester, Mass., told the FDA it believed none of its "Table Talk brand" pineapple and pineapple-cheese ready-to-eat pies remain on the market since the recall began Aug. 8 in New England, New Jersey and New York. The recall involved pies made by Table Talk through Aug. 5.

The Cordis Corp. of Miami, Fla. estimated 200 catheters being recalled may remain on the market. They include lot numbers 3045095, 3045144 and 114000.

The FDA said defective package seals may result in nonsterility of the catheters which are inserted into blood vessels.

Father, two children die in home fire

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — When fire broke out in the home of Warren Crawford's family, he stumbled through the choking smoke, trying to rescue a daughter and son from their second-story bedroom. All three died.

Crawford's wife, Lois, 40, and three other children escaped during predawn darkness Wednesday.

But the bodies of Crawford, 39, and two of the Crawford children — Christine, 3, and Michael, 6 — were found in the second-story bedroom.

Kathy Crawford, 12, and her sister, Marie, 10, jumped from their second-story bedroom to the roof of a car in the driveway. Mrs. Crawford handed another daughter, Therese, 8, to a neighbor standing atop the auto before being pulled to safety.

Kathy broke her foot. Mrs. Crawford and the two other surviving children were treated for cuts and smoke inhalation.

Firemen said they had not determined the cause of the blaze, which started in the downstairs living room.

Briton sees reduction in inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's present double-digit inflation will be down "into single figures by the end of next year," but full recovery will not be immediate anywhere in the world, British Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey said.

Healey, in a speech before the annual meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, said economic recovery must be led by the United States, West Germany and Japan.

"Britain is compelled to wait until others have broken new ground of recovery," he said.

Healey warned against expecting an immediate economic change. "We all have to face the fact that the coming winter will be a difficult one and we would be wise to warn our people of this fact," he said.

Caged, but still the good life

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

Few of you will believe it possible but just a little over 70 years ago, right here in Pomona, you could have purchased an air tight iron stove from Bradley & Russell, 215 West Second street, — a stove with heavy lining and an ornamental urn on top, — for only $1.75.

But the good life, 1904 style in Pomona, didn't end with air tight stoves. At Booth, Vaughn & Sons, men's clothiers, Michaels Stern & Co. TEN DOLLAR SUITS were being featured as the last word in men's fine wearing apparel. However, if you wanted something a bit less pretentious, Booth, Vaughn & Sons would gladly sell you an Oregon Cassimere BUSINESS SUIT for only $6.50.

E.J. Merriam was advertising 7 bars of soap for 25 cents; a 50 lb. sack of Table Salt for 23 cents; and Armours Dried Beef for 10 cents a jar.

If you were looking for entertainment, you could enjoy a special treat at the Fraternal Aid Opera House where, on Tuesday November 22, 1904, Beaty Bros. were presenting a "WORLD FAMOUS MOVING PICTURE SHOW consisting of $50,000 worth of the latest moving pictures positively guaranteed not to quiver or blur." In addition you got Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mounts, "the world's greatest vocalists in their special rendition of all the latest illustrated songs." —All that for a ticket costing 25 cents, 35 cents or 50 cents depending on how far forward you wished to be seated.

And suppose you were planning on taking a vacation. Where better could you go than to visit our State Capitol in Sacramento where, as advertised in The Pomona Daily Revew, you could stay at the Western Hotel located in the central business district? A free bus would meet your train and take you to your quarters which were guaranteed to be first class in every detail. —You got both room and board for only $1.00 to $1.50 per day.

Fate put Fischer in limelight

We described, previously, how Alexander Alekhine engineered the downfall of Jose Capablanca, up to then a legendary superman.

In contemporary chess, Fischer has a similar reputation — and for good reason. Who can match his historically unique achievements?

For example: He startled everyone in 1964 when he won 11 straight games in an 11-round U.S. championship. Yet there were scoffers who, with some logic, pointed to the relatively less than super quality of some of his opponents. Obviously, they demurred, he could not get comparable results against top European competition.

But in 1971, Bobby achieved the seeming impossible by beating Bent Larsen and Mark Taimonov in quarter and semi-final challenger matches, by scores of 6-0 both times. This was followed by a six-and-a-half to two-and-a-half victory over ex-world champion, Tigran Petrosian, and Fischer was the challenger.

Nevertheless, with a slight twist of fate he may never have played Spassky. If Petrosian had played more aggressively and alertly in two of their games, the Armenian might easily been leading early in the match by a 3-0 score in decisive games (with two draws). Fischer undoubtedly then would have lost the match. Instead, he drew those two games, and with the score two-and-a-half to two-and-a-half, he took the match with a four-victory spurt (in itself, unheard of against Petrosian).

What a difference: World champion rather than defeated also-ran! Though even if Fischer had lost, his defenders would have had a good case in his defense. Bobby had played the first five games with the flu, after declining to postpone the match. It is universally agreed that when he began to win he simultaneously became better and visibly more energetic.

Now, three years later, Bobby has not since played a solitary game. He is no longer world champion, and even his supremecy is in doubt. The courageous young Karpov has registered ever increasingly fine performances, while Fischer, it is feared by some, has allowed his skills to atrophy.

Reykjavik recedes into the past. Fischer the triumphant champion is now a wispy ghost. A match between him and Karpov seems less and less likely to materialize. People are forgetting Bobby — his presence in chess becomes small and smaller.

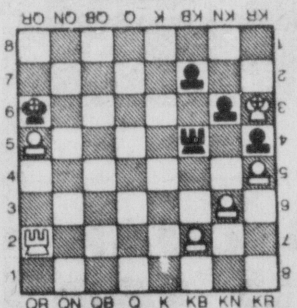

Problem

In our column last week, we cited the decisive position in the final game of Alekhine's victory over Capablanca. The moves chosen by him, though they attained the win, were not the most efficient. Here is that position again:

Do you see the quickest win for white? We will reveal the answer next week, though we presently leave you with the following hint: white wins by zugzwang, i.e., tying up the black pieces.

Postage Stamp Day scheduled

By GUSTAV DETJEN, JR.

The German Philatelists Association is celebrating Sept. 21, 1975, as 1975 Postage Stamp Day, and to commemorate the occasion Germany is issuing a special stamp. The 10pf release shows the posthouse sign of Royal Prussian establishments for mail transport from the year 1776. To be done in multicolor offset on white fluorescent postage stamp paper, there will be 50 stamps to the sheet. For information on availability in your area, contact the World Wide Philatelic Agency, 116 West 32nd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001

Two new definitive stamps have been issued by Australia to meet new postage charges to be introduced. The values of the two stamps will be 18c and 45c and the designs will show Australian wildflowers — specifically the Hilichrysum Thomsonii and a Callistemon Teretifolius. Contact The Australian Stamp Bureau, 76 South Orange Avenue, South Orange, N.J. 07079 for added details.

SAILING SHIPS

Four eight-cent stamps will commemorate Canada's coastal ship which have contributed to the safety, prosperity and independence of Canadians. The stamps feature the BEAVER in dark green, the NEPTUNE in slate blue, the WILLIAM D. LAWRENCE in dark sepia and the QUADRA in a lighter sepia. A total of 26 million stamps, printed setenant will be issued on September 24. To obtain two first day covers, each with a block of four of the sailing ships, send $1.04 in Canadian funds to Philatelic Service, Canada Post, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0B5. Minimum cash order is $1.

MAIL SORTING

The Republic of South Africa will issue a 4c value to draw attention to their automatic mail sorting process. The attractive stamp will be released on September 11th. For details on ordering, write Philatelic Services, GPO, 0001 Pretoria, Republic of South Africa.

FIRST DAY COVER

In connection with the forthcoming release of the USPS Bicentennial stamps, the Philatelic Journalist is offering an attractive cacheted first-day cover. Prominently featured is the current Postal Service insignia, along with appropriate wording. The cover will be franked with the four new commemoratives and will be cancelled on the first day of issue, September 3, 1975, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Orders for covers should be sent to the Philatelic Journalist, Box PS, Clinton Corners, N.Y. 12514. Cost is $1.50 per cover, and it is requested that a SASE be sent as well.

Reverse painting is a plum

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

Q. Can you tell me anything about my old painting done on glass? The scene is painted onto the backside, and actually resembles finger painting. My husband remembers seeing this painting hanging in his parents' home for over 40 years. It is still in its original frame and in perfect shape. Thanks for any information you have on this type of art. Mrs. S.S.

A. — The art of reverse painting on glass has been practiced for centuries, with religious scenes predominating. During the early years of the last century, much reverse painting was done in England, France and Holland, and imported to America. It was during this period that American artists began creating reverse paintings on glass to complement mirrors as well as clocks. Today, many of the more primitive types of reverse paintings are classified as a form of American folk art, and real plums exist for the collectors taking the time to make the discovery.

All caged in, but still leading the good life

"ENDANGERED ANIMALS."

This sign, posted in front of the cages, caves and pens of more than 50 vanishing species in residence at the Los Angeles Zoo, alerts the public to the fact that the mammals and birds face extinction in the wild, and also focuses on an increasingly important function of zoos throughout the world today — the preservation and breeding of species that are dying out.

A major part of the Los Angeles Zoo's operational program is the preservation of endangered wildlife species, many of which now survive only because they live in zoos or special preserves, according to Warren D. Thomas, director of the zoo.

Besides protecting and providing for endangered animals, the Los Angeles Zoo carries on an active program of breeding them. In 1967, for example, it acquired three Arabian oryxes, a rare African anteiope facing extinction. Since that year, the zoo breeding program has resulted in 13 births. Including this small herd, plus one at the zoo in Phoenix, Ariz., and one in Saudi Arabia, experts estimate there are only about 100 of the species in the world.

The Los Angeles Zoo is owned by the city and operated by the recreation and parks department. The first city zoo was opened in Lincoln Park (then known as Eastland Park) in 1885. It was moved to Griffith Park in 1912, then replaced by the present $10 million zoo in 1966.

The zoo's 113 acres include a children's zoo, the exhibit areas, administration building, the Andrew Norman Education Center, commissary, maintenance building, health center and parking lots. Planning is under way to expand the present boundaries into several hundred acres in Griffith Park. Among the projects programmed is a new primate exhibit to house the gorillas, orangutans and chimpanzees, one of the finest great ape collections in the world. At present the Los Angeles Zoo has more than 2,000 mammals, birds and reptiles representing almost 1,000 species.

The zoo is supported in part by the city, in part by admissions ($1.25 for persons 16 and over, 50 cents 12 to 15) and in part by the Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association, a nonprofit group organized to support and assist the zoo. Among the association's contributions to the zoo have been a rare Indian rhinoceros and the Arabian oryxes mentioned earlier.

The zoo is divided into five continental areas allowing visitors to walk through the habitat of animals from North America, South America, Africa, Eurasia and Australia. Also of interest are the aviary, with walk-through flight cage, the aquatic section and the reptile house.

Each continental area is planted with botanical specimens indigenous to the region. To further enhance the natural environment, specially constructed moats and barriers permit safe, unobstructed views of the animals.

The great number of "endangered animal" notices at the zoo is dramatic and thought provoking. In the African area, the largest continental display, signs warn that species in danger of becoming extinct include the white rhinoceros, lowland gorilla, brown hyena, addax, Arabian oryx and the pygmy hippopotamus. Endangered species in the Eurasian section include Siberian tigers, snow leopards, orangutans and the Przewalski horse, the small, shaggy ancestor of almost all modern species.

Other creatures facing extinction are the tule elk, grizzly bear, Alaskan polar bear, golden eagle, Brazilian tapir, tree kangaroo and the American alligator.

The zoo's active breeding program continually adds to the population in the various continental areas. One of the most exciting was the birth last May of a 125-pound "baby boy" to Metu, a 12-year-old Asian elephant on loan from the Portland (Ore.) Zoo. (Mother weighs 6,500 pounds.) The newcomer was the first elephant born at the Los Angeles Zoo, and is notable for being the first Asian elephant "second generation" captive birth in the Western Hemisphere.

Zoo keepers may be passing out cigars again soon — Metu's half-sister, Hanako, is pregnant.

The Los Angeles Zoo is located at the intersection of the Ventura and Golden State freeways. It is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, except Christmas.

This 125-pound Asian elephant, born last May, was the first elephant born at the Los Angeles Zoo. Mother weighs 6,500 pounds.

ON THE COVER

Zoo keepers Mark Hill, left, and Jerry Brewer measure Methuselah, the zoo's oldest American alligator. Almost 10 feet long.

Zebras and giraffes share a compound in the Eurasian section.

Portrait traces brilliant life of Sarah Bernhardt

By R. E. MORSBERGER

SARAH BERNHARDT by William Emboden. Macmillan, $12.95.

(Robert E. Morsberger is professor of English at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

For 60 years, Sarah Bernhardt was not only the world's most celebrated actress but an incredibly talented, energetic, and colorful woman whom Edmond de Goncourt called "the most remarkable phenomenon of the 19th Century."

The illegitimate daughter of a Jewish Dutch courtesan, she received the applause of monarchs and earned millions that she lavishly spent on lovers, theatrical ventures, and extravagant living.

Her roles became legendary — Phedre, Tosca, Marguerite Gauthier in "La Dame aux Camelias," the Empress Theodora, Cleopatra — rendered unforgettably in that golden, powerful voice that Lytton Strachey described as "a superhuman resonance which shook the hearer like a leaf in the wind . . . there was more than gold, there was thunder and lightning, there was heaven and hell."

There were these qualities in her life as well. In addition to acting and theatre management, she painted and sculpted with professional skill and had the first one-woman art show in London.

She wrote novels, plays, autobiographies, drama reviews, and newspaper columns. Though barely five-feet tall, she had an iron constitution and in indefatigable energy that she expended in flying over Paris in a balloon, playing with pet pythons, playing the piano and guitar, fencing, world tours, tennis, a performance at San Quentin prison, and a scandalous succession of lovers, many of whom were her leading actors or impressarios, and by one of whom she had an illegitimate son.

Her marriage to a morphine addict was a tragic mistake, but she remained devoted to him for the duration of his brief life.

During the Franco-Prussian War, she established a hospital, nursed the wounded, and almost starved herself to feed the defenders of France. A generation later, when Germany pleaded to be included in one of her tours, she demanded as her price the return of Alsace-Lorraine. During the trial of Dreyfus, she proclaimed his innocence, persuaded Zola to write in the Captain's behalf, and defended Zola from a murderous mob.

Though the divine Sarah slept in a coffin, she retained her youthful vitality and beauty into her advanced years. At the age of 56, she triumphed as L'Aiglon, the teen-age son of Napoleon, and as a radiant Roxane in the debut of "Cyrano." At 61, she played Pelleas (and playfully mashed a raw egg into the hand of Melisande, played by Mrs. Patrick Campbell), at 63, she portrayed Prince Charming, at 65 she won an ovation as Joan of Arc announcing her age as 19, and at 67, she filmed her Marguerite Gauthier.

She made eight movies, most notably "Queen Elizabeth." The diminutive beauty who could dominate the stage played a number of male roles and was a dazzling success as Lorenzo de Medici, Hamlet, and Cyrano himself.

Her vitality was matched by her courage. In 1905, she injured her right leg while leaping off a wall in "Tosca." It never healed, and for the next nine years she acted while in continual pain, until gangrene made amputation above the knee necessary when she was 70.

Instead of retiring, she returned to stage and screen, performed for troops at the front, and at the age of 76 was a success in "Daniel" as a 30-year-old man. But she never fully recovered from the gangrene and was in constant pain from uremic poisoning in her final years. She died as she wished — en scene, while filming a movie.

William Emboden's pictorial biography reconstructs the life and times of the divine Sarah (1844-1923). The text is concise, giving the outline but not recreating La Bernhardt in depth, but the illustrations are a feast.

Someone said of the pictures in Sarah's film of "Camille" that they "fairly crackle with life and project wireless messages to the spectators." This is true of the illustrations for this book, which is reason enough to recommend it.

Armenian rediscovers his heritage

PASSAGE TO ARARAT, By Michael J. Arlen. Farrar, Strauss & Girous. $8.95.

His Armenian parents named him Dikran Kouyoumijian. But at the age of 21 he changed his name to Michael Arlen, living in France, England and then America, achieving success as the author of such books as "The Green Hat." There was little of the Armenian about him in later life.

His son, Michael J. Arlen, grew up thinking of himself as English, and then American. He knew little of his Armenian cultural heritage. But when he turned 40, the son was asked to speak to an Armenian group in New York City and agreed.

After the talk an old man told Arlen, "You are Armenian. It is not such a strange thing to be an Armenian." It was then Michael J. Arlen knew it was time to reclaim his heritage.

"Passage to Ararat" is the highly personal, immensely readable story of that search.

Arlen began with an intensive reading of books telling about Armenia and Armenians, and ended with a revealing trip to Armenia itself, an ancient nation that now was "a tiny island in the ocean of the Soviet Union."

Arlen's rediscovery of his Armenian origins is most interesting, often touching, because through this search he also was able to come to terms with his late father, a man he had never really understood.

While Arlen's book is largely a personal memoir, it also is crammed with facts about Armenia and its culture.

One of the earliest of recorded races, the Armenians were to have only a minor minute in the sun before embarking on a trip through the ages that was to be largely marked by violence and genocide.

Arlen's recounting of the long suffering of his people is disquieting, but urgently readable.

Author describes complex Raleigh

By VONNE ROBERTSON
P-B Staff Writer

SIR WALTER RALEIGH, by John Winton, published by Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, $15.

A beautifully illustrated but complex biography of Sir Walter Raleigh, a court favorite of Queen Elizabeth I who was later beheaded on the orders of James I, this book is best designed for the researching student or teacher.

The highly detailed book delves into the complex life of the man whose roles as a soldier, sailor, explorer, poet, patron of the arts and controversial court figure seemed to conflict with each other.

His complex life, on the other hand, appear to reflect the uncertain times in which Raleigh was born.

The author, John Winton, points out the many contradictions in Raleigh's character. He was the most widely traveled of all of Queen Elizabeth's courtiers, yet his major expeditions to North and South America where he founded colonies were considered failures because he did not bring back gold.

He was supremely ambitious and possessed a keen wit, yet he frequently jeopardized his career with blunt honesty and unpopular stands. His reputation as a social climber turned friends into enemies.

Raleigh was a favorite in Elizabeth's court and was an unusually handsome man. But when James I ascended the throne, Raleigh's fortunes took a turn for the worse.

He was imprisoned, then released to lead an expedition to Orinoco.

When this trip turned into a failure, Raleigh was again jailed. He died by the ax of the headsman on Oct. 29, 1617, and became a national hero after his death.

Raleigh's life and times have long interested historians. This book provides many insights and goes into obscure details which will interest fans of England and Englishmen of the 17th Century.

They're giving a new tune to old pianos

Music merchant and pianist Ralph Pierce has reason to be excited these days.

His Pomona music store — Ralph Pierce Music, 822 N. Garey Ave. — has gone into the business of rebuilding vintage pianos.

Pierce says the process is painstaking, involving addition of new piano strings which have to be custom-made, "like the original." Replacing the old keys is another major effort, he adds.

"It's quite a project, but it's interesting," Pierce said.

A visitor to the Pomona store might be shown an old Mason and Hamblin piano, vintage 1930s, being rebuilt by technicians.

Francis Mehaffey and Steve Partridge are the technicians heading Pierce's service department.

"Mostly, we service pianos we plan to sell, but we also send repairmen out to tune pianos in people's homes," noted Pierce.

A classical pianist and a former Pomona College music teacher, Pierce marvels at old pianos, comparing them to classic automobiles. "They just don't depreciate."

A 70- or 80-year-old piano can be rebuilt and sold for several times the original cost, he declared.

For years, of course, Pierce has also sold new pianos, notably Yamahas which he rates as "the best in the world."

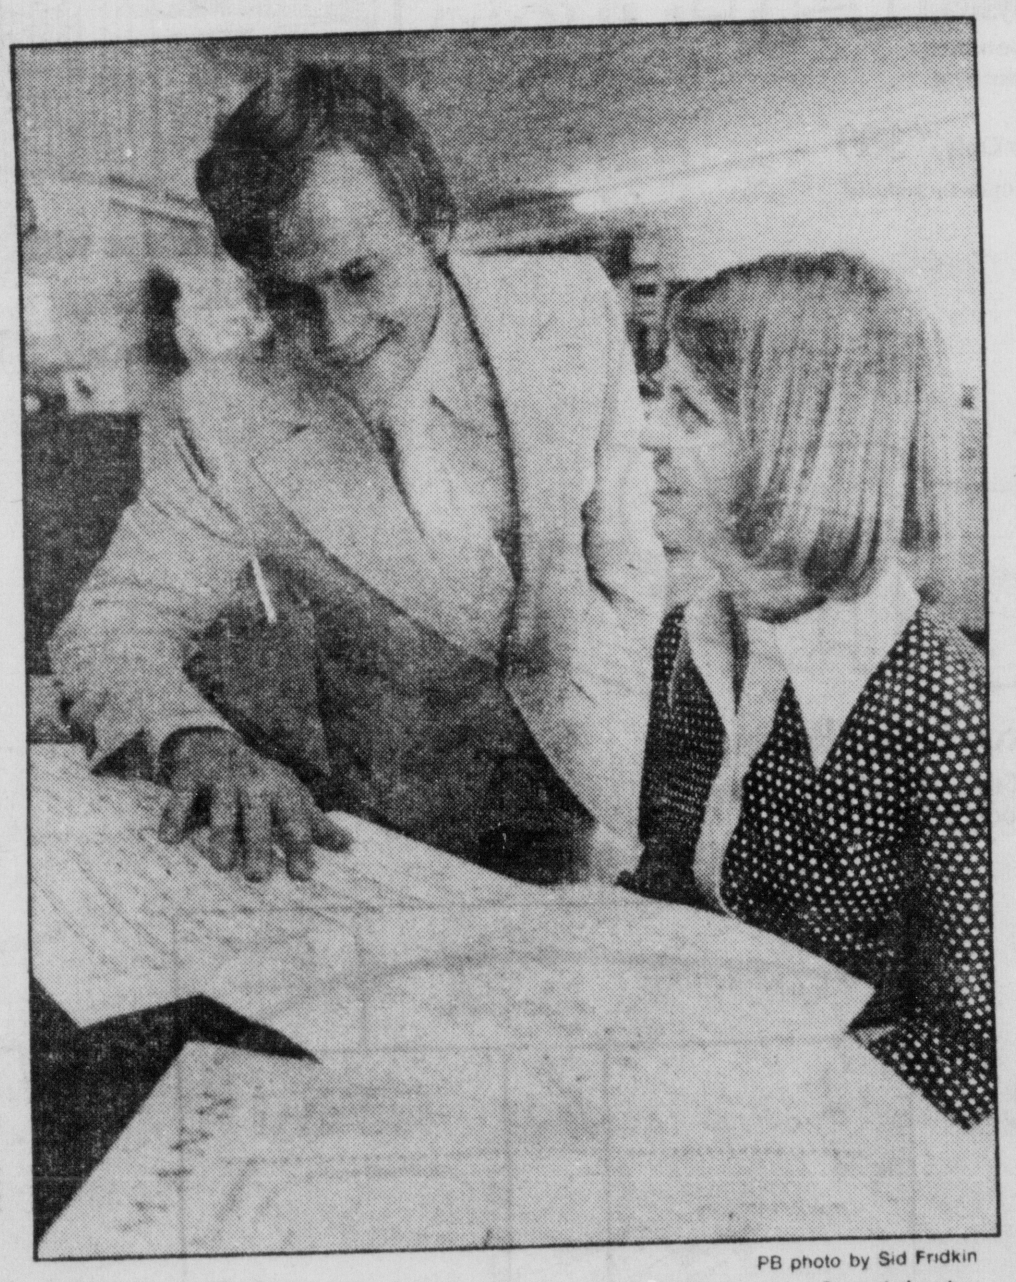

His store was first established in Claremont in 1961, only stocking a few pianos then. It relocated to 435 E. Holt Ave., Pomona, and was there for six years before moving to its present location a year ago.

The store is limited almost exclusively to classical music. The sheet music department not only serves valley residents, but persons all around the country. "We have a good mail order business," says Pierce.

The store also has a studio where piano instruction is offered. Danny Daniel and Natalie Higgins are the two teachers.

In addition, the Music Teachers Association of Pomona Valley and the Piano Technicians Guild hold regular meetings in the music outlet.

Pierce says his business has grown considerably. "This was originally going to be a bit of moonlighting while I was teaching piano, but it got out of hand."

SAFE RETURN

President Ford kisses Betty Ford outside the White House Friday night after his safe return from California.

But President wants to continue his travels

Ford saw 'a hand, then a gun'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) —"I saw a hand coming up between several others in the front row and obviously there was a gun in that hand."

President Ford said Friday his point-blank confrontation with a would-be assassin will not deter him from continuing to make personal contact with the public as he travels around the nation.

"Let me add, with great emphasis, this incident, under no circumstances will prevent me or preclude me from contacting the American people as I travel from one state to another and from one community to another," the President said.

Talking with reporters after a young woman apparently tried to shoot him in the palm-shaded grounds around the California state capitol, Ford paid high tribute to the Secret Service for doing a "superb job" protecting him.

"I was very thankful to the Secret Service," the President said.

The young woman, identified as Lynette Alice Fromme, 26, a follower of convicted murderer Charles Manson, was seized immediately by Secret Serice agents and charged with attempted murder.

Ford walked away from the incident and into a 30-minute meeting about economic matters with Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. "I thought I'd better get on with my day's schedule," Ford said later.

He didn't mention the incident to Brown until their meeting broke up. Only when White House chief of staff Donald Rumsfeld began to brief Ford on the incident did Ford explain the circumstances of his arrival to the governor.

Gray Davis, Brown's chief of staff, said simply: "In retrospect, I'm very impressed with his (Ford's) attentiveness."

Ford and the governor talked mostly about the economy and jobs.

"There are a lot of crazy people in the country," Brown said afterward. "I'm just glad nothing came out of it (the gun incident)."

He said Ford told him he saw the gun just as a Secret Service agent grabbed the weapon from Miss Fromme.

He said the reaction of agents protecting him during his walk through the capitol grounds was "instantaneous and effective."

In Washington, First Lady Betty Ford said after hearing about the apparent assassination attempt, "It's something you just have to live with."

Agent's quick action detailed by Nessen

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Here is how Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen, speaking at a news conference, described the abortive assassination attempt Friday against President Ford:

"As the President was walking from the Senator Hotel to the State Capitol through the park along a walkway, there was a crowd gathered along the walkway to the President's left.

"Secret Service agent Larry Buendorf was walking directly behind the President. He saw the hand of a woman come up between two people in the crowd, and she was pushing her way through the crowd.

"She had a gun in her hand which appeared to be to agent Buendorf a .45-caliber automatic. The gun was about two feet from the President.

"Agent Buendorf reached and grabbed the gun with his right hand, grabbed her arm with his left hand, twisted and forced her arm down and twisted the gun out of her hand. And he took possession of the gun.

"At the same time, he turned her away from the President and forced her back into the crowd and forced her to the ground.

"In the process of this, agent Buendorf sustained a slight cut on his right hand between his thumb and his first finger. He cut this on the gun.

"He is not sure exactly how he cut it. He's not sure whether it was cut on the firing hammer, which would have prevented the gun from firing.

"At that point a police officer of the Sacramento City Police Department named Gaylin Peterson came to the assistance of agent Buendorf with handcuffs. Also, another Secret Service agent named Thomas McCarter came to assistance of agent Buendorf.

"The city policeman gave his handcuffs to agent Buendorf, who handcuffed the woman.

"Agent Buendorf turned over the woman to agent McCarter, and then returned to his duties of protecting the President.

SHOUTING AT POLICE

A woman identified as Lynette Fromme shouts at officers in Sacramento Friday shortly after she was taken into custody for allegedly pointing a gun at President Ford as he was on his way from his hotel to the State Capitol building.

Stephen Kay claims jailed woman carried out Manson's orders

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One of Charles Manson's prosecutors said Friday that he believes the convicted mass murderer masterminded the apparent assassination attempt on President Ford.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Stephen Kay said there "is no doubt in my mind" that Manson was behind the incident involving Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme in Sacramento.

Miss Fromme was seized by officers Friday as she pointed a loaded pistol at Ford. Authorities said the thin redhead, who joined the Manson clan in 1967, was charged with attempted murder of the President.

"The Manson girls just don't act on their own, they act at the behest of Charles Manson," Kay said. "I think Charles Manson had a hand in it. It's very easy to slip messages in and out of prison."

Kay said he thought a desire for publicity was behind Miss Fromme's apparent attempt on the life of the President.

"Knowing 'Squeaky' as I do, I think it will come out that it was done for publicity. I think the motivation is that they just wanted a forum for Charles Manson and his philosophy," he said, "and what better way to get publicity than to assassinate the President of the United States?"

Meanwhile, Vincent Bugliosi, another prosecutor in Manson's 1971 murder trial, said the incident followed the Manson family's pattern.

"This attempted murder is totally consistent with the past murders of the Manson family in that the past murders were designed to shock the world and nothing would have shocked the world more than the assassination of President Ford," Bugliosi said.

Irving Kanarek, who defended Manson during the trial, said he would have no comment on the apparent assassination attempt.

"I don't know anything," Kanarek said.

Bill to restore price controls on oil urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an effort to gain support for President Ford's energy policy, Senate Republicans introduced a bill Friday to restore oil-price controls through Oct. 15.

But the Democratic majority, increasingly confident of the votes to override a Ford veto and restore controls for six months, blocked immediate consideration of the GOP effort.

Thus, the new Republican bill, which is backed by the White House, will be eligible for debate on the Senate floor on Monday and Tuesday, providing a rallying point for the backers of Ford's energy program of raising prices to force conservation.

Ford has until Tuesday midnight to veto the Democratic back measure which would restore price controls through next March 1. With both sides predicting an extremely close margin, the Senate will vote Wednesday on overriding the veto. If the Senate goes against Ford, the House is considered certain to enact the bill despite the President's objections.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Thursday he thinks the veto will be overridden. White House aides reportedly have told Ford they think the veto wil be sustained.

The eight-month-old fight between Ford and Congress over energy policy has centered on the Democratic effort to extend oil-price controls through March 1.

Under the control program, the price of 60 per cent of U.S. produced oil was held to $5.25 a barrel. The remainder of American productions sells at or near the world-market level, established by the Middle Eastern nations, of $13.50.

But, in addition to holding down prices, the now-expired law ensured that energy shortages would be spread evenly across the nation and that the giant oil companies would not be allowed to swallow up independent sectors of the petroleum industry.

Burned X in skin for Manson

Miss Fromme once accused of murder

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Alice Fromme, seized by authorities Friday after she pointed a loaded pistol at President Ford, was one of the earliest members of what came to be known as the Charles Manson family.

She demonstrated her loyalty to Manson during the trial at which he was convicted of murder, branding her forehead with an X burned into the skin. Prosecutor Vincent Bugliosi wrote that this was one of the rituals for new members of the family "complete to tasting the blood as it ran down their faces."

The red-haired, freckle-faced Miss Fromme, now 26, said in an interview in July that Manson blamed former President Nixon for his fate and believed Ford was continuing Nixon's policies.

The daughter of an aeronautical engineer, Miss Fromme came from a well-to-do Southern California family. She has a lengthy record, and was once accused of murder, but has never been convicted of a major offense.

Miss Fromme, who attended and dropped out of El Camino Junior College in Torrance, Calif., testified at the Manson trial that her father kicked her out of the house when she was 17. In 1967, she joined what was to become the mass murderer's communal family. He gave her the name "Squeaky" because of her tiny voice.

She said she was sitting in the street crying when she met Manson. "A man walked up and said, 'Your father kicked you out today,' and that was Charlie."

Manson offered to take her with him, she recalled. "No one had ever treated me like that before, not pushed me around, so I just picked up all my things and went."

When seized Friday, she wore a long red dress and red turban. In the July interview, she said: "We're nuns now and we wear red robes. We're waiting for our Lord and there's only one thing to do before He comes off the cross and that's clean up the earth.

Violent acts plague Argentina, 8 killed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Ambushes, executions and bombings left at least eight persons dead Friday in a plague of violence across the country.

Five naked bodies riddled with machinegun bullets were found along the River Plate south of here in an area known locally as "the cemetery of the leftists."

Police said the dead were three women and two men. They said the women were a city transport board employe, a dentist and a student and the men were a student and a clerk at the city's public works office.

A caller to The Associated Press said they were members of the Socialist Workers Party, a Trotskyite group. He identified himself as a party spokesman and said the victims had been missing since late Thursday.

The right-wing Argentina Anti-Communist Alliance — AAA — blamed for more than 200 of the at least 600 political killings in the past 14 months, has used the area often for dumping victims. It was not known if the AAA was responsible this time, however.

Near Tucuman, 750 miles north of here, rural guerrillas ambushed a military patrol, killing a second lieutenant and a soldier, an army communique said. Several guerrillas may have been wounded, it added, but the band managed to flee.

Busing protestors riot

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A child and 25 to 30 policemen were injured Friday night in a rock-throwing melee that accompanied the second day of court-ordered busing to integrate Louisville schools.

Several thousand antibusing demonstrators gathered after dark for the second night in the area near Valley High School and built a bonfire on the main highway, blocking traffic for miles.

About 40 Jefferson County policemen forced the protestors from the highway amid a shower of rocks and bottles. Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach, who appeared on television to call for "reason," said 25 to 30 police officers were injured.

The protestors carried signs and chanted slogans as they invited passing motorists to honk their horns if they agreed with their protest of busing.

"A man and his wife were coming through the crowd in a car and someone threw a brick and it hit the center post of the car and hit the child in the face," Jefferson County Police Chief Russell McDaniel said.

Forest blaze under control

California's largest brush and forest fire of the season was fully controlled Friday night, eight days after flames erupted in rugged terrain and spread over 16,980 acres.

The flames blackened lush timber land in the Sequoia National Forest about 35 miles east of Porterville.

Despite Schabarum's objections

Uniform set of smog rules adopted by APC

By JON MORRIS

P-B Staff Writer

Despite opposition voiced by member Pete Schabarum, a uniform set of emergency smog regulations was adopted in Pomona Friday by the Southern California Air Pollution Control District's board of directors.

Increases in permit fees for Los Angeles County business firms who are potential polluters also were approved by the board.

The regulations for smog alerts are not new, but they do represent the first time uniform plans were approved for Los Angeles, San Bernardino, Orange and Riverside counties. They are a consolidation of former APCD regulations.

The newly-created board, which met in Pomona City Council chambers, includes supervisors from the four counties.

The regulations provide for possible shutdowns of industrial plants, slowdowns of motor vehicle travel and retail and service establishment closures.

Riverside County supervisor Alfred McCandless pointed out that according to language in the regulations, shutdowns may not arbitrarily occur. A scientific advisory committee would first be consulted.

Even with third-stage episodes, when ozone counts reach .50 ppm for one hour, "we are not obligated to mandate a full shutdown," said a

Gun incident reaction

Americans gentle, Kennedy claims

SEATTLE (AP) — Senator Edward M. Kennedy, two of whose brothers were gunned down by assassins, said Friday that despite "isolated incidences of violence, all of us must recognize that the American people are calm and gentle people, generous in their hospitality."

Reacting to the incident in which a young woman pointed a gun at President Ford, Kennedy said:

"The great majority of the American people want to see their president and talk with him." He said that whether to subject himself to the perils of public appearances is a "personal decision each president has to make."

Extra precautions were apparent during Kennedy's appearances here to dedicate a cancer treatment and research center, with an abundance of plainclothes detectives with walky-talkies and uniformed police hovering around the senator.

A Seattle Police Department spokesman said it was "safe to assume" that more police protection was afforded Kennedy than most other visiting senators might receive.

Thank God he's all right: Rockefeller

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — "Thank God that he was all right," Vice President Nelson Rockefeller said Friday after he learned of an abortive assassination attempt against President Ford.

Rockefeller, here for a day of personal appearances, told a news conference, "It is a tragic situation that people resort to an attempt of that kind."

The Vice President said he learned of the incident right after a luncheon with the Rochester Chamber of Commerce which kicked off a savings bond campaign. Asked if he had been in contact with the President, Rockefeller said, "I'm in constant contact with Washington all the time," although he did not say that he had talked with the President.

Asked what the incident indicated about the mood of the country, Rockefeller replied, "Nothing."

The former New York governor then went on to answer questions about other subjects.

Shots end years of pain, debts for invalid couple

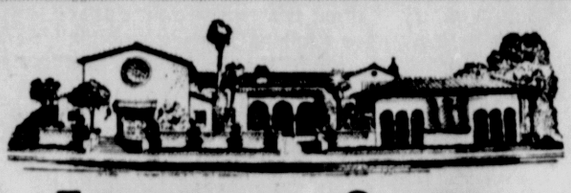

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nurse came, as she had day after day, to the modest home of the invalid couple—the wife, paralyzed for 25 years, the husband a bed-ridden cancer victim.

But this morning, notes at the front and back door warned: Don't come in. Call the police.

Inside, the years of pain and growing debts had been ended by two pistol shots, police said, from an antique revolver fired by Charles Hovenden, 69.

Officers found Hovenden slumped in his wheelchair beside the bed of his wife, Carolena, 68. Notes indicated that the couple had finally been overwhelmed by their pain and the burden of medical bills that Social Security and Medicare could no longer cover.

Sometime Monday, said police, Hovenden shot his wife in the head, then fired another bullet into his own head. They were discovered Tuesday morning.

Brown 'to move faster'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — "There are a lot of crazy people in the country," Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. said today after a woman pointed a loaded gun at President Ford.

"I'm just glad nothing came out of it," the Democratic governor said.

A woman was subdued by a Secret Service agent after she pointed a .45-caliber automatic pistol at Ford as he was walking on a Capitol Park sidewalk on the way to a private meeting with Brown.

Brown said he and Ford discussed the incident and Ford told him that he saw the gun.

Asked how he felt as a public official after the incident, Brown said, "It just makes me move faster."

Commenting on Ford's anticrime address to a joint session of the California Legislature, Brown said the state is "in the forefront" of doing what Ford emphasized.

"We have bills that would do exactly what the President said," Brown told reporters on the floor of the Assembly chambers after Ford's 20-minute address.

"We're in the forefront here in California — mandatory sentencing for heroin sellers ... mandatory confinement for criminals who use guns

"I've been calling for clear, certain penalties for some time," Brown said.

Ford's earlier address to business leaders drew praise from the state Assembly's Republican leader, but a prominent Democrat described it as "a Reagan speech in Reagan country."

Mail rate set until December

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service has decided to maintain current rates throughout the Christmas mailing season, but plans to boost postage prices immediately thereafter, it was announced Friday.

The Postal Service, which is losing $8 million a day, will file a rate increase request "sometime in the next two weeks" to take effect after Christmas, said Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar.

Bailar did not say what increase in rates the Postal Service would seek, but it is expected that the cost of mailing a one-ounce first-class letter would increase from 10 to 13 cents.

It is expected that second-class postage — used to send periodicals — as well as other classifications, would also be raised.

If the Postal Rates Commission does not act on the rate increase request within 90 days, it would take effect on a temporary basis.

Bailar could have sought a pre-Christmas rate boost, but as one postal official said before the decision was made: "We would have to consider how the public would react to that."

Current postal rates were made permanent Thursday at a meeting of the Postal Service's Board of Governors — setting the stage for the post-holiday rate boost.

CAPTURED — Secret Service agents and a uniformed officer put a woman identified as Lynette Fromme into a police car after she allegedly pointed a gun at President Ford in Sacramento Friday.

'Greasepaint bandits' sought in robbery

Upland police say the so-called "greaspaint bandits" Thursday afternoon robbed Ole's Hardware Store at 350 S. Mountain Ave., in Upland, and may have robbed an Upland service station early Friday.

Since Aug. 27, two men that police are referring to as the greasepaint bandits are believed to have committed 10 or more armed robberies in the Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Upland areas.

In each of the robberies, one of the robbers entered each store or service station, always wearing either an army fatigue hat or jacket and grease marks on his face. The robbers' accomplice, reportedly seen in the store either before or during the robberies, is suspected of driving their getaway car.

Each time the robber has shopped for various items in the store, picking up miscellaneous goods, ranging from cigarettes to butane lighters, approaches the counter clerk and shows a robbery note and a small black handgun.

In Thursday's robbery at Ole's, police said the robber came to one of the check out counters with several items and showed a note and the handgun. He was wearing green army fatigues and had a red mark on the right side of his face. Clerks at the store told officers the robber escaped with another man, possibly in a dirty white foreign car.

Another robbery at Jimmy's Service Station, 185 N. Mountain Ave., Upland Friday netted a robber, somewhat similar in description, a small amount of cash. But Upland police said the robber was wearing a green on white print short sleeve shirt, brown corduroy pants and bore no grease marks on his face. The robber escaped with a Bank of America money bag containing a small amount of cash.

Wage credit for hiring welfare cases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's employment chief says employers who hire a welfare recipient can now claim up to 20 per cent of his wages as a credit against federal income taxes.

Martin Glick, director of the Employment Development Department, said Thursday, "This wage credit offers substantial tax savings to employers and, as such, is an incentive to cut our welfare costs."

The Federal Tax Rebate Act of 1975 allows an employer to take an income tax credit equal to one-fifth of wages paid to employes who are receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children benefits when hired.

APC directors pass smog rules

spokesman for the district.

Schabarum, meanwhile, termed the regulations a result of "poorly conceived" federal legislation. "This is much ado about nothing."

He said $50 million worth of business would be lost if all firms in Los Angeles Cuonty were closed for a day. "The public won't be apprised of this until it happens."

During a public hearing on the regulations, several spokesmen for business enterprises urged the board to carefully consider the plans.

Walter Dabherdt of the Stanford Research Institute, presented a study completed for California Business Properties Association.

He said the study shows smog episode controls are more effective over longer periods. "We don't feel short-term curtailment plans will have much effect on oxidant levels."

Studies made from 1970 to 1974 prove "there is no accurate, objective forecast technique for oxidants on an 18 to 24-hour time schedule," he noted.

A meteorologist; Debherdt declared APCD techniques are subjective and have "poor verification. Forecasting criteria are questionable."

Dabherdt's results for the "Upland trajectory", (smog path) show if third stage alerts are implemented successfully, there would be only a 16 per cent reduction in oxidant levels. Less successfully, there would be a decrease of 7 per cent.

McCandless responded by saying, "I'm not an advocate of shutting down the world" because of small oxidant levels in the air. "However, I'd like to have a contingency plan."

Charles McKenney, a spokesman for Sears Roebuck stores, indicated the regulations would affect 30 Sears outlets in the Los Angeles area. The shutdown of stores would cause "irreparable damage," he said. "We wonder if the plans are fair."

Meanwhile, increases in permit fees approved for businesses who use potential pollutants will mean the APCD will recover 50 per cent of costs involved in processing permits. Before, only 25 to 30 per cent of the costs were recovered.

Dry cleaning firms, charging discrimination of small businesses, had their one-time fees reduced by the board, from an average of $200 to $300 down to $50.

A spokesman for the district said the new fee schedule will mean Los Angeles County will receive $900,000 annually in fee revenues. The county is now receiving $600,000.

Actress Sabrina Schiller, of Coalition for Clean Air, called for 100 per cent recovery by the county of processing charges. "Fees are not equitable," she added. "Industrial sources should pay for all costs."

Based on horsepower, a small dry cleaning firm is paying $25 per horsepower unit, and an oil refinery pays only 66 cents per horsepower for a catalytic cracking unit, said Miss Schiller.

A 36 per cent reduction in taxes for property owners would be realized if there was 100 per cent recovery, she concluded.

Slight drop in jobless rate noted

LOS ANGELES (AP)— The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate went down in Los Angeles County and the Riverside-San Bernardino area in August but remained the same in Orange County.

The state Department of Employment Development said today that the Los Angeles County unemployment rate in August was 9.9 per cent, down from 10.3 per cent in July.

The Orange County rate was 8.3 per cent in both July and August.

In the Riverside-San Bernardino area, the rate dropped from 11.9 per cent in July to 11.4 per cent in August.

Seasonal gain were largely the result of improvements in the construction industry, a spokesman said.

California's unemployment rate rose slightly to 10.2 per cent in August, even though the total number of people out of work dropped, state officials in Sacramento said Friday.

State Employment Director Martin Glick said the rate was one-tenth of one per cent higher than July, although the number of jobless dropped by 85,000 to 898,400.

He said that is because the rate was adjusted to allow for the seasonal rise in employment.

The record jobless rate in the state was 10.6 per cent in May. In June there were 1,021,200 unemployed Californians. The rate dropped to 9.9 per cent in June, and rose to 10.1 per cent in July.

The national unemployment rate held steady in August at 8.4 per cent.

"While California's unemployment rate is often compared with the national rate, the two rates are not precisely comparable," Glick said.

"The national rate is an average of all 50 states, which have a wide variety of economic conditions.

Two with show biz in blood open professional studio in Claremont

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

If things go the way they hope, two young Claremonters will some day be the people behind the people who make it big in show business.

They are Chuck Sloan and Pete Congo, owners and operators of Thee Studio Inc., 224 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Sloan, 23, and Congo, 30, by their own admission frustrated actors, have a custom-designed, expansively and expensively equipped recording studio.

It was conceived, they agree, to fill a need in this area. It opened June 1 and, according to Sloan and Congo, business is good and continuously growing.

"The first two weeks of August we brought in as much as our first two months of operation," said Sloan.

Some months back, Sloan, wanting to tape an original comedy routine, sought professional help. A friend, Robert Mathieson of Claremont who operated a studio, filled the bill.

Sloan bought out Mathieson and took another friend, Lewis Mark, as a partner. Eventually Mark moved on to Torrance. Sloan changed the name, and took on Congo, a friend from college.

They had met and worked together at Citurs College (theater and student government). Sloan went on to UC Santa Barbara and Congo, Cal State Long Beach, but their adventures into these halls of learning were unfulfilling.

"What they're teaching at the college level in the field of recording is not what's really going on," explained Sloan.

After one quarter, each of the men returned to Claremont.

Now, after investing $300,000 in equipment and the construction of the studio, they have an open field. Their minimum price is $60 and hour.

(Try this list of equipment for a mouthful: Spectra-Sonics 1040 24 in-out console, an MCI 16-track recording machine. Dolby noise reduction on all channels, JBL 4341 monitoring speakers and FMT reverberation units. Out-board equipment includes URFI limiter-compressors. Gotham digital delay line and mic-mix.)

While the bulk of their business comes from beginners — largely their college friends — they're attracting professionals who are learning by word-of-mouth of their capabilities.

Recently actress Elsa Lanchester visited Thee Studio to record a reading for Pelacon Records new album titled "The Turnabouts Players" for Odyssey by Forman Brown.

Two other professionals in the studio recently were Walter de La Brosse and Michael Fennally.

Sloan and Congo are attracting business, they claim, because of their equipment ("we can do phenomenal things with sound") and the design of the studio, because they have a good enginer, Rich Houston, 23, Montclair, and because they take time to become friends with everyone who comes in and find out what it is they really want to do.

"We like helping young musicians," said Sloan. "We like to work people-to-people. Most of our business is from referrals. We don't want anyone to think they can't work here, that we're too big."

During their busy days, Sloan and Congo snatch brief moments to talk about their acting aspirations.

"My idols are in musical comedy. That's what I'd really like to do," said Sloan. "Eventually, I'd like to get into acting."

"I'd like to lose about 30 pounds and then get into acting," said Congo. "I think partly from our frustrations comes our desire to help young musicians."

Federal school lunch project continues in Pomona district

Pomona Unified School District again this year will offer free and reduced-price breakfast, lunch and milk programs to pupils enrolled in district schools.

All are federally funded through the National School Lunch, School Breakfast and Special Milk programs.

The district has adopted a family income criteria to determine eligibility for the free or reduced-price meals and milk.

The full price, for children from families with income above the eligibility margin, is 50 cents for hot lunch, 30 cents for breakfast and 7 cents for extra cartons of milk.

As in the past, the lunch program will be offered at all 31 schools in the district. The breakfast program will be available only at six elementary schools. They are Arroyo, Hamilton, Madison, North San Antonio, Kellogg and Washington.

Letters are being mailed to families of all children in the district explaining the program offered at their individual schools.

Application forms for free and reduced-price meals are included in the letters. Information provided on application forms is confidential and used only to determine eligibility. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year.

Under the criteria set by the district, children from a family of four living on $522 or less a month will be eligible for free meals. The same size family living on $731 or less a month will be eligible for reduced-price meals for its children.

Families not meeting this critiera, but with unusual expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education costs due to the mental or physical condition of a child or disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

In certain cases foster children also are eligible.

District policy requires that no child be discriminated against because of race, sex, color or national origin in the operation of the programs.

Under provisions of the policy, the principal at each school has the responsibility of reviewing the applications and determine the eligibility of students.

If parents disagree they may appeal orally or in writing to Lynn Rountree, assistant superintendent of business services.

During 1974-75, some 72 per cent of the Type A hot meals served in Pomona's public schools were free while 56 per cent of the combined Type A and ala carte meals served were free.

S.B. County

Copters seen playing big role in crime fight

In the past year the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Regional Helicopter Patrol has been credited with aiding local law enforcement agencies in arresting 900 persons, saving at least 10 lives and reporting 170 fires, according to Sheriff Frank Bland.

Bland said the helicopter patrol has made a "significant" impact on the suppression of crime in the county covering more than 300 square miles.

According to a Sheriff's Department evaluation, the helicopter patrol became involved in over 36,800 activities in 3,121 flight hours. The types of activities cover a broad spectrum, from search, observation and capture of wanted felons to search and rescue of endangered citizens.

The 150-mile-per-hour helicopters responded to 486 armed robbery calls, 1,511 burglaries and 1,445 officer back-up situations.

Bland said, "Because of its quick response time to these types of activities, the helicopter was directly responsibile for over 900 arrests of criminal suspects and participated in the arrest of many others as an assisting unit.

"The helicopters were involved in over 200 search and rescue operations and were credited with saving at least 10 lives as a result of their efforts. In addition over 170 fires were reported by the helicopter crews during their normal patrol functions," said Bland.

Bland pointed out that in a recent public survey more than 95 per cent of the county's citizens wanted continuation of the helicopter patrols, with 97 per cent of all officers believing the helicopter patrol made their departments more effective in crime suppression and criminal apprehension.

A cost evaluation of the project showed that citizens within the 300 square mile project pay 58 cents per week to support the patrol. The total funds required to support the aerial patrol would pay for only two ground police units, with the two units being divided into the nine city police departments and four sheriff's substations including Ontario, Montclair and the West End substation in West End.

Seven counts filed against rape suspect

A youthful suspect, arrested in the kidnaping, rape and robbery early Sunday of a 27-year-old woman bartender, has been arraigned on a seven-count complaint in Pomona Municipal Court.

He is Clarence Manule Burch, 19, 1199 Hillside Drive, Pomona, who was charged formally with kidnaping, rape, robbery, felonious assault and two other sex offenses. Commissioner Thomas Peterson scheduled Burch's preliminary hearing for Sept. 17 and ordered him held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

The victim, who suffered two black eyes and other facial injuries in the attack, told police she was kidnaped after her car ran out of gasoline at San Antonio and Towne avenues shortly after midnight. She said she accompanied her assailant on his motorcycle after he beat her up and threatened to kill her.

The woman said she was attacked first in the baseball dugout at Pomona High School and later on the grounds at Cal Poly. After the latter incident, the man drove off with all her clothing, she said.

Burch was arrested Sunday night at Towne and Lincoln avenues, Pomona, by officers who noted that both he and his motorcycle matched descriptions given by the victim.

Among numerous indignities to which the woman said she was forced to submit were several attempts to set her hair on fire. She quoted the man as saying during her three-hour captivity, "I have no conscience. I don't give a . . . . !"

Ford to cut car equipment

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. is removing up to $300 in standard equipment from its new 1976 cars this fall in an effort to lessen the psychological impact of price increases on car buyers, company officials said Wednesday.

The move, part of the auto industry's latest strategy of keeping the price of cars down without cutting into their profitability, was revealed during a national media preview of Ford's 1976 models. The new cars will go on sale in early October.

Liberal trend

Conservative group rates Lloyd, Cranston, Tunney

By ERIC RUFF
PB Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Congressman Jim Lloyd and California Sen. Alan Cranston and John Tunney generally followed liberal trends when voting on key legislative issues, according to a report published by the American Conservative Union.

The ACU, a conservative watchdog organization, based its findings on the solons' voting records covering 15 key issues that arose before the August recess. Among the issues selected by the ACU were strip mining, funds for the B-1 bomber, food stamps, aid to South Vietnam and Consumer Protection Agency legislation.

Democrat Rep. Jim Lloyd voted conservatively on key legislative issues 30 per cent of the time, according to the ACU rating. The figure was below the overall average for the House, which stood at 41.8 per cent.

ACU said the House is about as conservative now as it was last year despite the fact that about 75 liberal freshman Democrats have joined its rolls.

The 41.8 per cent conservative rating of this year compared closely with the 41.9 per cent figure of 1974. Substantial change was noted by the ACU among House Republicans — conservatism rose from 61 per cent in 1974 to 71.2 per cent this year.

On the senior side of the hill, California Sens. Cranston and Tunney also showed liberal tendencies, the ACU said. Cranston voted conservatively 11 per cent of the time while Tunney's rating was a little higher at 18 per cent.

The liberal showing of the senators was in line with the overall ACU interpretation which said the Senate was continuing a trend to move to the left. The conservative rating of the average Senate member dropped from 39.8 per cent in 1974 to 35.8 per cent this year.

Judges act to let public know more about what they do

The 850-member Conference of California Judges wants the public to become better acquainted with the group's activities and work, says Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Joseph A. Wapner.

Wapner, president-elect of the voluntary organization, addressed a luncheon Wednesday hosted by the conference and attended by members of the press. The luncheon was at the Central Courthouse in Los Angeles.

Wapner, former presiding judge of the Los Angeles Superior Court, pledged the assistance of the Berkeley-based group of municipal and superior court judges in helping newsmen report on the conference's activities.

Ninety per cent of judges of the state's courts of record belong to the 42-year-old organization, Wapner said. Its principal interest is the administration of justice, he said, and to further that aim the group has formed committees specializing in judicial education, judicial ethics and Project Benchmark.

Project Benchmark was described as a public information and education program about the courts and the judiciary. Now in its fourth year, Project Benchmark is funded by the conference and the Office of Criminal Justice Planning.

The project has published a series of seven 40- to 50-page softcover booklets for use in California schools. More than 800 junior and senior high school social studies programs use these materials in law-related courses, Wapner said.

To continue judicial education, the conference holds many professional seminars. There were 127 superior court judges and 137 municipal court judges attending conference-sponsored workshops this year.

In addition, 87 newly appointed judges attended a two-week program of courses aimed at preparing them further for their new jobs on the bench.

The conference also employs a legislative advocate whose job it is to promote or oppose proposed legislation in Sacramento.

Wapner said the use of the advocate (lobbyist) is the result of the group's decision to become more active in matters affecting the administration of justice — a departure from the judges' traditional reluctance to become involved in legislative matters.

The conference's annual meeting is scheduled for Sept. 21 to 24 in Beverly Hills.

By date, they are: Sunday, 11 a.m., "One Thing To Do" and 7 p.m., "Little Foxes"; Sept. 14, 11 a.m. "Astrology or Jesus" and 7 p.m., "Life — When It's Happiest"; Sept. 21, 11 a.m., "Search for Peace is Ended" and 7 p.m., "He'll Use What You Have"; and Sept. 28, 11 a.m. "Trouble Spots in Marriage" and 7 p.m. "Happy Though Married."

Senate OKs inheritance tax changes

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation that would eliminate inheritance taxes on small estates and raise levies on large ones has cleared the Senate.

The bill by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, would remove all taxes on estates worth less than $120,000 and increase taxes on estates worth more than that amount.

Sen. Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga, said the bill would eliminate the cost involved in computing taxes on smaller estates and provide needed tax reform.

New wave of women on offensive

REV. BETTY ROSENBERG
To take ordination vows

NEW YORK (AP) — A "second wave" of Episcopal women is going on the offensive for the priesthood. They say that their taking of ordination vows as priests this Sunday will stir both resentment and hope.

It "will bring joy and hope to many, anger and conflict to others," the five women scheduled to participate in the controversial rite in Washingtn, D.C., said in a joint statement.

But they added that to continue to accept practices denying women the priesthood because of their sex is "contrary to the gospel and destructive to our church."

The five, all of them with advanced educations and professional church experience, are to join the ranks of 11 other women irregularly ordained by three retired bishops in Philadelphia 13 months ago.

"I think of us as the second wave," says the Rev. Betty Rosenberg, 30, a native of Wilmington, Del., who holds a doctor of ministry degree and now serves as a deacon in Washington, D.C.

"Some of our sisters have walked this way before us, yet the path is still difficult."

Unlike the 11 ordained last year, four of the five this time have been recommended for priestly orders by their home vestries and diocesan standing committees. Lack of such recommendations is the previous case had caused wide criticism.

But the currently planned ordinations also aroused disapproval. "Tragic and saddening," said the Rev. Canon Charles H. Osborn, of Pelham Manor, N.Y., executive director of the American Church Union, the high-church Episcopal wing.

The ordaining bishop for the Washington event this Sunday is a retired prelate, the Rev. George W. Barrett, 67, former bishop of Rochester, N.Y., now of Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Successful revolutions tend to gather momentum and create greater demands for change until their objectives are achieved," says Bishop Barrett, who once headed special church studies on women in the ministry.

"I'm sure the coming ordinations are a sign of such acceleration."

However, Washington Bishop William F. Creighton has denied permission for the ceremony, even though he favors ordination of women, and plans to start ordaining them after the 1976 Episcopal convention, whether it approves or not.

His delay about it was protested by one of the five, the Rev. Alison Palmer, 44, a native of Medford, Mass., a career foreign service officer in the U.S. Department of State and a parish assistant in Washington.

In a letter, she told Bishop Creighton that if the 1976 convention rejects women's ordination, "then for you to proceed to ordain would be to slap delegates in the face." She said it would be better for him to go ahead now.

Another of the five, the Rev. Diane Tickell, 57, a deacon serving as a social service worker for the Anchorage Community Hospital in Alaska, says:

"If it will suddenly be 'right' in 1976 for me to be a priest, it is 'right' now. My sense of integrity requires at this point in time that I 'vote with my feet' and act on my own convictions."

Another of the five, the Rev. Phyllis Edwards, 48, of Evanston, Ill., director of Christian education at a parish there, figured in an earlier controversy in 1965 when the late Bishop James Pike gave her as a deacon regular pastoral duties.

The church did not until 1970 accept women deacons as being in the same ministry as male deacons, for whom it was a first step to full priesthood.

Another of the five, the Rev. Lee McGee, 33, a native of Baltimore with a master's degree in religion and now a chaplain at American University in Washington, says ordination "will be an asset" in her campus ministry.

"It is imperative for the church's sake," she adds, "that we be open to spiritual gifts in all persons in our Christian community."

Birds dying in oil slick

SAN MATEO (AP) — Sixty birds, including several brown pelicans, have died in a 13-mile long oil slick off the Northern California coast, authorities say.

The slick was threatening other ocean birds, and the humane society said 60 oil-coated birds had been rescued.

1,000 expected at barbecue

Some one thousand persons are expected to attend the 14th annual barbecue of the United Methodist Church of La Verne which starts at 5 o'clock this afternoon, chairman Glenn Hall estimates.

Nearly 100 member of the church are involved in preparations for the annual event, which this year will be dedicated to the memory of Oscar Marshall. Marshall started the barbecues in 1961 and provided the beef for free.

The menu will feature deep-pit barbecued beef, beans, chili sauce, cole slaw, tomatoes, bread, soft drinks and ice cream.

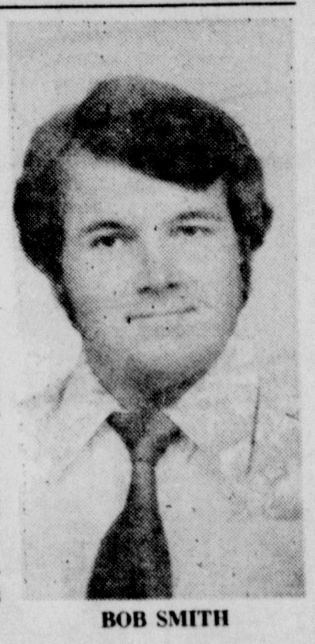

Recording artists Bob Morley and Steve Harris will furnish the entertainment. There will be pony wagon rides for the children.

Tickets are now on sale at the church. They also will be available at the barbecue at $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

The barbecue will launch the fall activities of the congregation which start Sunday with church classes for all ages at 9:30 a.m.

The chancel choir will meet at 10:15 a.m. Sunday and the worship service starts at 10:45, when the Rev. J. Thomas Taylor will preach on "Gladness Service."

Junior high school fellowship will run from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and senior fellowship will be held from 6:30 to 8:30. An adult fellowship starts at 7 in the church lounge.

BOB SMITH

Youth post filled

Bob Smith has been named youth minister of the First Church of the Nazarene in Pomona.

He replaces the Rev. Ed West, who resigned to conduct evangelistic crusades.

Smith is a graduate of Ganesha High School, Pomona. He attended Pasadena College where he majored in theology and philosophy. He was vice president of the male choir at Pasadena College. He was formerly youth coordinator of the Burbank Church of the Nazarene

Contest winner to be given honors

Mrs. Luda Parker will be honored Sunday at the Towne Avenue Church of the Nazarene in Pomona as winner of the church's Sunday School Superintendent of the Week contest.

During the contest a different superintendent was appointed each week during August. Each contestant was free to use any idea he or she chose to increase attendance at the 9:45 a.m. Sunday school program.

Mrs. Parker will receive a gift. Others participating were Matthew Smith, Helen Nixon and Patti Smith.

At the church's 10:45 a.m. worship service, the Rev. Clyde W. Rather, pastor, will deliver a sermon entitled "God's Mighty Littles."

His sermon topic at the 7 p.m. worship service will be "Breaking Through to God."

4-foot parrot theft victim

SPRINGFIELD, Va. (AP) — Two birds were spirited away from a Springfield pet shop overnight.

Fairfax County police said the birds weren't your ordinary squawkers — one was a red parrot four feet tall and the other a white cockatoo.

Festival at Trinity

A Christian education festival will be featured during the 10 a.m. Sunday service at Trinity Lutheran Church of Montclair.

The children of the Sunday school will participate in special activities during the service. John Breitengross, Jerry Dahl Jr. and Fred Grefe, lay members of the congregation, will give Bible readings. The Rev. Maynard Saeger, pastor, will speak on "Christian Workers."

From noon to 3 p.m., the congregation will gather at Colony Park in Ontario for the annual church picnic, sponsored by the Sunday school. The affair is being directed by Bob June, superintendent of Christian education.

In the evening, the church youth will go to the Montclair Guest Home for a brief worship service before returning to the local church for Bible study.

MADLOCK IS MAD

Bill Madlock of the Chicago Cubs is restrained by teammates Andy Thornton (12), and Jose Cardenal plus Coach Marv Grissom (46) as he tries to get to umpire Jerry Dale after Dale, a former Cal Poly Pomona student, ejected him for protesting third strike.

Hooton develops into Dodger ace

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

ATLANTA — Who would have thought Burt Hooton and Doug Rau would be carrying the Dodgers?

That is what is happening on this road trip.

Hooton, the refugee from the Chicago Cubs, won his ninth straight game and recorded his all time major league high 15th victory Friday night as the Dodgers beat the lowly Atlanta Braves, 5-2, before 2,725 fans.

The husky Texan (15-9) struck out eight and walked only one.

The Dodgers have won three games on this road trip, two by Hooton and one by Rau. Don Sutton and Andy Messersmith have been the losers.

But Hooton and Rau are still trying to prove they deserve a place in the Dodgers' pitching rotation.

"This is my first winning season," Hooton said quietly as he slumped on a stool in the dressing room. "But I think I'm showing the Dodgers I can be a pressure starter so that they won't be afraid in big games next year like in the World Series.

"Other pitchers have won 20 games," he continued, "and never pitched in a World Series. There have been a lot of great players at other positions that have never played in a World Series."

Maybe Hooton just has a better hypnotist than Braves' starter Mike Thompson (0-6). Hooton credits one visit to Los Angeles hypnotist Arthur Ellen with helping him correct a tendency to think negatively.

Thompson visited a hypnotist to help him gain better control of his pitches. Altough he walked only one Friday night, the walk and a wild pitch led to the first Dodger run.

But the Dodgers just had too much power in this sultry Georgia weather.

There were two-run homers by Lee Lacy in the sixth (his seventh) and Steve Yeager in the ninth (his 11th).

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Willie Crawford drew a two-out single, advanced on a wild pitch and scored on Steve Garvey's single.

The Braves came back to tie it on consecutive singles by Rod Gilbreath, Darrell Evans and Dave May.

Both teams scored again in the sixth. Davey Lopes tripled and scored on Lacy's blast. It was Lopes' 89th run scored and ninth triple.

Ralph Garr singled to lead off the Braves' sixth. Hooton got Gilbreath but fished up his only walk to Evans. May struck out, but Dusty Baker singled in the run.

The Dodgers were quiet until the ninth when Garvey beat out a bunt. Ken McMullen forced Garvey but scored on Yeager's blow.

McMullen had replaced Ron Cey in the seventh inning after Cey had aggravated a pulled muscle.

"I think he (Cey) probably will have to stay out a couple of days," said Manager Walt Alston.

"I'd like to see more of the kid (Jerry Royster) but I may use Mac . . . it depends on how San Francisco is going."

The Giants lost to the Reds and the Dodger lead over the third placers is back to 4½ games.

DODGER DATA — Rick Rhoden (1-2) and Carl Morton (16-15) pitch tonight (4:30 p.m. PDT). A larger turnout is anticipated since it is a special night honoring Phil Niekro. Special ceremonies will be held 45 minutes before game time with Niekro receiving a slew of gifts.

Yeager said in Friday's pregame show he feels the recent ineffectiveness of Messersmith may be caused by Andy following Mike Marshall's advice of throwing every day. As Yeager put it, the idea doesn't work for everybody.

The Braves' low attendance likely will result in a bill of more than $500,000 to Atlanta and Fulton County taxpayers for the 10th year in a row.

The money will have to be made off to pay revenue bonds of the $18 million stadium.

Chris Evert nears first Open crown

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Chris Evert got a good luck kiss from Jimmy Connors and a favorable call from a lineswoman Friday and moved within a single step of the U.S. Open championship she has never won.

Prim and pretty in a white frock with her blonde hair tied into a bun, the 20-year-old shot-making sphinx from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. cut down her frustrated friend and doubles partner, Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, 6-4, 6-4.

The match ended on a rancorous note with the 18-year-old Czech girl disputing a very important line call that went against her in the eighth game of the second set. When her protest went unheeded, she slammed down her racquet and tossed away the final nine points of the match.

"There was nothing I could do about it," Chris said afterwards. "It is not my jurisdiction. I don't think it will affect our friendship."

Chris qualified to meet her keenest and toughest rival, Evonne Goolagong of Australia, in today's final with $25,000 the first prize. The talented Miss Goolagong advanced with a 7-5, 6-1, victory over Virginia Wade, the British vicar's daughter, in a match that proved definitely anticlimactic before another sellout crowd at the West Side Tennis Club.

The women's final, providing a contrast of personalities and styles, will share today's center-court stage with the men's semifinals in which Chris' on-again, off-again boyfriend, Connors, is the sole defender of America's honor. Connors, seeded No. 1 in defense of the title he won on grass a year ago, goes against Sweden's wonder boy, 19-year-old Bjorn Borg, seeded No. 5, while a pair of left-handed Latin strongmen, second-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina and Manuel Orantes of Spain, go at it in the other bracket.

The survivors will play Sunday, also for a $25,000 first prize.

Miss Evert and Miss Goolagong, the latter in private life Mrs. Roger Cawley, have met 20 times since they emerged in the early 1970s as the women superstars of the future. Chris has an over-all edge of 11-9, and is ahead this year 3-1, although Evonne has managed to win the blue ribbon tests.

It was Evonne who prevailed in three sets in their first meeting in 1972 in the Wimbledon semifinals, and it was she who wrecked Chris' dream in the semifinals here last year after Chris had won the French, Italian and Wimbledon crowns. The score then was 6-0, 6-7, 6-3.

Since then, the West Side surface has been converted to a grainy synthetic material similar to clay and given the game a complete face lifting. Clay is a game of steadiness and patience in contrast to the bam-bang-bash serve-and-volley tactics effective on grass.

On clay, Miss Evert is the indomitable warrior, unbeaten in 25 months on the slower surface, winner of 83 matches covering 17 tournaments. The last time she and Evonne met on clay—at Amelia Island this year—Chris won 6-1, 6-1.

Put a tennis racquet in Miss Evert's hands and she turns from a sweet, demure girl next door into a chilly destroyer. Showing little emotion, her face a mask of concentration, she unleashes shots with the consistency of a computer. She never gets flustered.

Miss Goolagong, on the other hand, is the blithe spirit, a bouncy, natural genius out of Australia's outback. She moves around a court with the grace of a fawn and makes every shot look easy.

"They should play music when Evonne is on the court," a woman spectator was heard to remark. "It is like watching a ballet."

The 24-year-old Miss Goolagong certainly would have achieved a greater status except for absence of a killing instinct. She is constantly falling back into what she calls a "walkabout," an Aboriginal phrase meaning loss of concentration.

Chris acknowledges that Evonne is the one player on the women's circuit she fears more than any other. "She is so loose and free-wheeling," says Chris. "She is so unpredictable."

Miss Navratilova, another with an overabundance of natural talent, is different. Chris admits she has Martina's number because Martina is so young and reckless.

So it was Friday.

Chris got the early jump with a service break in the first game and held on to take the set although the Czech girl had two break-points in the eighth game and another in the 10th, which she dissipated by trying to make too daring a shot. Twice she missed simple overheads which would have given her the vital break.

Martina went ahead 4-2 in the second set, breaking in the sixth game with a pair of drop shots that caught Chris flat-footed, but Miss Everet slammed back to rebreak in the seventh, Martina missing two easy volleys.

With the score 4-3 for Navratilova won the first point on Chris' serve and apparently went to love-30 when a soaring lob by Miss Evert appeared to fall beyond the baseline.

A plump lineswoman called the shot good, reducing the score to 15-15. Miss Navratilova protested vigorously and the crowd supported her with boos and whistles aimed at the official.

Martina, obviously upset, lost the point, slammed down her racquet and proceeded to lose nine straight point and the match.

Chris sat with Connors for 15 minutes before the match. Jimmy, whom she had been scheduled to marry last November, gave her a kiss before she went on the court. He also was there to greet her when the match ended.

Royals show some power

ANAHEIM (AP) — George Brett and Al Cowens singled home runs in the eighth inning, triggering the Kansas City Royals to a 5-2 decision over the California Angels Friday night.

Amos Otis beat out an infield single in the Kansas City eighth, stole second and scored the tying run on Brett's single.

Brett, who earlier knocked in the first Kansas City run in the third inning, took second on the throw home and eventually scored the tie-breaking run on Cowens' single to right.

Brett then delivered a two-run single in the ninth, giving him five hits and four RBI for the night.

Lee Stanton singled home a run in the sixth inning to provide the Angels with a 2-1 lead before the Royals rallied.

California scored its first in the fifth on Mike Miley's RBI single.

The Royals had the first opportunity to score when Cowens opened the second with a double to left. One out later he went to third on Figueroa's errant pickoff throw but he was stranded.

The Royals took the lead in the third when Frank White singled, stole second and rode home on Bret-t's two-out double to right center.

Dave Collins tripled with two out in the California third and Rivers opened the fourth with a three-bagger off the centerfield fence. But Bruce Bochte grounded to third and Steve Busby fanned Lee Stanton and rookie Danny Goodwin to get out of trouble.

The Angels drew even in the fifth when Dave Chalk legged out an infield hit, stole second and scored on Miley's single to right.

Brett opened the sixth with his third straight hit but couldn't advance.

California took the lead with an unearned run in the sixth. Rivers singled to short and took second when the ball rolled under shortstop Fred Patek's glove for an error. Bochte's ground ball got Rivers to third and he scored when Stanton pushed a single to right through the drawn-in Kansas City infield.

The RBI was the 75th of the year for Stanton, the team leader.

USC favored by skywriters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of Southern California's football team was picked Saturday by writers and broadcasters to return to the Rose Bowl with Cali fornia a surprise second choice.

In a poll following the annual Pacific-8 Conference Skywriters tour, USC was listed No. 1 on 21 of the 28 ballots cast. On an 8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 scoring basis, the Trojans totaled 307 points to far outpoll California's Golden Bears.

The Bears were second with four first-place nods and 181 points. UCLA was third with 168 just ahead of Stanford, with 160. Washington, considered a darkhorse in the Pac-8 race, was fifth with 108.

Oregon State was sixth with 82 followed by Washington State, 66, and Oregon, 29.

Cal's fine halfback Chuck Muncie was rated by the writers as the best offensive back on the coast by 13 of the writers. Twelve named UCLA's quarterback John Sciarra and one ballot named both.

The one most impressive player by position, however, was USC defensive tackle Gary Jeter, a 6-foot-4, 250-pounder who received 23½ votes out of 27 cast. Danny Reece was top defensive back with 22 of 25 votes, and Cal's Steve Rivera received 21 of 28 votes as the top wide receiver.

The closest position to call was linebacker, where Geb Church of Stanford received six votes to five for UCLA's Dale Curry, four for Dan Lloyd of Washington and three for Bob Horn of Oregon State.

Marvin Powell of USC, a 6-5, 270-pounder, was rated the top offensive lineman with 19 of 24 votes.

Mayes logs fastest time

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Mitch Mayes of Palmdale, Calif., riding a Husqvarna, logged the fastest time Friday in trial runs for Sunday's World Championship Off-Road races.

Mayes covered the 3.3 mile obstacle course in 3 minutes, 26 seconds or 57.669 miles per hour. He is a former Baja 500 and Baja International winner.

Fastest four wheel time was recorded by Bobby Ferro of Sherman Oaks, Calif., the former Baja 500 and 1000 winner. He covered the course in 3:35 or 55.255 m.p.h.

The Championships will consist of one main event Saturday night and six on Sunday over a 3.3 mile obstacle course laid out around off-road racing areas near Riverside.

Stabler blitzes Dallas' defense

DALLAS (AP) — Ken Stabler found it difficult to work up a sweat against the Dallas Cowboys Friday night even if the temperature was 85 degrees and the humidity high.

Oakland's unbeaten, poised and near-perfect quarterback bombed Dallas dizzy with six of eight completions for 171 yards and two touchdowns to trigger a 31-20 National Football League exhibition rout of the Cowboys.

Stabler, who now has thrown seven touchdown passes in a 5-0 Oakland preseason, was a spectactor in the second half.

The Raider southpaw drew praise from Dallas Coach Tom Landry who said, "Stabler is a tremendous pinpoint passer and in all the films I've seen no one has been able to get to him. We certainly couldn't get to him ... he had all day to throw."

Landry added, "Oakland looks like they are ready to start the season right now. They are right up there with Pittsburgh, in my opinion."

Oakland Coach John Madden said, "this is the way Kenny has played all through the preaseason. He's just been tremendous."

Landry added with a laugh: "Usually teams are down 20-0 to Oakland and Stabler at halftime, but we improved on that ... we were only down 21-13."

Operating on a warm, humid night, Stabler gave a quick indication of things to come for the national television audience with a 49-yard first period bomb to Cliff Branch. It set up a two-yard scoring plunge by Clarence Davis.

Stabler hit the swift Branch with a 30-yard scoring dart at 10:38 of the second quarter and followed that performance with a tricky lob screen pass which Charlie Smith turned into a 53-yard touchdown pass-and-run.

The dazed Cowboys, trailing 21-0, rallied briefly behind quarterback Roger Staubach, who took his team on a 70-yard drive climaxed by Charles Young's one-yard scoring plunge. Staubach flipped a 16-yard toss to Young for a touchdown with just 67 seconds left in the half.

Larry Lawrence, a second-year player from Iowa, took over the helm in the second half. He directed Oakland on a 70-yard drive which George Blanda climaxed with a 40-yard field goal. Pete Banaszak scored a fourth period Raiders touchdown on a 10-yard run.

Staubach completed 10 of 24 passes for 156 yards before giving way to rookie Jim Zorn in the fourth period.

Rookie Cowboy fullback Scott Laidlow of Stanford scored his first NFL touchdown on a two-yard run with 66 seconds left to wrap up the scoring.

Oakland owned a 21-13 halftime lead after building up a 21-0 advantage and being on the verge of running Dallas out of Texas Stadium.

Stabler, who went into the contest hitting 64 per cent of his passes in the preseason, sparkled with his deadly left arm.

Gabriel, Olsen clash at Coliseum

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The repair unit of the Gabriel-Olsen automobile agency has been alerted—the bosses collide tonight.

Once teammates, quarterback Roman Gabriel and defensive tackle Merlin Olsen now play for opposing teams. The quarterback throws for the Philadelphia Eagles; his business partner still anchors the defensive line for the Los Angeles Rams.

The pre-season National Football League clash between the two clubs starts at 7 p.m., PDT, in Memorial Coliseum.

"It will be kind of interesting," said the 265-pound Olsen. "Gabe's a hard man to sack. The fact that we're close friends off the field should make us even more competitive when we play against each other. There's no quarterback I'd rather sack."

Philadelphia and the Rams both have 3-1 records going into the next-to-last preseason weekend. Their series lapsed in 1965 with the Eagles leading 7-3-1 but the Rams will be favored this time.

Yet Merlin and his defensive cohorts must stop not only Gabriel but also James McAlister, a running back who starred at UCLA for two seasons.

McAlister played for the Southern California Sun in the World Football League last year. After his contract was broken, he went to Oakland and then was traded to Philadelphia. Bidding for a starting job, he has rushed 25 times for 142 yards.

Still the Los Angeles interest must center on the Gabriel-Olsen confrontation.

"After 10 years of rooming with a guy, you really get to know him," said Gabriel. "I don't think there's a better defensive tackle in football. Merlin might not be as quick as he once was since that knee operation, but he's still quick enough.

"If Merlin gets a shot at me, he'll take it. If a guy goes into a game thinking of Merlin as a 14-year pro veteran, he'll get his head knocked off. I guarantee it."

This will be the first time the two ex-roomies have played against each other since they were in all-star games following college.

"I remember in the Hula Bowl," Olsen said. "I nearly sacked him. The field was muddy and the guard against me slipped and fell down. I had Gabe all alone when he was setting up to pass. I must have laughed or something, but just as I got to him, I slipped and fell down.

"I did manage to have him by one leg, but I remember he was able to get the pass away. I don't recall whether it was complete or not."

When the Rams traded Gabriel to Philadelphia two years ago, they got some men who will be out to help the offensive in this meeting. Wide receiver Harold Jackson was a key to the trade, but the Rams also got short-yardage running back Tony Baker and the draft rights that allowed them to pick John Capelletti, the Heisman Trophy winner from Penn State, last year and both Dennis Harrah and Dan Nugent in this year's draft.

But of Gabriel, his business partner says, "I'll be trying to nail him whenever I get the chance. The only qualms I might have would be when he is in a helpless position. But that goes for any quarterback in the league."

Zorn makes Dallas debut

DALLAS — Rookie quarterback Jim Zorn made his debut for the Dallas Cowboys Friday night in the 31-20 loss to the Oakland Raiders.

Zorn, who set most of Cal Poly Pomona's offensive records during his two seasons with the Broncos, completed 6-of-10 passes for 65 yards in his second half action for Dallas.

Nicklaus is big favorite

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, who won the first one, is heavily favored to win the last World Series of Golf to be played under its exclusive, four-man format.

Tom Weiskopf, Tom Watson and Lou Graham provide the opposition in 36-hole, Saturday and Sunday test that brings together the holders of all the world's major titles.

Next year the World Series will be expanded to accomodate a field of about 30 players and will move from the Firestone Country Club—its home since Nicklaus won the first World Series in 1962—to a site that has not yet been announced.

In all, Nicklaus has won four World Series titles, and the accompanying $50,000 first place checks, and has been second in five others.

That's formed the bulk of the incredible $374,930 in career earnings he's taken from this course alone. He also acquired an American Golf Classic title here and just a month ago collected his fourth PGA national championship on this 7,180 yard, par 70 layout.

He qualified for his 10th World Series appearance—twice as many as anyone else — with victories in the Masters and PGA. He's won two other times this season, is the year's leading money-winner with $262,468 and has forcefully reasserted himself as the dominant figure in the game.

"There have been years I've won more tournaments, but from the standpoint of the way I've played over-all, this may have been my best year," he said.

Weiskopf, who got into this one courtesy of Nicklaus, appears to be Jack's chief threat.

With Nicklaus winning two of the qualifying events, Weiskopf became eligible as the Canadian Open champion, the first alternate spot.

His presence serves as a challenge to Nicklaus. Weiskopf beat him in a playoff for the Canadian national championship and, two years ago, beat Nicklaus in the World Series.

"He's not unbeatable," said Weiskopf, a two-time winner this season.

The 25-year-old Watson, one of the game's brightest young stars, and the veteran Graham are World Series rookies. Watson won the British Open and the Byron Nelson Classic, while Graham's only triumph came in his upset victory in the U.S. Open.

NBC-TV will provide national television coverage of play on the last six holes both today and Sunday, beginning at 2 p.m., PDT each day.

Young golfer wins tourney

Sixteen-year-old Tamara Snooks of San Clemente shot her second straight 75 to win the Southern California Women's Amateur at Pomona National Golf Course Friday.

Snooks, the second round leader, finished the 54-hole tourney with a 230 total, five strokes ahead of runnerup Irene Zuniga of Santa Ana.

Third-place finisher Shelby Myers of Claremont shot a final round of 77 on her home course to post a 237 total while Gail Chow of Montebello and Paula Kim of Inglewood finished at 240 and 246, respectively.

Low gross winner in the first flight was Jean Cox, of Alta Vista, with a final round 87 for a 253 total, while Marion McGrath of Pomona National took low net honors at 219.

In the second flight, Jo DeBos of Los Serranos was the low gross winner with a 286 and Mary Ellen Wagner of South Hills won low net with 211.

Youth football kicks off soon

The Western Division of the Mt. Baldy Pop Warner Football Conference will kick off its 1975 season Sunday evening at Montclair High.

The first contest of the five-game set will be a clash between Renegades of the Pee Wee division at 6:55 p.m. The Pomona Sharks will meet the Montclair Pirates in a Pee Wee matchup at 7:20 before the Montclair Renegades take on the Pomona Razorbacks in a Jr. Pee Wee game at 7:45.

The Pomona Bruins will tangle with the San Dimas-La Verne Romans in a Jr. Midget contest at 8:10, and the Pomona Bengals and Montclair Marauders will conclude the night's football in a Midget game at 8:35.

The Bruins, last year's Pee Wee division champs with a 7-1 league record, will be making their debut in the Jr. Midget division against the Romans in the fourth game.

Sports briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Gogolak, who successfully introduced the soccer-style placekick in pro football, was put on no-recall waivers by the New York Giants Friday, the National Football League club announced.

The move by Coach Bill Arnsparger apparently left both the punting and placekicking duties to George Hunt, with whom the 33-year-old Gogolak has been competing since training camp began.

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Placekicker Bruce Gossett, seventh highest scorer in National Football League history, was released by the San Francisco 49ers Friday after clearing waivers.

The departure of the 33-yearold veteran apparently left the team's placekicking job to rookie Steve Mike-Mayer from Maryland.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Benny Parsons, winner of the Daytona 500 earlier this year, used a hammer Friday to increase the weight of his car and captured the pole position for Sunday's Capital City 500 Grand National stock car race.

The Chevrolet driver from Ellerbe, N.C., turned in a second lap of 21.425 seconds for a qualifying speed of 91.071 miles per hour on the .542-mile Fairgrounds Speedway track.

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations are underway for a title defense by Muhammad Ali against and unnamed opponent in Germany early next year if Ali beats Joe Frazier in Manil Oct. 1, promoter Don King said Friday.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Heavyweight Randy Neumann hammered out a unanimous 10 round decision over Boone Kirkman Friday night in the last of seven nationally televised fights.

Stakes entries are due

Horsemen preparing to race at the Los Angeles County Fair meeting that opens next Friday are reminded that nominations for the $30,000-added Pomona Handicap as well as those for the first four stakes on the schedule are due by today.

In addition to the closing-day Pomona Handicap, those stakes for which nominations are due today include the $10,000-added Foothill Stakes for three-year-olds Friday, Sept. 12, the $15,000-added Governor's Cup for three-year-olds and up Saturday, Sept. 13, the $15,000-added Governor's Cup for three-year-olds and up Saturday, Sept. 13, the $10,000-added C.T.B.A. Marian Stakes for three-year-old fillies Monday, Sept. 15, and the $10,000-added Bangles and Beads Stakes for fillies and mares three years old and up Tuesday, Sept. 16.

The Foothill, the Governor's Cup, and the Bangles and Beads are at six furlongs, and the Marian Sakes is at a mile and one-sixteenth.

Ala's W

SC should be a contender

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We're not going to be as good offensively or defensively," said John McKay as he assessed his 1975 University of Southern California football team which he termed still good enough to go to the Rose Bowl.

McKay, as usual smoking a cigar and quipping in between moments of candor, told touring Pacific-8 Skywriters that his squad was the youngest he'd ever fielded. He chalked that up to "a poor job of recruiting."

Between the funny lines, McKay defended quarterback Vince Evans, praised Marvin Powell and Gary Jeter as definite All-American candidates and said he was happier to have his current inexperienced squad which is loaded with talent than an experienced group of untalented players.

"The best kind of team you can have is one with experience and quality," he said. "The second best kind is one with quality but no experience, and I'd rather go with talented, inexperienced sophomores than a bunch of veterans who don't know how to play football."

He said overall this was his fastest team. He said that despite the paucity of veterans there were enough around to show the youngsters what to do. He said only one spot on the entire squad—tight end—was a problem and he had a solution for even that.

USC has just four offensive and four defensive starters back from last year's 10-1-1 team which was No. 2 in the nation. McKay said:

"Say there's a coach who has 34 lettermen back. Now, if his record last year was 2-9, then those 34 people helped him lose nine games, so how much better are they gonna be just because they're a year older? Just to have a lot of people back doesn't do it."

In Evans, he said, USC had a guy was "fast, a pretty darn good passer and the kind of guy who can go into pro ball and become a good passer. He can throw as hard and as far as anyone we've had..."

On his top players:

—"Jeter is one of the best defensive players we've got," he said of his 6-foot-4, 250-pound tackle. "He's big, strong, fast and he's got a 52-inch chest."

—"Ricky Bell is as fast as anyone we've had here, except for maybe O.J. Simpson, and he's by far the biggest tailback we've ever had."

—"Shelton Diggs is the biggest wide receiver we've ever had and he's tremendously fast . . . When he's running, he's so smooth you don't think he's going that fast. But just try to catch him." Diggs caught the two-point conversion pass Jan. 1 that beat Ohio State 18-17 in the Rose Bowl.

—"Dennis Thurman has a high athletic IQ. He'll call signals in the defensive backfield. He can read defenses better than most seniors." Thurman, a 6-0, 170-pounder, plays both first-string safety and flanker behind Diggs.

One problem area is tight end, a position McKay feels is critical to his I-formation offense. "We still have four suspects," he joked. "There's nothing worse than a tight end who doesn't block." He said if he doesn't find an adequate tight end, he may spread the line a bit and add a wide receiver.

A FACE FROM THE PAST — Former Yankee home run king Roger Maris, now out of baseball and owner of a beer distributorship in Gainsville, Fla., chats with newsman over the phone.

Memories haunt Maris

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Fourteen years after breaking Babe Ruth's single-season home run record, Roger Maris still has dreaded memories of his baseball glory days.

"Some athletes look for the bright lights, but it was never my kind of life," says Maris, who has found peace of mind as a beer distributor in this quiet North Central Florida city.

Maris — like the legendary Ruth — a New York Yankee right fielder, hit 61 home runs in 1961, teaming up with Hall of Fame member Mickey Mantle to produce a mighty one-two offensive punch. Mantle hit 54 home runs that year.

But Maris, now 41, was uncomfortable with the accompanying attention.

"I couldn't go to the bathroom without a reporter following me," he says. "I really found peace while games were going on, but I dreaded that final out when those same questions would be shot at me from a news corps which topped 100 at many points.

"I would have been happy to hit those 61 homers under some other name...and to leave the ballpark unnoticed.

"Maybe I was unfair to group everyone under a label of 'writers' when talking of my complaints," said Maris. "Many New York writers were good to me, especially the more veteran ones."

Maris says he's happier now.

"Honest to goodness, my greatest thrills in life are to work here at the plant and then go home to be with my family. I don't enjoy traveling too much. Pat and I have six kids and that takes most of my time."

Maris says his clashes with the press as a player could hurt any chance of being elected by the Baseball Writers Association of America into the Hall of Fame. Thus far, he hasn't drawn much support for the Hall.

"I'm not paying much attention to it, but if I were ever voted in, I would consider it a great honor," he said. "The Hall of Fame is something you think about from childhood if you play ball.

Colleges open grid campaign

The college football season is just starting, but the coaches already are giving their crying towels a good workout.

"ECU proved last year they can play with us," warns Lou Holtz, whose 13th-ranked North Carolina State squad helps kick off the 1975 campaign today by entertaining East Carolina, a team the Wolfpack barely edged 24-20 a year ago.

"I expect another tough game," says Holtz. "It's a big intra-state rivalry and we expect ECU to be up. They run the Wishbone, which we seem to always have trouble with. They rushed for an awful lot of yards (318) against us last year and, since they've got most of their offensive people back, we obviously have a big job on our hands."

If Holtz' fears seem a bit exaggerated, Dick Bedesem, Villanova's new coach, appears to have good reasons for his lament as he takes his Wildcats, 3-8 last fall, to visit Maryland's defending Atlantic Coast Conference champs, No. 17 in the preseason Associated Press poll.

Although spiced with a number of interesting intersectional battles, along with four games in various conferences, the opening weekend's 23 games — seven this afternoon, 15 tonight, one Monday night — contain slim pickings for followers of the Top Twenty.

Besides N.C. State and Maryland, only two ranking teams will be in action. Sixth-ranked Penn State meets Temple Saturday night at Philadelphia's Franklin Field while Alabama, ranked No. 2 behind defending national champion Oklahoma, faces Missouri in a nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 9 p.m., EDT) Monday in Birmingham.

Central Michigan, last year's College Division champs, and Fullerton State make their debuts in the University Division today along with Arkansas State, Ball State and Northeast Louisiana. Akansas State entertains Northwestern Louisiana. Ball State hosts Eastern Michigan and Northeast Louisiana is at home against Pacific.

Irwindale hosting drag racing tonight

IRWINDALE — The highly popular AA/Funny Car driver Don "Snake" Prudhomme of Granada Hills will be making his return to Southern California tonight at Irwindale Raceway as the new 1975 National Champion based upon season points.

He, along with two-time National winner Marvin Graham of Oklahoma City, will be the top two racers for the "Back to School Bonanza".

Prudhomme will be locking up against a field of seven other AA/Funny Car drivers in Round Robin action scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Among his opposition will be Mike Halloran (Burbank), Jim Dunn (La Mirada), Jake Johnston (Fullerton) and schoolteacher Gary Densham.

In Top Fuel will be a showdown between Chryslers and Chevrolets to satisfy requests from the fans. Graham will captain the strong Chrysler Hemi team which boosts Rick Ramsey (Los Angeles), Bob Noice (Van Nuys), Dwight Salisbury (Van Nuys) and Don Ewald.

The Chevys feature Larry Dixon (Los Angeles), Stan Shiroma (Bellflower), Ray Stutz (Upland), Howard Haight (Pomona) and Rance McDanial (Fresno).

Wheelstander Richard Schroeder will also be giving a demonstration in his "Bad Bosa Nova". Filling out the program will be an eight-car Pro Gas field along with Bracket I.

Gates open at 3 p.m. and the racing gets underway at 7 p.m.

Racing officials selected

William Mills, Leon Lewis and Barry Whitehead, representing the California Horse Racing Board, will serve in the Stewards' stand during the 14-day meeting that opens Friday at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona.

The list of officials for the 1975 season at the half-mile oval was announced by Fair Association Secretary-Manager Phil D. Shepherd, and also includes John Hartley who will be manning the dual post of Director of Racing and Racing Secretary for the third straight season.

David Samuel returns as Assistant Director of Racing, and James Priddy has been appointed to serve as Assistant Racing Secretary. Racing Secretary for the Quarter and Appaloosa Horses will again be Ronald Hartley.

Richard Wheeler has been named to the post of Clerk of the Scales as he joins a racing officials' roster for the first time, and he will also serve as a placing judge. Priddy, Dean Scarborough and George Taniguchi will also be in the placing judges' stand, and the patrol judges' posts will be manned by Kermit Fields, Richard Valles and Robert Weeks. Valles also serves as paddock judge.

Sending the fields on their way will be starter George Kidd, and the list of officials also includes Marion Hodel, paymaster of purses; R. Scott Jackson and Jay D. Hoop veterinarians; Ray Christensen, timer; Harold F. Dwyer, manager of mutuels; Richard Riley, announcer; and Jeff Tufts, director of racing publicity.

Vikings on tube

By the Associated Press

The Minnesota Vikings' show, a hit in its seasonal television debut, switches to a different time slot and a different day, but director Bud Grant hopes to keep the same format.

The Grant-coached Vikings, who handed the Miami Dolphins their first defeat last Monday night, take on the St. Louis Cardinals at Minnesota tonight.

ABC will televise the game starting at 7 p.m., EDT.

Fran Tarkenton, the star of the show against Miami when he completed 15 of 21 passes for 241 yards and two touchdowns in a 20-7 victory, again will head the Minnesota cast. Quarterback Jim Hart and running back Terry Metcalf are two of the guest stars from St. Louis who have been assigned big parts.

The next-to-last weekend of National Football League exhibition action was kicked off Friday night with Oakland playing at Dallas on national television.

In other games today, Cincinnati was at Detroit in the afternoon while in night games New Orleans is at Pittsburgh, Philadelphia at Los Angeles, Chicago at Miami, Green Bay at Kansas City and Atlanta plays Buffalo at Tampa, Fla.

Sunday it will be the New York Giants vs. Cleveland at Seattle, the New York Jets at Washington, Denver at San Francisco and San Diego at New England.

Baltimore is at Houston Monday night.

Pittsburgh, 2-3 and facing its first losing exhibition season since 1969, will be trying to get things together for the defense of the Super Bowl championship. Terry Bradshaw will start at quarterback for the Steelers, while backup quarterbacks Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam have recovered from injuries and should see some action.

Bobby Scott will start at quarterback for New Orleans, which has lost Archie Manning for from four to six weeks with a chipped bone in his left elbow.

Quarterback Roman Gabriel will be facing his old team when he leads the Eagles against Los Angeles, which has displayed a powerful running attack. Each team is 3-1.

Ken Anderson, who was rested in 30-20 loss to Philadelphia, is scheduled to start at quarterback for Cincinnati while Greg Landy returns as Detroit's No. 1 quarterback because of Bill Munson's shoulder injury.

Chicago will try to further hone a sharp defense and find an offense against the Dolphins, who also have been struggling offensively. The Bears have allowed just 39 points, fewest of the exhibition season, in winning two and losing two. But Chicago has scored only 45, also the league low.

Kansas City will be trying to settle its quarterback situation against Green Bay. Tony Adams completed six of 13 passes and Len Dawson four of eight in sharing duty in 14-6 loss to Los Angeles. Green Bay revealed its quarterback plans for the season Friday by cutting Jerry Tagge. That left John Hadl as starter and Jack Concannon and Carlos Brown as backups.

Fans in Tampa, which will have its own NFL franchise in 1976, will get to see O.J. Simpson run for Buffalo and could get to see rookie Steve Bartkowski start at quarterback for Atlanta.

Craig Morton will get the quarterback call in the first half and Carl Summerell will take over in the second half as the Giants try to win their fifth straight game against Cleveland. New York showed a solid defense in beating Pittsburgh 24-7.

Quarterback Joe Namath, who missed the last three Jets' games, is set to return against Washington, which will be seen on national television. Bill Kilmer had a big game for the Redskins in a 34-13 victory over Detroit, completing 24 of 32 passses for 370 yards and three touchdowns.

Steve Spurrier, Norm Snead and Tom Owen will continue their battle for San Francisco's No. 1 quarterback spot when the 49ers play Denver. Quarterback Charley Johnson is set to make his first start for the Broncos.

San Diego should be at least acclimated for game against New England at Foxboro, Mass. The Chargers spent last week at the Massachusetts Maritime academy after losing 14-9 to St. Louis.

Portland ready

By The Associated Press

The Birmingham Vulcans are strong rushers, but it's the Portland Thunder that's in a hurry to play tonight's World Football League game.

Thunder Coach Greg Barton is anxius to have his team avenge a 25-9 exhibition defeat by the Vulcans—a game Portland led 9-0.

"I honestly believe that if we had kept the starters in, we would have won the game," said Barton. "We manhandled them in the first half."

And the Vulcans manhandled the Thunder in the second half—a pattern that could reappear as Birmingham sets its sights on first place and Portland tries for its second victory in seven games.

Two other contests are scheduled for tonight with the Jacksonville Express, 2-2, facing the Shreveport Steamer, 2-3, and the Philadelphia Bell, 2-3, taking on the Charlotte Hornets, 2-2.

The Southern California Sun, 4-1, meet the San Antonio Wings, 4-2, and the Hawaiians, 2-2, play the Memphis Southmen, 3-1, in Sunday games.

Birmingham quarterback Matthew Reed will spend most of his evening handing off to Johnny Musso, Art Cantrelle and Joe Profit, who key a Vulcans' offense which runs 60 per cent of the time. Since the Thunder is seventh against the rush in the nine-team WFL, Coach Barton may have to wait longer for his revenge against Birmingham.

Portland sports the league's No. 2 quarterback in Don Horn, whose completion average is 61.5 per cent and whose offensive line has permitted only one quarterback sack in 138 passing tries this season. But the Vulcans are No. 1 in league pass defense.

Quarterback Tom Sherman, who has guided two consecutive Charlotte victories, leads the Hornets against the league's worst team in over-all defense. Bell quarterback Bob Davis completed four touchdown passes in last week's 58-39 loss to Southern California, but Saturday he'll face the league' third-best secondary.

The Sun will be going for its fourth straight victory and its first field goal of the season when it takes on the Wings Sunday. Despite a league-leading 34.6 points-per-game average, Southern California has yet to kick a placement.

The Sun, which boasts leading scorer Dave Williams—who caught four TD passes last week—had better attack through the air. San Antonio's rushing defense permits only 79.7 running yards per game.

No admission for CSLA FB

LOS ANGELES — For the first time in Cal State University, Los Angeles history, there will be no admission charged for football games, it was announced by Walt Williamson, acting athletic director.

"We hope this small incentive will bring out more people in the surrounding communities," said Williamson. "Our attendance has been lacking over the past few years and maybe this change will make a difference . . . you sure can't beat the price."

Prior to this season, admission rates were $2 for adults and $1 for students and faculty.

The Diablos open the season at home on Sept. 20 against Southern Utah State University.

Girl stars in youth football

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It's all part of the game, Diane Thompson says, for the boys to tackle her.

The 75-pound bundle of football dynamite is the only girl among 3,500 boys playing in the Pop Warner League in Charlotte.

This is her second season, and she's hoping for a repeat performance of her standout game last year when she chased down a boy carrying the ball, saved a touchdown and won the game.

Diane, 12, plays halfback in the Pee Wee division.

"I was concerned at the first practice last year, but not any more," said Coach Tom Little. "She has good speed, good agility and is a good football player for her age."

Little said the "only static I've had is from people whose sons she beat out for a starting position.

Walnut High boosters planing benefit events

The Walnut High Athletic Booster Club has scheduled two events for the month of September.

Next Saturday the Walnut Boosters will be holding a pancake breakfast to precede Walnut's football scrimmage with Bassett High. The breakfast will begin at 7 a.m. in front of the school snack bar and continue until 11 a.m.

A donation will be taken for the breakfast and will be used to help support the WHS athletic program.

On Sept. 21 the Boosters will be forming a bowling league at the Landmark Bowl in Pomona. There will be a short organizational meeting at 5:45 p.m. and bowling will start at 6:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in the breakfast or the bowling league can contact Phyllis Gardener at (714) 595-5370 for further information.

Ruffian was the fourth filly to win the Triple Crown of her sex. The others were Dark Mirage, Shuvee and Chris Evert.

Cal Poly offense has a new look

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Cal Poly opens its football season a week from tonight at Chico State and the offensive coaches are eagerly awaiting the opportunity to unveil the new look.

Gone are quarterback Jim Zorn, who broke almost all of the school's offensive records during his two-year career, and flashy receivers Andy Sanchez and Ernie Yarbrough.

Coach Andy Vinci knew they wouldn't be back but what he didn't know was he would also lose tailback Michael Harris, who quit school shortly before fall practice began.

So Vinci and his coaches have been busy finding replacements in the skill positions.

But even more effort has been spent building a stronger offensive line.

Because of more power up front plus the inexperience in the backfield, Vinci has adjusted his offense into more of a power attack featuring running over passing.

Even though there is a new group of running backs, backfield coach Rich Paulson believes it should be better than last year. And that is a lot for him to say since Paulson was the top rusher in 1974 with 561 in an injury-shortened campaign.

"Really, the backfield could be the most improved area on the team," Paulson said. "We have a lot more depth this season. It's a young and untested backfield."

Only junior Bernie Evans is back from last year's team.

Paulson named the probable starting lineup. It will consist of tailback Fred Sanders, a freshman from Pasadena's Muir High; fullback Brent Partridge, a product of Golden West College and diveback Aundre Holmes, a transfer from Drake University.

Reserves include fullbacks Tom Thigpen (Fullerton JC) and Ron Jones (Porterville JC); tailbacks Mark Sanders (Harbor) and Ken Robinson, a freshman from Brawley; and divebacks Kirk Reidinger (Santa Ana) and Evans.

Coach Erik Widmark, who handles the quarterbacks and receivers, is always a good one for titles.

He has named receivers Anthony Loville and Teddy Myles "The Spider and Fly" because of their speed.

"Neither Loville nor Myles have much game experience but they'll make up for it with their talent," Widmark said. "However, we're currently way behind in our passing game because we have spent so much time developing a power attack. It takes time to develop the necessary timing — of a new passing combination."

Widmark is excited about tight end Jay Johnson from San Diego Mesa College.

"He is one of the best tight ends Poly has had in years," he said. "We plan to pass the ball more to our tight end this season."

Leo Costa, who directed the attack at the College of Sequoias in Visalia the past two years, will start out as the number one quarterback after winning the job over sophomores Bart Moran and Sammy Ross.

"Costa can't run and he can't throw but he has shown the ability of taking a team down the field across the goal line," Vinci said.

"This guy is really tough," adds another assistant, Tom Hoffman. "He is a pro rodeo roper during the summer and his goal is to become a thrill seeker. He would like to climb the highest mountain or jump off the highest cliff."

Moran and Ross may have more natural talent but Vinci feels Costa is better equipped to handle the power attack.

Hoffman is in charge of the offensive line.

While Poly likes to brag a bit about the size of the line, Hoffman is glad his linemen are losing weight.

"It will help their quickness," he says.

Anchoring the line is senior center Steve Weiss, a three-year letterman from Gladstone High who is currently at 255 pounds.

The starting tackles are a pair of MSAC transfers in Dan Mitchell and Bobby Costeldia. Mitchell (6-5, 270) is a Glendora High product while Costeldia (6-5, 285) played his high school ball at Garey.

"Costeldia should be the best dive blocker in the league," Hoffman said. "If he continues to work hard and watch his weight, he can be a pro prospect."

At the guards are returnee Randy Taylor (6-2, 240) and Doug Fowler (6-5, 275), another Glendora product who has transferred from New Mexico.

Reserves on the line include George Papac (6-6, 280) from Boise State; Mike Walsh (5-10, 185) from Harbor; and freshmen Tom Mondok (6-5, 250) from Glendora and Mike Sooter (6-2, 225) from Sylmar.

The offense can't be complete without mentioning the kicking game.

Alister Crumlish, who kicked nine field goals (including a school record 47-yarder) and 19 of 20 extra points last year, is back but he has stiff competition from Armado Herrera, a walk-on transfer from MSAC.

"Our kicking is unbelieveable," Vinci said. "In competition the other day, both Crumlish and Herrera kicked 77 of 80 field goals."

Herrera can also punt as he is battling Kim Crockett of Pasadena City College for that honor.

Kachina (pronounced kah CHEE nuh) dolls are small wooden dolls made by the Hopi (HOH pee) Indians of the southwestern part of the United States.

The dolls are not toys. They are sacred objects carved and decorated to represent supernatural ancestral spirits of the Hopi people.

There are over 200 different types of Kachinas. Each doll is symbolic of a particular spirit and its role in Hopi life.

Decorations on the dolls of clouds, lightning, the sun and moon have special meanings.

Many are human forms with animal heads — eagles, bears, and so on.

At annual Kachina ceremonies, adults, dressed like the colorful Kachina dolls, hold dances to celebrate visits from the Kachina spirits, who bring the people's prayers to the Hopi gods.

After the ceremonies, the dolls are given to the Hopi children. From the dolls the children learn about tribal rites and of the ancient Kachina spirits.

World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Panel acts on tax shelters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee, after voting to knock down big real estate tax shelters, is set to plow into similar situations on the farm.

The committee plans to resume action with votes next week on farming tax-shelter investment operations.

The panel voted essentially to eliminate real estate tax-sheltering devices beginning next year.

Congressional tax experts say the shelters used by agricultural outsiders, such as business executives looking for a way to make tax-free money legally, are found in cattle feed, the cost of hens for shell eggs or in stud fees for horses.

Other farm shelters are in cattle, mink and hog breeding operations or in some orchards and Christmas tree areas, the experts say.

For instance, drawing on cases from Internal Revenue Service files, the experts said 10 cattle feeding and breeding tax shelters generated a net loss — the chief goal of the nonfarm investors involved — of $9.6 million

"The net loss passed through to all investors as a per cent of initial equity capital contribution ranged from a low of 96.4 per cent to a high of 238.3 per cent," the experts told the committee.

In the committee's first major move of the year in the tax shelter field, the panel voted 24 to 10 Thursday to get rid of most real estate shelters. It tentatively accepted a modified version of a basic proposal for a "limitation on artificial losses."

Congressional tax experts figure this plan could boost the federal government's revenue in the areas currently concerned in real estate tax shelters by roughly $1 billion annually in the early 1980s, with an initial pickup of about $250 million beginning next year.

Committee Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., who recommended the basic plan, is pressing for the panel to develop a wide-ranging tax revision package this year.

Tax shelters are used by persons who put some money into a project with a goal of building up accounting losses which they can use to wipe out their income for tax purposes. The devices usually are used those with substantial incomes outside the areas involved in the shelter.

"In effect, the taxpayer is allowed to defer or postpone the payment of tax on current income, either by offsetting current income with loss deductions attributable to real estate or by receiving a tax-free cash flow from the real estate project, or both," the tax experts said.

TV police officer arrested

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A star in a television police drama has been arrested and booked for investigation of drunken driving, authorities said today.

Robert Fairbairn, 28, who plays young police officer Chris Owens in "The Rookies," was stopped by Los Angeles police in suburban Brentwood Tuesday after he was alleged to have been speeding and crossing a center line.

Police said the actor failed a field sobriety test and was taken to West Los Angeles police jail.

He was released on $315 bail and was ordered to appear in West Los Angeles Municipal Court on or before Sept. 10.

War crimes check asked on Germans

BONN, West Germany (AP) — U.S. authorities have asked the West German government for background information on about 50 German immigrants suspected of having committed war crimes in World War II, the Foreign Ministry said.

The request was passed on to state authorities responsible in each case, a spokesman for the ministry told a newsman. She said because of the bulk of information wanted, it probably would be "some time" before the details would be available.

The U.S. investigation involves persons who either became U.S. citizens after the second World War or are permanent residents in the United States, the spokesman said. The American request for assistance in finding material about them was dated July 14.

Cost to U.S. in Mideast pact

$9 billion in aid for Arabs

WASHINGTON AP) — Israel, Egypt and some other Arab countries would get at least $9 billion in American aid over the next three years as part of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's bargaining for the new Middle East arreement.

The administration, congressional and diplomatic sources who provided the figure emphasized that this is a minimum sum and that it could run much higher as time passes.

Both Israel and Egypt demanded large amounts of assistance before agreeing to the interim settlement, under which the Jewish state surrendered some land on the Sinai Peninsula in exchange for political concessions by Cairo.

Kissinger has already begun lobbying for congressional approval of his economic promises, which breakdown this way:

Israel will get about $2.5 billion the first year, Egypt between $600 million and $800 million.

The second and third years will see Israel receiving a total of $3 billion. Aid to Egypt will be about $2 billion during the two remaining years.

Grants and loans to Syria and perhaps other Arab nations also will be included in the aid package. Only rough estimates have been made for this pending negotiations between Israel and Syria, but they are in the area of $100 million.

Sources said these working figures are minimums and additional costs will increase the total to at least $9 billion during the expected life of the agreement.

Under the program worked out for this year, Israel will receive about $1.6 billion in grants and loans to modernize and expand its armed forces and to build a new defense line in the Sinai.

The other $900 million, including $350 million to replace oil from fields returned to Egypt, will be for economic matters.

Egypt's share for this year will be entirely economic at this stage, with about two-thirds devoted to development assistance and the rest in wheat and other agricultural grants.

In the remaining two years, Israel's aid will be reduced to a total of $3 billion and with an increased share devoted to stabilizing the inflation-ridden Israeli economy.

On the other hand, the $2 billion allotted for Egypt in the last two years of the agreement will show a major share in military aid.

RTD fares up on park-rides

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Commuters will pay an extra 25 cents starting today on Southern California Rapid Transit District park-ride lines.

The new, one-way fare of 75 cents, however, will include parking costs, SCRTD officials said.

A transit district spokesman said monthly park-ride passes on most lines will be raised to $27 each, but this will pay for parking and unlimited riding.

A new way to bolster attendance

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — When Ted Anderson became program chairman for the Waterloo Jaycees, he was told to come up with something to bolster attendance. He hired a prostitute.

Anderson said his goal was to find something exciting that "would bring the people out."

The Jaycees and the University of Northern Iowa are sharing the cost of bringing Georgia Wilkins, a San Francisco prostitute, to Waterloo to make two public appearances.

"It was my idea to invite the Jaycee wives to this program to avoid any flack from them," Anderson added.

On Sept. 23, Miss Wilkins will participate in the first program of the school year in the UNI Controversial Speakers series.

The following night, she will address the Jaycees and their wives.

Miss Wilkins, a member of the national prostitutes' organization known as COYOTE, or "Call Off Your Old Tired Ethics," will be paid $200 for each speech. Her expenses will be covered by the two groups.

Beer firm recalling half a million cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half-a-million cases of canned beer is being recalled by the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. from stores in 17 states because it "tastes funny," the Food and Drug Administration said Friday.

The beer poses no health problems, despite its "off taste," an FDA spokesman said.

The FDA said 515,852 cases of beer manufactured at the Schlitz Brewery in Winston-Salem, N.C., were being withdrawn from the market. The beer carried the lot numbers 11-F, 16-F and 19-F.

Each case contained 24 twelve-ounce cans.

The FDA said the beer was distributed in Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia.

The FDA also announced the recall of pies containing glass fragments and angiographic catheters which may not be sterile.

Table Talk Inc., of Worcester, Mass., told the FDA it believed none of its "Table Talk brand" pineapple and pineapple-cheese ready-to-eat pies remain on the market since the recall began Aug. 8 in New England, New Jersey and New York. The recall involved pies made by Table Talk through Aug. 5.

The Cordis Corp. of Miami, Fla. estimated 200 catheters being recalled may remain on the market. They include lot numbers 3045095, 3045144 and 114000.

The FDA said defective package seals may result in nonsterility of the catheters which are inserted into blood vessels.

Father, two children die in home fire

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — When fire broke out in the home of Warren Crawford's family, he stumbled through the choking smoke, trying to rescue a daughter and son from their second-story bedroom. All three died.

Crawford's wife, Lois, 40, and three other children escaped during predawn darkness Wednesday.

But the bodies of Crawford, 39, and two of the Crawford children — Christine, 3, and Michael, 6 — were found in the second-story bedroom.

Kathy Crawford, 12, and her sister, Marie, 10, jumped from their second-story bedroom to the roof of a car in the driveway. Mrs. Crawford handed another daughter, Therese, 8, to a neighbor standing atop the auto before being pulled to safety.

Kathy broke her foot. Mrs. Crawford and the two other surviving children were treated for cuts and smoke inhalation.

Firemen said they had not determined the cause of the blaze, which started in the downstairs living room.

Briton sees reduction in inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain's present double-digit inflation will be down "into single figures by the end of next year," but full recovery will not be immediate anywhere in the world, British Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey said.

Healey, in a speech before the annual meeting of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund, said economic recovery must be led by the United States, West Germany and Japan.

"Britain is compelled to wait until others have broken new ground of recovery," he said.

Healey warned against expecting an immediate economic change. "We all have to face the fact that the coming winter will be a difficult one and we would be wise to warn our people of this fact," he said.

Caged, but still the good life

Doc Peirsol

It happened in Pomona

Few of you will believe it possible but just a little over 70 years ago, right here in Pomona, you could have purchased an air tight iron stove from Bradley & Russell, 215 West Second street, — a stove with heavy lining and an ornamental urn on top, — for only $1.75.

But the good life, 1904 style in Pomona, didn't end with air tight stoves. At Booth, Vaughn & Sons, men's clothiers, Michaels Stern & Co. TEN DOLLAR SUITS were being featured as the last word in men's fine wearing apparel. However, if you wanted something a bit less pretentious, Booth, Vaughn & Sons would gladly sell you an Oregon Cassimere BUSINESS SUIT for only $6.50.

E.J. Merriam was advertising 7 bars of soap for 25 cents; a 50 lb. sack of Table Salt for 23 cents; and Armours Dried Beef for 10 cents a jar.

If you were looking for entertainment, you could enjoy a special treat at the Fraternal Aid Opera House where, on Tuesday November 22, 1904, Beaty Bros. were presenting a "WORLD FAMOUS MOVING PICTURE SHOW consisting of $50,000 worth of the latest moving pictures positively guaranteed not to quiver or blur." In addition you got Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mounts, "the world's greatest vocalists in their special rendition of all the latest illustrated songs." —All that for a ticket costing 25 cents, 35 cents or 50 cents depending on how far forward you wished to be seated.

And suppose you were planning on taking a vacation. Where better could you go than to visit our State Capitol in Sacramento where, as advertised in The Pomona Daily Revew, you could stay at the Western Hotel located in the central business district? A free bus would meet your train and take you to your quarters which were guaranteed to be first class in every detail. —You got both room and board for only $1.00 to $1.50 per day.

Postage Stamp Day scheduled

By GUSTAV DETJEN, JR.

The German Philatelists Association is celebrating Sept. 21, 1975, as 1975 Postage Stamp Day, and to commemorate the occasion Germany is issuing a special stamp. The 10pf release shows the posthouse sign of Royal Prussian establishments for mail transport from the year 1776. To be done in multicolor offset on white fluorescent postage stamp paper, there will be 50 stamps to the sheet. For information on availability in your area, contact the World Wide Philatelic Agency, 116 West 32nd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10001

Two new definitive stamps have been issued by Australia to meet new postage charges to be introduced. The values of the two stamps will be 18c and 45c and the designs will show Australian wildflowers — specifically the Hilichrysum Thomsonii and a Callistemon Teretifolius. Contact The Australian Stamp Bureau, 76 South Orange Avenue, South Orange, N.J. 07079 for added details.

SAILING SHIPS

Four eight-cent stamps will commemorate Canada's coastal ship which have contributed to the safety, prosperity and independence of Canadians. The stamps feature the BEAVER in dark green, the NEPTUNE in slate blue, the WILLIAM D. LAWRENCE in dark sepia and the QUADRA in a lighter sepia. A total of 26 million stamps, printed setenant will be issued on September 24. To obtain two first day covers, each with a block of four of the sailing ships, send $1.04 in Canadian funds to Philatelic Service, Canada Post, Ottawa, Canada K1A 0B5. Minimum cash order is $1.

MAIL SORTING

The Republic of South Africa will issue a 4c value to draw attention to their automatic mail sorting process. The attractive stamp will be released on September 11th. For details on ordering, write Philatelic Services, GPO, 0001 Pretoria, Republic of South Africa.

FIRST DAY COVER

In connection with the forthcoming release of the USPS Bicentennial stamps, the Philatelic Journalist is offering an attractive cacheted first-day cover. Prominently featured is the current Postal Service insignia, along with appropriate wording. The cover will be franked with the four new commemoratives and will be cancelled on the first day of issue, September 3, 1975, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Orders for covers should be sent to the Philatelic Journalist, Box PS, Clinton Corners, N.Y. 12514. Cost is $1.50 per cover, and it is requested that a SASE be sent as well.

Fate put Fischer in limelight

We described, previously, how Alexander Alekhine engineered the downfall of Jose Capablanca, up to then a legendary superman.

In contemporary chess, Fischer has a similar reputation — and for good reason. Who can match his historically unique achievements?

For example: He startled everyone in 1964 when he won 11 straight games in an 11-round U.S. championship. Yet there were scoffers who, with some logic, pointed to the relatively less than super quality of some of his opponents. Obviously, they demurred, he could not get comparable results against top European competition.

But in 1971, Bobby achieved the seeming impossible by beating Bent Larsen and Mark Taimonov in quarter and semi-final challenger matches, by scores of 6-0 both times. This was followed by a six-and-a-half to two-and-a-half victory over ex-world champion, Tigran Petrosian, and Fischer was the challenger.

Nevertheless, with a slight twist of fate he may never have played Spassky. If Petrosian had played more aggressively and alertly in two of their games, the Armenian might easily been leading early in the match by a 3-0 score in decisive games (with two draws). Fischer undoubtedly then would have lost the match. Instead, he drew those two games, and with the score two-and-a-half to two-and-a-half, he took the match with a four-victory spurt (in itself, unheard of against Petrosian).

What a difference: World champion rather than defeated also-ran! Though even if Fischer had lost, his defenders would have had a good case in his defense. Bobby had played the first five games with the flu, after declining to postpone the match. It is universally agreed that when he began to win he simultaneously became better and visibly more energetic.

Now, three years later, Bobby has not since played a solitary game. He is no longer world champion, and even his supremecy is in doubt. The courageous young Karpov has registered ever increasingly fine performances, while Fischer, it is feared by some, has allowed his skills to atrophy.

Reykjavik recedes into the past. Fischer the triumphant champion is now a wispy ghost. A match between him and Karpov seems less and less likely to materialize. People are forgetting Bobby — his presence in chess becomes small and smaller.

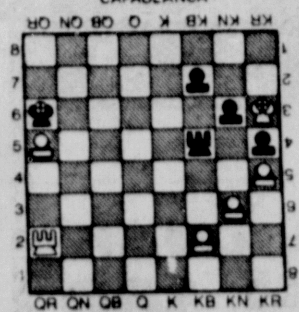

Problem

In our column last week, we cited the decisive position in the final game of Alekhine's victory over Capablanca. The moves chosen by him, though they attained the win, were not the most efficient. Here is that position again:

Do you see the quickest win for white? We will reveal the answer next week, though we presently leave you with the following hint: white wins by zugzwang, i.e., tying up the black pieces.

Reverse painting is a plum

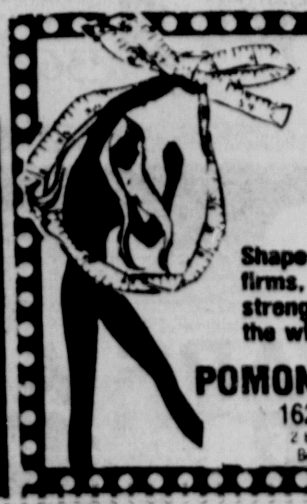

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

Q. Can you tell me anything about my old painting done on glass? The scene is painted onto the backside, and actually resembles finger painting. My husband remembers seeing this painting hanging in his parents' home for over 40 years. It is still in its original frame and in perfect shape. Thanks for any information you have on this type of art. Mrs. S.S.

A. — The art of reverse painting on glass has been practiced for centuries, with religious scenes predominating. During the early years of the last century, much reverse painting was done in England, France and Holland, and imported to America. It was during this period that American artists began creating reverse paintings on glass to complement mirrors as well as clocks. Today, many of the more primitive types of reverse paintings are classified as a form of American folk art, and real plums exist for the collectors taking the time to make the discovery.

All caged in, but still leading the good life

Story by Joseph H. Firman
PB staff writer

"ENDANGERED ANIMALS."

This sign, posted in front of the cages, caves and pens of more than 50 vanishing species in residence at the Los Angeles Zoo, alerts the public to the fact that the mammals and birds face extinction in the wild, and also focuses on an increasingly important function of zoos throughout the world today — the preservation and breeding of species that are dying out.

A major part of the Los Angeles Zoo's operational program is the preservation of endangered wildlife species, many of which now survive only because they live in zoos or special preserves, according to Warren D. Thomas, director of the zoo.

Besides protecting and providing for endangered animals, the Los Angeles Zoo carries on an active program of breeding them. In 1967, for example, it acquired three Arabian oryxes, a rare African antelope facing extinction. Since that year, the zoo breeding program has resulted in 13 births. Including this small herd, plus one at the zoo in Phoenix, Ariz., and one in Saudi Arabia, experts estimate there are only about 100 of the species in the world.

The Los Angeles Zoo is owned by the city and operated by the recreation and parks department. The first city zoo was opened in Lincoln Park (then known as Eastland Park) in 1885. It was moved to Griffith Park in 1912, then replaced by the present $10 million zoo in 1966.

The zoo's 113 acres include a children's zoo, the exhibit areas, administration building, the Andrew Norman Education Center, commissary, maintenance building, health center and parking lots. Planning is under way to expand the present boundaries into several hundred acres in Griffith Park. Among the projects programmed is a new primate exhibit to house the gorillas, orangutans and chimpanzees, one of the finest great ape collections in the world. At present the Los Angeles Zoo has more than 2,000 mammals, birds and reptiles representing almost 1,000 species.

The zoo is supported in part by the city, in part by admissions ($1.25 for persons 16 and over, 50 cents 12 to 15) and in part by the Greater Los Angeles Zoo Association, a non-profit group organized to support and assist the zoo. Among the association's contributions to the zoo have been a rare Indian rhinoceros and the Arabian oryxes mentioned earlier.

The zoo is divided into five continental areas allowing visitors to walk through the habitat of animals from North America, South America, Africa, Eurasia and Australia. Also of interest are the aviary, with walk-through flight cage, the aquatic section and the reptile house.

Each continental area is planted with botanical specimens indigenous to the region. To further enhance the natural environment, specially constructed moats and barriers permit safe, unobstructed views of the animals.

The great number of "endangered animal" notices at the zoo is dramatic and thought provoking. In the African area, the largest continental display, signs warn that species in danger of becoming extinct include the white rhinoceros, lowland gorilla, brown hyena, addax, Arabian oryx and the pygmy hippopotamus. Endangered species in the Eurasian section include Siberian tigers, snow leopards, orangutans and the Przewalski horse, the small, shaggy ancestor of almost all modern species.

Other creatures facing extinction are the tule elk, grizzly bear, Alaskan polar bear, golden eagle, Brazilian tapir, tree kangaroo and the American alligator.

The zoo's active breeding program continually adds to the population in the various continental areas. One of the most exciting was the birth last May of a 125-pound "baby boy" to Metu, a 12-year-old Asian elephant on loan from the Portland (Ore.) Zoo. (Mother weighs 6,500 pounds.) The newcomer was the first elephant born at the Los Angeles Zoo, and is notable for being the first Asian elephant "second generation" captive birth in the Western Hemisphere.

Zoo keepers may be passing out cigars again soon — Metu's half-sister, Hanako, is pregnant.

The Los Angeles Zoo is located at the intersection of the Ventura and Golden State freeways. It is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily, except Christmas.

Zoo keepers Mark Hill, left, and Jerry Brewer measure Methuselah, the zoo's oldest American alligator. Almost 10 feet long.

Zebras and giraffes share a compound in the Eurasian section.

Portrait traces brilliant life of Sarah Bernhardt

By R. E. MORSBERGER

SARAH BERNHARDT by William Emboden. Macmillan, $12.95.

(Robert E. Morsberger is professor of English at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

For 60 years, Sarah Bernhardt was not only the world's most celebrated actress but an incredibly talented, energetic, and colorful woman whom Edmond de Goncourt called "the most remarkable phenomenon of the 19th Century."

The illegitimate daughter of a Jewish Dutch courtesan, she received the applause of monarchs and earned millions that she lavishly spent on lovers, theatrical ventures, and extravagant living.

Her roles became legendary — Phedre, Tosca, Marguerite Gauthier in "La Dame aux Camelias," the Empress Theodora, Cleopatra — rendered unforgettably in that golden, powerful voice that Lytton Strachey described as "a superhuman resonance which shook the hearer like a leaf in the wind . . . there was more than gold, there was thunder and lightning, there was heaven and hell."

There were these qualities in her life as well. In addition to acting and theatre management, she painted and sculpted with professional skill and had the first one-woman art show in London.

She wrote novels, plays, autobiographies, drama reviews, and newspaper columns. Though barely five-feet tall, she had an iron constitution and in indefatigable energy that she expended in flying over Paris in a balloon, playing with pet pythons, playing the piano and guitar, fencing, world tours, tennis, a performance at San Quentin prison, and a scandalous succession of lovers, many of whom were her leading actors or impressarios, and by one of whom she had an illegitimate son.

Her marriage to a morphine addict was a tragic mistake, but she remained devoted to him for the duration of his brief life.

During the Franco-Prussian War, she established a hospital, nursed the wounded, and almost starved herself to feed the defenders of France. A generation later, when Germany pleaded to be included in one of her tours, she demanded as her price the return of Alsace-Lorraine. During the trial of Dreyfus, she proclaimed his innocence, persuaded Zola to write in the Captain's behalf, and defended Zola from a murderous mob.

Though the divine Sarah slept in a coffin, she retained her youthful vitality and beauty into her advanced years. At the age of 56, she triumphed as L'Aiglon, the teen-age son of Napoleon, and as a radiant Roxane in the debut of "Cyrano." At 61, she played Pelleas (and playfully mashed a raw egg into the hand of Melisande, played by Mrs. Patrick Campbell), at 63, she portrayed Prince Charming, at 65 she won an ovation as Joan of Arc announcing her age as 19, and at 67, she filmed her Marguerite Gauthier.

She made eight movies, most notably "Queen Elizabeth." The diminutive beauty who could dominate the stage played a number of male roles and was a dazzling success as Lorenzo de Medici, Hamlet, and Cyrano himself.

Her vitality was matched by her courage. In 1905, she injured her right leg while leaping off a wall in "Tosca." It never healed, and for the next nine years she acted while in continual pain, until gangrene made amputation above the knee necessary when she was 70.

Instead of retiring, she returned to stage and screen, performed for troops at the front, and at the age of 76 was a success in "Daniel" as a 30-year-old man. But she never fully recovered from the gangrene and was in constant pain from uremic poisoning in her final years. She died as she wished — en scene, while filming a movie.

William Emboden's pictorial biography reconstructs the life and times of the divine Sarah (1844-1923). The text is concise, giving the outline but not recreating La Bernhardt in depth, but the illustrations are a feast.

Someone said of the pictures in Sarah's film of "Camille" that they "fairly crackle with life and project wireless messages to the spectators." This is true of the illustrations for this book, which is reason enough to recommend it.

Armenian rediscovers his heritage

PASSAGE TO ARARAT, By Michael J. Arlen. Farrar, Strauss & Girous. $8.95.

His Armenian parents named him Dikran Kouyoumijian. But at the age of 21 he changed his name to Michael Arlen, living in France, England and then America, achieving success as the author of such books as "The Green Hat." There was little of the Armenian about him in later life.

His son, Michael J. Arlen, grew up thinking of himself as English, and then American. He knew little of his Armenian cultural heritage. But when he turned 40, the son was asked to speak to an Armenian group in New York City and agreed.

After the talk an old man told Arlen, "You are Armenian. It is not such a strange thing to be an Armenian." It was then Michael J. Arlen knew it was time to reclaim his heritage.

"Passage to Ararat" is the highly personal, immensely readable story of that search.

Arlen began with an intensive reading of books telling about Armenia and Armenians, and ended with a revealing trip to Armenia itself, an ancient nation that now was "a tiny island in the ocean of the Soviet Union."

Arlen's rediscovery of his Armenian origins is most interesting, often touching, because through this search he also was able to come to terms with his late father, a man he had never really understood.

While Arlen's book is largely a personal memoir, it also is crammed with facts about Armenia and its culture.

One of the earliest of recorded races, the Armenians were to have only a minor minute in the sun before embarking on a trip through the ages that was to be largely marked by violence and genocide.

Arlen's recounting of the long suffering of his people is disquieting, but urgently readable.

Author describes complex Raleigh

By VONNE ROBERTSON
P-B Staff Writer

SIR WALTER RALEIGH, by John Winton, published by Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, $15.

A beautifully illustrated but complex biography of Sir Walter Raleigh, a court favorite of Queen Elizabeth I who was later beheaded on the orders of James I, this book is best designed for the researching student or teacher.

The highly detailed book delves into the complex life of the man whose roles as a soldier, sailor, explorer, poet, patron of the arts and controversial court figure seemed to conflict with each other.

His complex life, on the other hand, appear to reflect the uncertain times in which Raleigh was born.

The author, John Winton, points out the many contradictions in Raleigh's character. He was the most widely traveled of all of Queen Elizabeth's courtiers, yet his major expeditions to North and South America where he founded colonies were considered failures because he did not bring back gold.

He was supremely ambitious and possessed a keen wit, yet he frequently jeopardized his career with blunt honesty and unpopular stands. His reputation as a social climber turned friends into enemies.

Raleigh was a favorite in Elizabeth's court and was an unusually handsome man. But when James I ascended the throne, Raleigh's fortunes took a turn for the worse.

He was imprisoned, then released to lead an expedition to Orinoco.

When this trip turned into a failure, Raleigh was again jailed. He died by the ax of the headsman on Oct. 29, 1617, and became a national hero after his death.

Raleigh's life and times have long interested historians. This book provides many insights and goes into obscure details which will interest fans of England and Englishmen of the 17th Century.

Music merchant and pianist Ralph Pierce has reason to be excited these days.

His Pomona music store — Ralph Pierce Music, 822 N. Garey Ave. — has gone into the business of rebuilding vintage pianos.

Pierce says the process is painstaking, involving addition of new piano strings which have to be custom-made, "like the original." Replacing the old keys is another major effort, he adds.

"It's quite a project, but it's interesting," Pierce said.

A visitor to the Pomona store might be shown an old Mason and Hamblin piano, vintage 1930s, being rebuilt by technicians.

Francis Mehaffey and Steve Partridge are the technicians heading Pierce's service department.

"Mostly, we service pianos we plan to sell, but we also send repairmen out to tune pianos in people's homes," noted Pierce.

A classical pianist and a former Pomona College music teacher, Pierce marvels at old pianos, comparing them to classic automobiles. "They just don't depreciate."

A 70- or 80-year-old piano can be rebuilt and sold for several times the original cost, he declared.

For years, of course, Pierce has also sold new pianos, notably Yamahas which he rates as "the best in the world."

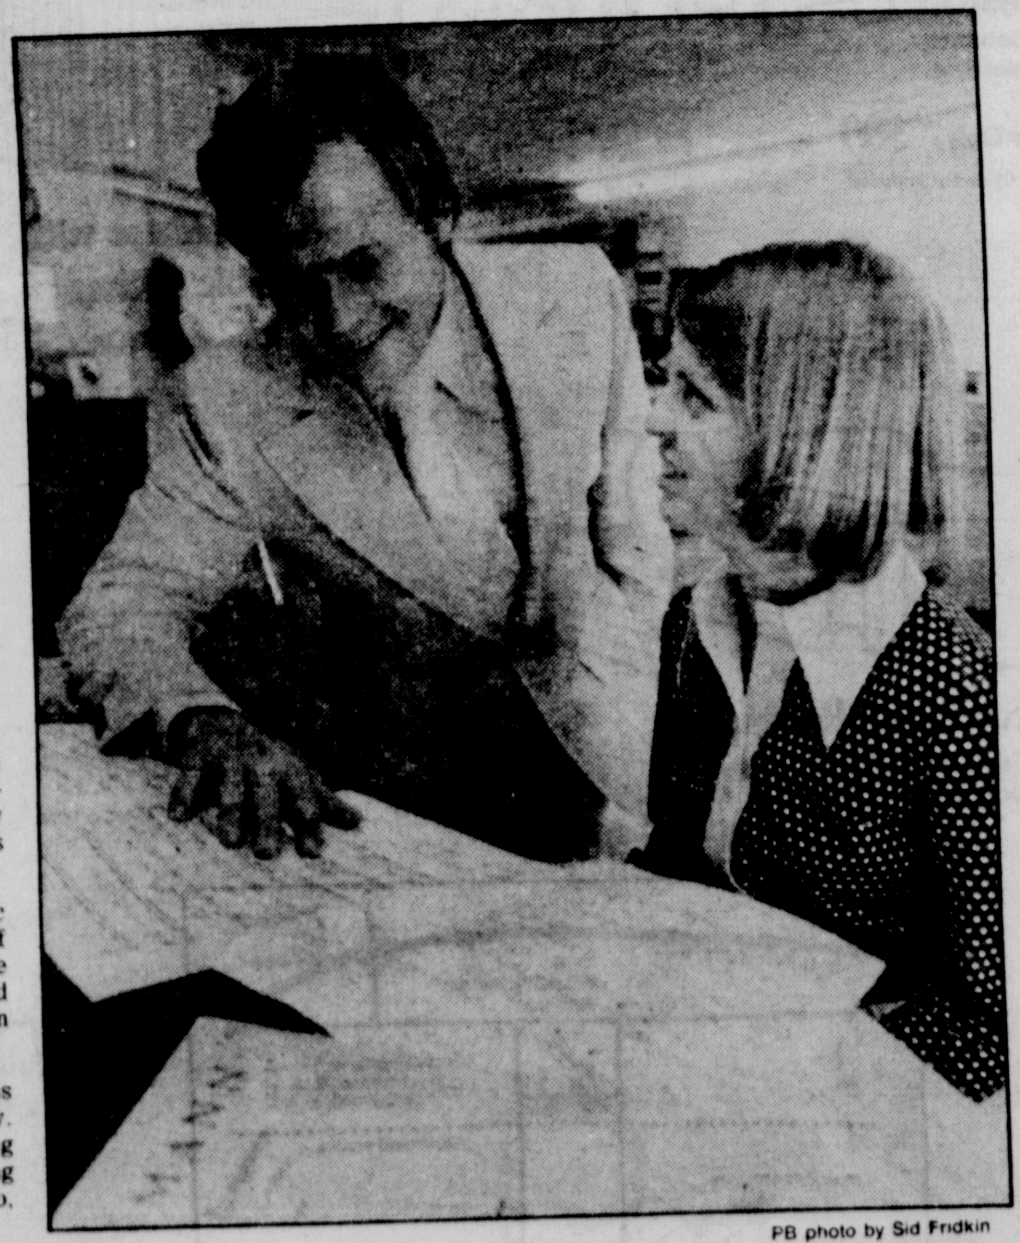

His store was first established in Claremont in 1961, only stocking a few pianos then. It relocated to 435 E. Holt Ave., Pomona, and was there for six years before moving to its present location a year ago.

The store is limited almost exclusively to classical music. The sheet music department not only serves valley residents, but persons all around the country. "We have a good mail order business," says Pierce.

The store also has a studio where piano instruction is offered. Danny Daniel and Natalie Higgins are the two teachers.

In addition, the Music Teachers Association of Pomona Valley and the Piano Technicians Guild hold regular meetings in the music outlet.

Pierce says his business has grown considerably. "This was originally going to be a bit of moonlighting while I was teaching piano, but it got out of hand."
